

Local Department.

BELLEVILLE, PA.

Wednesday Morning, February 3, '99.

The Drug Store of F. P. Green will be removed, April 1st, 1899, from Brookerhoff's row, to the new Hotel of Bush & McLain, over the creek. Jan. 20th.

In two weeks we will commence the publication of the History of the 49th Reg't Pa. Vols., in the Republican.

A special meeting of the Republican Club will be held at 7 1/2 P. M., on Saturday next, at the Reading Room. All are urged to be present.

Brookerhoff Row.—In room No. 1 of this splendid building will be found the Drug Store of F. S. Wilson. It is open at all hours, and Mr. Wilson, or his gentlemanly clerk, Mr. James Hillibish, is always on hand to attend to business.—See advertisement.

Tinsaw.—The oldest and best tinware establishment in Belleville is that of our friend W. S. Wolf, on Allegheny street. Mr. Wolf has carried on the tin and spouting business for over thirty years in this place, and has established a reputation for honesty and fair dealing of which he may well be proud.

Some one, unfortunate like our friend Kurtz, living up Bufo's Run, had his smoke house robbed of meat two nights ago. The meat was tracked, by means of the hooks dropped by the way, for some distance, but, as yet, we have heard of no arrests. Men—lock your smoke houses if you have any meat.

We expect soon to receive a fine Gordon job press, and will be able to fill all orders for work. Our friends can hurry up their orders, and our subscribers the cash, in view of this. Prompt payment is a necessity in printing, as we pay cash for everything. If you have not sent us the two dollars, do so.

Persons receiving papers hereafter will understand that they are booked as subscribers, and that we send out none now as advertisements or specimens. If any of our readers whom we have booked as subscribers are tired of us, we will discontinue on notice. We do not desire to impose the Republican on any one.

An honest German Juror, in the libel suit against F. G. Meek, on being interrogated as to how that juror, an honest man, could render such a verdict, and acquit Meek, said: Oh! we merely found him not guilty, so far as the fine and imprisonment were concerned, but guilty of libel so far as it concerned the payment of costs.

New Paper.—Belleville Republican is the title of a new paper just started at Belleville, by W. W. Brown and A. B. Hutcheson. This new candidate for public favor gives promise of success. It is ably edited and neatly printed, and Republican in politics. We wish the editors success in their enterprise.—Baltimore Journal.

We think the cows on Howard street must have read our local regarding them and become indignant thereat, for they have redoubled their efforts to be disagreeable, and have succeeded admirably. Anybody needing good manure would do well to shovel up what the pavements on Howard street would be more ornamental without. Who is benefited by making a cow-yard of that street, anyhow?

Vol. I No. 1, of the Belleville Republican has been placed upon our table by the publishers. We welcome its advent, and bespeak for it success. It is neatly typographically sound and able editorially, and promises to be an efficient lever in the overthrow of the old fogy politics of Centre county. Messrs. W. W. Brown and A. Boyd Hutcheson, Editors and Proprietors.—Telegraph, Millburg, Pa.

WHAT WE HEARD A CHAP SAY.—There is a case in town who sarcastically claims to be religious. This chap is endeavoring to create petty disturbances and vulgar fun, inviting thereby merited punishment to create sympathy from the public, and be considered a martyr. We should think if he had the other muzzle he recommended to the dog-gery applied to his snout, it would prevent the escape of more filth and dirt than could be found in the hell referred to.

Would his confederate the dory Keor to have his muzzle applied so ignominiously?

Hon. John Scott.—We learn from the Pittsburgh Commercial that John Scott, who was elected to the U. S. Senate on the 20th inst., was renominated at his residence in Huntington, by the Silver Cornet Band of that place. The people of Huntington are proud of Hon. John Scott, and they have reason to be, for he is a first class man, an honor to his native town, and to the State as well. And while we join in the general jubilee over his election, we would not forget, and we do not wish our readers to forget, that J. & J. Harris, two very excellent citizens of our town, continue to sell Hardware of all kinds at their cheap store in the Brookerhoff row. Give them a call. See advertisement.

