

We are compelled, by dire necessity to appeal to the generosity of our subscribers for payment of all, or part of what they are indebted to us.

To the Democrats of Centre County.

You are requested to meet in your respective townships on Saturday the 23d day of August instant, and elect delegates, to meet at the house of John Rankin in Bellefonte, on the Wednesday following, to fix on suitable persons for COUNTY OFFICERS.

By order of the Committee of Correspondence.

We refer our readers to the last page of this paper for a full and complete elucidation of the Effigy-making business.

The editor of the Millin Eagle complains that he did not get our last paper. We can't help that.

From every quarter of the state, news of the most cheering kind flows upon us. Mr. Shulze, the candidate of democracy and of the people, will unquestionably be elected governor by an overwhelming majority.

If room would permit, we would give our democratic brethren a sample of federal hopes and expectations. In order to ascertain what confidence is to be placed in their assertions & calculations, it would be only necessary to republish the letters written by Dr. Curtin to Maxwell and Hamilton.

Now people of Pennsvalley, does not the Doctor lie like the vengeance? You know that he does.

Citizens of Bellefonte—it is you that are acquainted with this driving defamer, and can testify as to the truth of his assertions—say, do one of you believe his statement? We could name at least one hundred in this county that voted for Hiester, that will now support Shulze, and we challenge him to name ten that voted for Findlay, that will now support Gregg.

The federal Corresponding Committee of this county, cry out very lustily against legislative influence, legislative caucus's, &c. It matters not what subject they begin with, they always wind up with the same stale cry.

The truth is, that Andrew Gregg is altogether the legislative caucus candidate; being nominated by the federal members of the legislature, before it adjourned.

In addition to that, we have the electioneering of the members of the Lewistown Convention, with those who rode in the stage with them, before Mr. Gregg was publicly nominated at Lewistown.

"I was returning from Columbia, where I had been attending to my fishery; and took passage in the Harrisburg mail-stage, for Bellefonte via Lewistown. I found that my fellow passengers were from Philadelphia and Lebanon, one of whom was Jacob Haldeman, going to Lewistown, as they said, 'to make a Governor.'" his cranium with the exalted idea of making governors; and as for the rest of his body, there was no room for any thing else, except a good deal of malice for Mr. Shulze, which must have forced its way in.

knew how. Upon the whole, a dirtier set of fellows, and a more unprincipled set of characters, I have rarely met with; and I did not hesitate to tell them, I could never reconcile it to my conscience to vote for any man they would nominate.

After I arrived at Lewistown, I met a man from Pittsburg, who said he was 61 years of age, and weighed 275 lbs. He commenced electioneering with me for Gregg, but he found it useless and gave it up.

I understood that they "lived so fast," that some of them had to borrow money to carry them on; but I begin to think that this money was not borrowed, but paid to them for their services.

FOR THE PATRIOT.

Alas, poor federalism; how degraded you have become. Who would have thought in the year 1797 & '98 that in 25 years, your name, which you then prided in, should become a reproach, and be disowned by you.

A FEDERALIST OF '98; OF THE OLD STAMP.

FOR THE PATRIOT.

This is the conclusion of one of the "family" resolutions at their meeting on the 4th of July; and it was their constant cry in 1820.

When Hiester made use of the words I have mentioned in his address, it induced some democrats who were in office to apply to be continued.

reappointed, and whether he is carrying bags to the Federal Mill" as Gregg said, we cannot tell. Certain it is, tho' that the Gentleman with whom Gregg had this conversation, who values his principles, declines going to the mill himself since that.

THE NEXT GOVERNOR.

We solicit attention to a few facts, for the truth of which we appeal to the friends of Mr Gregg.

It is a fact, that Simon Snyder was nominated as a candidate for the office of Governor, by a "legislative caucus."

It is a fact that the federal Editors of newspapers abused and vilified the character of Simon Snyder as grossly as they now do that of John Andrew Shulze.

And that it is now universally admitted, even by those same federal Editors, (whether hypocritically or otherwise, we will not pretend to determine.) that Pennsylvania never had a better Governor than Simon Snyder.

From the foregoing facts, it is undeniable that these editors were so much under the influence of party rancor and the lust of office, that they slandered and calumniated a most reputable citizen: And we aver that they are now treating Mr. Shulze with equal injustice.

[But to allege, as the federalists do, that Mr. Shulze was so nominated, is a gross perversion of truth. In every county in the state the democratic citizens were called together to select special delegates for the purpose of nominating a suitable candidate for governor, and the result, was that the largest convention that ever met in Pennsylvania was produced.

"The prospects in this county are more favorable every day for Mr. SHULZE. Armstrong county will undoubtedly give a majority of least 600 for the democratic candidate.

LOSS OF THE UNITED STATES BRIG ENTERPRIZE

By the arrival yesterday of the ship Douglass, in 14 days from Caracoa, we have received the following letter from a friend, giving the particulars of the loss of the United States brig Enterprize.

Caracoa, July 10, 1823.

Sir: It becomes my painful task to inform you of the loss of the United States brig Enterprize, on the morning of the 9th instant.

On the morning of the 8th instant, we swept out of the harbour of Porto Cabello, and at 3 P. M. a light breeze sprung up, at which time we were still in sight of that port.

The weather thick, the land not then visible, and a heavy wind driving her on the breakers. The sails were furled at once, the boats hoisted out, the kedgie, the stream and bower anchors immediately carried out with a long scope of cable, and let go in deep water.

I forbear to make any further reflections upon this unfortunate occurrence, than to state my conviction, in justice to the parties concerned, that when the affair shall have been investigated, it will result in their entire exculpation from censure, and be viewed as one of those unforeseen casualties, against which no human prudence could guard.

I arrived at this place in a small shallop, with an officer of the brig, to take measures for the relief of the crew, and for their transportation to the United States.

It is but justice to remark, that as soon as the accident was known in this island, every assistance that humanity could suggest was promptly afforded by the government of the Island, and by our consul, Mr. Parker.

Very respectfully, sir,

Your obedient servant

THOMAS RANDALL.

In addition to the above, we may state that the accounts received yesterday from the wreck say that all the guns had been landed and would be brought down to the island, together with the stores saved in the vessels despatched for that purpose.

His excellency the Governor, on being made acquainted with the misfortune which had befallen the Enterprize, immediately tendered the assistance of the ship of war on the station, but was informed that all the efforts to save the vessel would be unavailing.

The Enterprize carried 14 guns, and was commanded by captain Gallagher.

From the N. Y. E. Post, July 23.

Reported Victory of Mina.—The brig Hannah of Eastport, capt. Mason, arrived here this afternoon, in 30 days from Santa Cruz, Teneriffe, brings information that on the day preceeding his leaving the Island, 22 June, the English packet had arrived at Oratavo, the captain of which stated, that General Mina with 8000 men, had attacked a French corps of 12,000, which he defeated, taking
