To us, he was more like a brother than a friend, and never while memory endures, will we forget the deep interest he manifested in our welfare and the many pleasant hours we spent with him and his interesting family.

Oh! that the country was full just such men and fenians as he. After giving us some news of an individual and congratulatory character, he says:

"I see by the report of the las Fennian Congress held in Philadelphia, that there is a "Circle" in your town, and that it was represented in the Philadelphia Congress. I expected to be there myself, but through hypocrisy of that organization. They some unvoidable circumstances was desire to join the victorious hosts of not able to attend.