Gen. Grant.—It is said that General Grant returned from Baltimore to Washington on the 22nd ult. It is also stated that he went directly to his house without visiting any headquarters. This is funny, ain't it? There is one thing we are free to assert that, notwithstanding all the queer and funny things that are said about Gen. Grant, he could not visit Belleville and return to Washington without first calling at the cheap store of Burnsides and Thomas. It is said that in the last speech the General made, he spoke in the most flattering terms of both Burnsides and Thomas. Whether he referred to our Burnsides & Thomas is not for us to state. It is sufficient for our purpose to know that he never spoke of any other man, and men who more fully understand their business. They buy for cash and sell cheap. See advertisement.

A Rumor reaches us of a scene in a school in Potter township. The teacher kept a boy in. The parent came to the school and demanded his son. Teacher refused. Parent reared and pitched around and bawled teacher out. Teacher dared parent to come in—neither went, though the invitations on both sides were very pressing. They called each other pet names. Teacher got the poker and insisted on parent leaving, and pressed the matter so strongly that he left. Latest advice. All quiet along the line. Moral—Teachers and parents, when they disagree, should appeal to the Directors.

THE PET OF THE VILLAGE.—This is the name of a beautiful German picture, never before copied in this country, and therefore new, to be sent free to the Publishers of Health and Home, to every person who purchases a copy. No. 8, of that excellent paper. Each copy of No. 8 will contain this engraving printed on tinted paper. The imported engraving costs at retail $5. It is a beautiful picture. We speak what we know, for it is on our table as we write. No. 8 will also contain a large Valentine picture by Nast. Health and Home is an able and neatly printed paper published in New York, 37 Park Row, by Pettinelli, Bates & Co. For sale at J. D. Miller's Book Store, Belleville, Pa.

BELLEVILLE ACADEMY.—This Institution now under the supervision of Professor Hughes, is one of the very best in Central Pennsylvania. Prof. Hughes is a teacher of ripe experience, highly educated, a gentleman in the finest sense of that word. He is apt to teach, and communicates with so much distinctness and simplicity the ideas he wishes to convey to the mind of his pupil, that what with some teachers becomes not only a task, but a burden upon the pupil, with Prof. Hughes, becomes to him a light and pleasant past-time. The next term will commence on Thursday, February 4, 1899. Our citizens should avail themselves of this opportunity, not only to educate their children, but to build up and perpetuate this most excellent institution in our Borough. Prof. Hughes is the right man in the right place. Let our wealthy citizens do their duty.

THEM IMPROVING.—The confidence inspired by the recent attempt at legislation against the N. Y. Wall Street clique, which so frequently has upset the business of the country for their own gain, is having its legitimate effect on nearly all kinds of trade. Money and money commodities being of course the most sensitive to such a change, are the first to respond to the buoyancy inspired by it. The various markets which have so long been held down by the fears of a coming disaster, seem to have thrown off the lethargy of dullness, and are ready for a gigantic activity. In a few weeks more Gen. Grant will be inaugurated President, and John Johnson will retire, and the money panic will be over. In the mean time, let us hope and wait, and buy our goods from the Harper Bros.

This is a good and strong firm, composed of very clever men, whose pleasure it always is to wait upon customers and supply their various wants as cheap as any other house in town can afford to sell. Give Harper Bros. & Co. a call.—For full particulars, see ad.

THE AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST.—With its "new overhaul," is again on our table. We greet it as an old friend. We have been, except the last year, a constant reader of its well-filled pages for over thirty years. We can, therefore, safely recommend it to our readers. The "Beautiful and the Useful," are seldom better combined than in the "American Agriculturist." Beautiful as it is, however, we take pleasure in stating that it is more "useful" than beautiful. It is adorned with a great number of the finest illustrations, of a pleasing and instructive character, while its columns are packed full of useful information, prepared by a large force of intelligent, practical, first-class men. No man, woman or child, can peruse it without receiving benefit far beyond its cost. The subscription price is only $1.50 a year, or four copies for $5, which is remarkably cheap, considering the expensive character of the paper, and its real value, but a circulation reaching nearly 200,000 divides the expense so many that the cost to each is very small. The first number of the 28th Annual Volume comes to us in a new and beautiful illustrated cover, and its contents are quite as choice as usual, which is saying a good deal for a journal always good.

