

robustly their testimony? People of Pennsylvania, remember that Andrew Gregg's Democracy, is the Democracy of the Hartford Convention; and surely you will not place it in the executive chair!

THE ELECTION PROSPECTS

Become brighter and brighter each succeeding day. Berks as well as Bucks county will give a majority for J. Andrew Shulze, the Man of the People, and the Democratic Candidate. The farmers, we are well informed, are rising en masse in opposition to Gregg. They have no notion of a Bank Governor. The Agricultural Interest has suffered too heavily, by the Letter of Forty Banks, to think of supporting a friend to Bank Interest. "Make Gregg Governor," says the Farmers, "and we shall have another Letter of Forty Banks." True, and another litter of STATE LOANS. Make Gregg Governor, and your State Debt will in a short time become enormous; and every Farmer knows, that the Land is always the pledge, and the only pledge for a State Loan. The payment of State Debts must always fall upon the proprietors of land, as well as the Tax which all Banks necessarily levy upon the Farmer!

Columbian Observer

From the Washington (Pa) Reporter
S. J. SNYDER AND AN DRAW GREGG.

Simon Snyder was taken from the legislative department to be made governor—Andrew Gregg from the executive appointment. Simon Snyder was the candidate of the democrats. Andrew Gregg opposed him violently and became a federal candidate. Simon Snyder supported the war and government and county by his influence, and appear among the troops personally in arms. Andrew Gregg wrote letters and used his influence to paralyze the government, to degrade the country, to assist the enemy, and leagued himself personally with the Hartford convention men to dissolve the union in time of war, for that was their designs. Simon Snyder refused to sign the bill for the batch of Banks which have ruined the prosperity and credit of Pennsylvania, and gave his manly, sensible, and patriotic objections against them. Andrew Gregg patronized the banking system, and became President of the Bellefonte or Centre county bank—received his share of the profits resulting from the ruin of his neighbors, and permitted it to diddle his customers out of fifty per cent of their money, without saying why or wherefore. Though there is a law against taking people's money under false pretences—as well as gambling and Pharo banks.

His friends pretend for him that he is not responsible, because as president he could not control the managers of the bank. They are prepared to say too, that if governor, he would not also be responsible for the corruption and mismanagement of his administration. Did he or would he resign? I guess he did and would receive the salary—the wages of iniquity—and the people in both cases might whistle—and as Dr. Franklin says, pay dear for their whistle too.

The federal ticket which was formed for this county, on Tuesday last, appears to have disappointed the "blissful dreams" of several of our politicians. One of them in particular, we are informed, feels his consequence very much injured, in the nomination of his neighbor. So much did he calculate on a nomination, that he already fancied himself seated in the capitol, making speeches to the astonished multitude, and had actually hired an additional clerk to sell the notions, while he should be attending to the concerns of the state.

Penn. Intelligencer.

From the Pittsburg Statesman.

We understand that the federalists in the eastern part of the state have lost all hopes of electing Gregg. They say if he is elected, he must have a larger vote in the Western part of the state than Hester received in 1820. If this is what they depend upon, we can assure them they rest to a broken stick. We feel confident that Mr. Shulze will have 10,000 majority west of the mountains.
