Curious and Useful Notes on Lime. The lime we use to fertilize our fields, and to plaster our dwellings, is an interesting as well as a useful substance. Perhaps a little knowledge of what it is, and how it behaves, will invest the walls with other attractions than mere whiteness, and divert the attention while engaged in the disagreeable work of sowing lime broadcast on a windy day. — If we take in our hand a lump of caustic or fresh burned lime weighing 28 ounces, we are really holding 30 ounces of metal, which is much lighter than lead, and a little harder. The chemist calls this metal calcium. The other 8 ounces is a substance named oxygen, (which makes up 8 ounces in every 9 ounces of pure water, and 8 ounces in every of many of the comforts of life; hence 64 ounces of air.) One little atom of the great end of farming is to make the oxygen joins one atom of the cal- money. It is not to embelish the land, cium, forming what the chemist calls to build fine houses, barns and fences; oxide of calcium, which is lime. This caustic or fresh lime has strong alkaline qualities like those of potash. In its effort to get carbonic acid for which it has a great liking or affinity, it destroys the flesh; it separates the elements of all vegetable substances, such as plants, roots, muck, manures, etc., taking away such elements as will form carbonic acid for it to unite with. For this reason, we mix it with ter into and nourish new plants.

We said that lime is an alkali, like potash and like soda. There is another class of some substance having opposite properties called acids. Vinegar, lemon juice, and oil of vitriol, are examples. The acids and alkalies meutralize or destroy each others'active properties, and unite together forming compounds (called salts), which are mert, often tasteless. Sour forms a simple neutral salt. Almost all vegetable matters, when decaying tience. - American Agriculturist. in the soil, especially if it be wet, form sour or acid substances. These dark colored acids which make a soil sour. and unfit it for growing plants, are called humic acid, crenic acid, &c. -We add lime to neutralize or destroy them, and thus sweeten the soil. So, then, when sowing the lime, the farmer may be thinking about the elements of the lime, its metal and its oxygen, and what offices it is to perform in the soil. Remember what is here said, and at another time we may talk of that other very different commound of lime, called plaster of Paris. and how it acts on the soil.

ABOUT MORTAR. - Sand, called si lica by the chemist, is in reality a kind of acid, which unites with alkalies .-It is made up of one atom of a brown substance called silicium (Si), united with three atoms of oxygen, thus, SiO2. Sand or silica and fresh lime mixed together, in time unite and form a hard salt, which is the mortar used upon the ceiling, and which cements stone walls. If lime has lain exposed to air a long time, the carbonic acid steps in and unites with the lime, and the silica or sand is kept out. This is why old air-slaked lime is not valued by the mason. This formula, CaO,SiO2, shows the elements united together to form mortar, that is: the metal calcium (Ca) and the oxygen(O) forming lime, and this united with the silica (Si), and three atoms of oxygen (O3)—all of these strongly united. Has not mortar a new interest, thus looking at it with the chemist's eye?

SLAKING LIME.—If we add water to fresh burned stone lime, every 28 pounds of lime will unite with 9 lbs. of water, to form a new compound rich.—American Agriculturist.

called hydrated lime. This falls to The condensation of the water and lime gives out a large amount of heat which was before latent or concealed. After long exposure, lime gets this water from the air, and falls to pieces or is air-slaked. As above explained, the carbonic acid it gets at the same time, injures it for mortar, and for spreading on land. The best way is, to always get fresh burned lime, that which is in lumps, and not yet watered or carbonated by the air. It will be seen also, that in every 37 lbs. of slaked line a man buys he gets 9 lbs. of water-quite an item where it is to be hauled any distance- Twenty-eight tons of fresh lime contains as much real lime, as 37 tons of slaked lime, or 50 tons of air carbonated lime. -American Agriculturist.

And this brings us to the old question, how to enrich the soil? Few farmers have the means to bring up their lands at once. When the landholder and his land are both poor, the farmer is in a pretty tight place.-There is so little to begin with. The great reliance must be on the barn yard, pig-pen, poultry-house, privy and green crops, and the muck bed. By some means, let him contrive to raise more grass and fodder crops; soils to decompose the roots and other this will enable him to keep more vegetable matters, and thus let the stock, and this, of course, brings the atoms of the old plants go free to en, increased manure. By buying a few extra tons of manure to start with, this will give the first increase in the grass, and so the ascent will surely follow -Grain and root crops will then come in for a share of the land, and produce a share of the profits. The importance of draining, of deep plowing, etc., we need not now dwell upon. No good farmer will neglect them .-It must also be understood, at the outset, that the work of renovating an vinegar unites with alkaline soda, and old wornout farm is the work of years, and must be prosecuted with pa-

> IS OUR WHEAT LAND RUNNING OUT?-We think not. There are farmers who raise as much wheat per acre as they ever did. They have no better land than their neighbors. There is no difference, except that they farm better. We may not be able to raise wheat as easily as when the land was new and full of organic matter from the decay of leaves. But if more labor is required, we get a more than corresponding increase in price. So that, in point of fact, farmers are better off than formerly... Our mistake is in trying to raise wheat with as little preparations as when the land was. new. The farmer who underdrains his land, works it thoroughly, and keeps it clean, who makes rich manure. And makes as fine a finish as the lime and does not crop his land too frequently, can raise as much wheat per acre as he ever could. There can be no doubt on this point. We are confident that such farming will pay-and at all events, if it will not pay, poor

If not, what is best to mix with it, and in what proportion for general use?"—If you have dry muck. mix it with that, and let it lie in a heap until it heats. Then work it over and mix it with more, doing so three times, perhaps, and finally having the hen dang mixed with fully four times its weight of muck, and that will probably be eight times its bulk. Soil will do instead of muck, and common barn-yard manure will answer very well, and the compost will be very

THE GUBERNATORIAL CONTEST. While personally we desire rest from powhite personally we desire rest from political turmoil, at least for a while, we can not close our eyes to the fact that our ever vigilant opponents are already preparing for the Gubernatorial contest next year; and as we believe that in time of peace we should prepare for war, we woull exhort our political friends to make preparations for coming contingencies at once, and ing contingencies at once, and CIRCULATE THE NEWSPAPERS among your neighbors. If you have a Republican paper in your county that is true and reliable to the party, it should be preferred to those printed in other counties. After you have done this, and you and your friends desire a true and reliable Republican journal from abroad, we would recommend to you either the WEEKLY OR DAILY TELEGRAPH.

They are published at the seat of our State Government, and will contain full reports of the doings of the NATIONAL and STATE LEGISLATURES. They will sustain our triumphantly elected leaders in the establishment of "Peace" all over the land with all the power they can command.

The TRLEGRAPH belongs to no clique. It of course has its preferences before nomina-tions are made for office; but when once made, the Telegraph has never failed, since it has been under our control, to sustain the candidates presented with the same energy and zeal as though its own personal friends were on the ticket.