Those who subscribe now for the new volume will make a valuable investment. The Publishers are ORANGE JUDD & CO., 245 Broadway, New York.

CAN there be a reasonable excuse given why the clerks connected with the various mercantile establishments of this town, should be required to render a greater amount of labor than any other class of men for the same wages. If there is any good reason why this difference should be made, we have never heard it, therefore, presume none can be given that would be sufficient to justify every resident of this town which well acquainted, that the clerks are, with a few exceptions, the last men to retire from their place of business at night, and the first to open the same in the morning.

These men devote at least five hours per day to the sale of merchandise, or rather duties connected therewith, which no other class of laborers perform.—It may be said that it has, for a long time, been the custom with merchants to keep their places of business open until a late hour. True, it has been the custom, but a custom which in its very nature unjust, justifying them in continuing to do wrong? We do not observe the golden rule very closely if we exact of one class of our fellow men one-third more labor than another for the same wages. That this is the case in many instances, no one will pretend to deny.

It is certainly a matter in which we very often err, in duty we owe to others, in keeping them employed almost night and day. Merchants often suppose that as long as their employees do not object to remaining in the store to a late hour, they will not instruct them otherwise; but in many cases were the clerk to call but in many cases were the clerk to call the attention of his employer to the case it would be the cause of some of his losing his situation, and no doubt to some extent his reputation, therefore, men would sometimes prefer submitting to an injustice rather than lose their situation.

We ask you, merchants, to close your places of business, and let your clerks have at least from eight o'clock in the evening to spend with their families. The present system is a species of slavery, which is almost as degrading as the late situation of the Southern negro. Will not our merchants try a system that will leave the clerks at liberty at 8 o'clock, P. M.?

YOUNG MEN'S READING ROOM.—Why is it that Belleville, so far advanced in almost every other particular, is so lamentably deficient in respectable places of resort for young men? We have engaged, in various occupations, quite a number of young men who have nowhere to spend their leisure moments, save the too often cheerless room of a hotel or boarding-house, or still worse, the bar-room and saloon. The day is passed—work is over, and the question—what will I do to-night? arises to be answered by wandering into the nearest place where they can find company and amusement. Thrown thus into the society of a class of older persons, whose influence is of the most questionable character, before they have strength of purpose and mind to resist its baneful power, they are easily led astray, and seeds are there sown that result in a plentiful crop of intemperance and vice. The excuse too often given by young persons for frequenting these places is, "I have nowhere else to go." This might all be done away with by establishing a Reading Room—not necessarily a free one, but no one so easy of access that there could be a possible excuse for not visiting it. True it may be said there are Club-rooms in town, but it be borne in mind that political prejudices will keep some away, and the reading matter may more establish a reading room, furnish it with first class reading, make it within the reach of all, and you do away with a greater part of the "loafing" around saloons, the greatest cause that can befall any young man. Will not some of our citizens take hold of the matter—or better yet—will not some of the young men do something in their own behalf? Let us hear of early and efficient action.

DIED. KAYS.—On the 26th of January at the residence of his mother in Milesburg, J. I. Gregg Kays. We are sorry to announce the death of our young friend J. I. G. Kays. But it is so noble a gallant soldier has descended to the nation of the dead. Mr. Kays was a young man 21 years of age and served as a faithful and brave soldier in the late war to suppress the slave holding Rebellion, in Co. G. 184 Reg't. P. V. commanded by Col. J. H. Stover. His twin brother, Robert Kays, was killed by the explosion of a shell while nobly fighting in defense of the old flag. The husband of Mrs. Kays died about one year ago. Thus, in a few years, Mrs. Kays has been bereft of her husband and two noble boys, and is left alone to mourn in sorrow over the dear ones departed. S. J. McDowell.
