WEDNESDAY MORNING, June 2, '69.
Growing Root Crops.

To grow root crops to a good advantage, a rich piece of ground, free from weeds, should be selected—ones in which the manure applied to previous crops is not exhausted, is better than a heavy application of coarse manure to the present crop. Coarse manure, is very likely to induce a branching, scraggy growth of the roots. Fine manure well spread does better; and if put on in the fall, so the strength may be diffused through the soil, it does still better. A good clover sod that has had a good dressing of fine manure the previous fall, makes an excellent preparation. The large tap-roots of clover wedge apart and loosen up the soil more and deeper than other crops, and render the fine cultivation much easier and more certain, and at the same time add to the available plant food near the surface.

The land should be well and finely worked, making not merely a fine seed bed on the surface, but it should be made fine about as deep as its plow'd. A clean clover sod that will soon rot and crumble down fine at the bottom of the furrow, it may not be so desirable, but only make a good seed bed on the furrow. But in most other cases it is best to plow two or three times, and frequently use the harrow and roller besides. A good way is to plow and work the land early in the spring; then let it lie until the weeds are well started, when another thorough working will destroy one crop of weeds, and put the land in fine condition for the seed. If this can be done without another plowing, the worst crop of weeds will be destroyed, and not a little labor in tending be saved. A rather slight ridging is preferred; the seed is drilled on these ridges. By making the rows 2 feet apart and very straight, most of the labor in tending may be done with a horse.

Carrots, Sugar beets and Mangold Wurzel may be sown at any time in May when the land is in good condition to secure a quick germination and growth, so the crop may get the start of the weeds. Soaking and sprouting the seed has been practiced, and sometimes with the best results. But it is not always sure; if the land and weather are all favorable when the seed is ready, it will do well; but if storms and dry weather prevent sowing at the proper time on the one hand, or dry weather makes the soil so dry that it draws the moisture out of the soaked seed, on the other, failure may be the result. When the weather and the condition of the land can be foretold for a few days, it is a good plan to soak the seed; then with plenty of seed, so that if one is lost another may be sown, there is little risk and may be considerable gain, in starting the crop. While from May 1st to 20th is the best time to sow carrots and beets, very good crops have been grown by sowing early in June—the 20th is the usual time, but it may be questioned whether it is not better to sow earlier.

Any soil that will produce good corn ought to grow roots. The main point is sufficient fertility and pulverization. A sandy loam is generally preferred, because the latter is more readily secured, and with much less labor. It is also sooner dry after a rain and ready to work at odd spells, when something to do was wanted to fill up the time. On such soils it is easier and more pleasant harvesting roots, while they come out cleaner, and after a little drying, most of the adhering soil will rattle off in handling. Sandy loams are thought more suited to turnips and carrots, while heavier loams are preferred for beets and mangolds. Indeed any fertile, finely worked clay loam will grow the latter, also good carrots; and so good crops of both have been grown on a sandy loam.

Where only a few hundred bushels are grown, or even a few acres, it is a good plan to sow near the buildings, where they will be handy to work in at odd spells and on broken days. A good deal of hoeing and working may be done in this way without feeling the loss of the time; indeed most of the work may be clear gain.

The first hoeing should be as soon as the third or rough leaf appears. With a sharp new hoe, the corners standing out well, the rows may be hoed very close, leaving only half to three-fourths of an inch space for the plants, and no thick bunches; in thinning there will be much less labor in thinning out. If first hoeing is thus done when they are small, and the second when some two inches high, nearly all the thinning out may be done with a sharp-cornered hoe, taking out surplus plants the same as weeds. I seldom use my fingers in weeding root crops. Practice has shown that there are so many ways in which the corner of a hoe can be used to take weeds out of a row, that I find it much easier and quicker to do it with a hoe. Hoeing often is easier, cheaper, better for the crop, and more certain to kill the weeds. Then the weeds don't have time to injure the crop, or to be much in the way; nor does the land have time to get hard. It is less work to hoe twice—each time before the weeds get an inch high, than once after they are four inches high, while in the latter case the growth of the crop will be checked by the weeds, and in the former, increased by the frequent hoeing. The same rule applies to working with a horse, with this difference, that while the cultivator or horse-hoe will kill all, or very nearly all the small weeds, many of the larger ones that have been left until four or five inches high, will again take root and grow.—Cor. Country Gentleman.

