Time to Cut Timber. It'is now some twenty years since we st urged the importance of seasoning timber as speedily as possible after cutting, to insure its durability; and as a consequence recommended the middle or latter part of summer as the best time—the seasoning being rapid in the warm air and under the hot sun. We have at that time examples where timber cut, and split or sawed immediately after cutting, lasted twice as long as when cut in winter, and allowed to season slowly, and at a time when it is apt to become sap | The same is the case with wheat, rye, rotten to some degree before the seasoning process can be perfected. We are glad to see corroborative evidence coming in from all quarters in proof of the correctness of this position. In the proceedings of the Alton Hortiticultural Society of a late date, we are informed that Dr. Long exhibited samples of timber cut at different times, and after experimenting for years, is convinced that from the 10th of July to the first of August is the best time to cut timber. Mr. Sidway remarked at the same meeting that he commenced many years ago cutting timber for the bark, and he had observed that when timber for rails had the bark peeled off so as to season peeled in summer. We may add that we know a differ ent conclusion to be adopted, by simply doing the thing in the wrong way. Timber was cut in summer and allowed to lie in the log with the bark on. It could not thus become seasoned; and the heat induced what is termed sap-rotting more rapidly than would have occurred in the cold of winter. The experimenter was satisfied that "summer was the worst time to cut,"-merely because he omitted to split and saw at once so as to favor seasoning. - Country Gen-

The only hope for higher prices lies in that of a poor crop in 1869. Here, again, the balance of testimony is against it. The weather of the present winter has been peculiarly favorable to spring sowing, and the indications are that the greater portion of the next crop will be sown in March, which is generally looked on as insuring a bounteous yield. The only kind of wheat likely to be injured by the weather is that sown in the fall. But the proportion of winter wheat is now very small, and grows smaller each year. The supply is too abundant to admit of a scarcity, and sellers to the great world of consumers are too numerous to admit of the holders being able to dictate in the matter of pri-

LARGEST STEER IN THE WORLD. There is a white steer, aged six years and six months, belonging to Samuel H. Jones, of Sangoman county, Ill., that is six feet six inches high; nine feet six inches in length; ten feet six anches around the girth; three feet across the hips; and weighs three thousand and 600 pounds! He is a cross of the "Short-horn Durham" and the "Patton" stock.

An excursion party was made up recently, at Springfield, with the expressed purpose of visiting this monster beast twelve miles from that place at Williamsburg. The Mercer Potato.

We have never belived that the Mercer potato had "run out," as we have seen a thousand times declared. We believe that all that is necessary to restore it to its pristine excellence and productiveness is a change of seed, and that if seed were obtained directly from New England, and if from Maine the better, there would have been no deterioration of either quality or quantity. If farmers will continue to plant year after year, and we have known many to do so for 20 years, the same potato raised by themselves, and the small ones at that, they can expect nothing else than the steady falling off of the crop, and a lower grade as to excellence of tuber. corn and oats, every farmer well

We are led to these remarks from seeing a statement made to the farmers' Club of New York, by Mr. N. C. Jessup, of West Hampton, Long Island, in which he says, in presenting some specimens of the Mercer potoes raised by him, that he obtained the seed four years ago from Maine, that he had cultivated them on barren sands and had realized at the rate of three handred and thirty-five bushels per acre. They had not rotted, but continued to be as sound as any potato can be.

The trial of Mr. Jessup, as stated above, shows what he did with it last season. Why should not others try? Why pay enormous prices for new kinds about which next to nothing is known except from the puffs of those who are making a good thing out of them ?-Germantown Tel.

> A FRENCH FARM.—The most exensive farmer in France is M. de Candain. His farm in Touraine is valued at two million francs, and the income he derives from it considerably above 500,000 a year. He sells, every year, one thousand head of fat cattle. and has on his farm a distillery, a beet New York, Baltimore and Wilmington marand starch sugar manufactory, a large linen and woolen factory, and all his factories and farm buildings are lighted with gas. CURE FOR COLIC IN HORSES.—The death of Robert Bonner's Auburn horse induces a New-Yorker to send the Tribune a remedy which he has never seen fail to cure colic in horses. It is simply to drench them with a preparation of chlorine and permanganic acid, which can be procured at any drug store. He has used it and seen it used repeatedly, and has so much confidence in it that he would