Cut Early Grass.

Mr. Editor.—There has been considerable discussion on this subject, but not much improvement has been made in cutting grass early. Some say, "We shall begin haying earlier next season." The time soon comes round and finds them in a hurry about other work; the hoeing must be done, and the few days in which they might take advantage of the haying has passed away, and now they must hurry and drive both early and late, while they are losing much in the quality of the hay. There are many tons of hay put into the barn the latter part of August that are not worth more than half price. A farmer had better pay three dollars per day to get the hay crop secured before the seeds are hardened, than to pay one dollar per day after the seed is ripe. I have known intelligent farmers to put off haying till the latter part of August, because they could hire fifty cents cheaper per day than at the beginning of haying. Such men are penny wise and pound foolish. If June grass will make nice yellow butter, why will not June cut grass make nice winter butter? Then how pleasant to have such nice hay to feed out in the spring?

My stock has always done well on early made hay. I had rather have early made hay without grain, than late cut hay with grain.

Perhaps some would like to know what is late and early cutting. Last season if my haying could not have been finished the 15th of July it would have been secured in good order. I did not finish till the 15th of August and find the hay very poor and the cattle know it. It will spend well, but the cattle do not lay on much fat, neither does it increase the flow of milk. Some of my neighbors did not finish till the 1st of September, and this was June grass. The seed had nearly all fallen out, so that it was not worth cutting. If this grass is cut early or when in blossom, it will make excellent fodder; but out as late as some cut it, you will find it worth no more than rye straw.

How can the hay crop be secured in better season? We must employ more help or use labor-saving machines.—The moving-machines, the horse-rake, and the hay-tender are great helps; but if the farmer does not begin soon enough with these the grass may get too ripe.

It would be very pleasant to be all done haying by the 15th of July, then you would have plenty of time to secure your grain-crops in time, and the rest of the season before fall work you could be plowing, picking rocks, cutting bushes, dragging muck, &c.

Farmers, think of these things, and try to make a little improvement each year, and in a few years you will make decided progress.

Mr. VERNON, N. H., May 10, '69.

Go TO FARMING.—A good living is what comparatively few men succeed in making in a village or city life, and yet nothing is more easy to accomplish on the farm. Besides, there is a pleasure in cultivating and embellishing the earth, improving and increasing its products, and thus adding to the aggregate of human happiness. Why, then, should young men hesitate to be farmers? It is both profitable and honorable. It is the nearest approximation to independence that a man, as a member of society, can make. A gentleman farmer—and all farmers are, or should be, gentlemen—belongs to an order of nobility that is not indebted to place holders for installation, and may, if he chooses, be ranked among the greatest benefactors of the human race. Let the idle young men go to work on farms, and outseeking clerkships. In short, go to farming and quit begging.

AN English farmer broke up 30 acres of water meadow which produced nothing but coarse edge grasses and rushes. After it was thoroughly drained and laid down to grass, he was able to cut four crops of green fodder annually of the best quality.—The same thing could be done in thousands of cases in this country.

At a Farmers' Club in Ohio, the discussion of the question resulted in the conclusion that August and February are the most suitable months for cutting timber. In August the summer's growth is mature and firm. In February the circulation has been for two or three months suspended by the cold of winter.

MANURE is greatly injured by lying in the rain. It needs shelter as much as cattle.

SEWING MACHINE.

AMERICAN BUTTON-HOLE OVER-SEAMING AND SEWING MACHINE COMBINED. MEDALS AWARDED AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION, 1867.

In directing attention to the celebrated COMBINATION BUTTON-HOLE AND SEWING MACHINE, we feel fully warranted in claiming for it unquestionable superiority over all others as a Family Machine.—The Simplicity, Ease and Certainty with which it operates, as well as the uniform excellence of its work, certainly place it far in advance of any other similar invention of the age.

It is also the simplest, intrinsically, as well as the best, since it is really two machines combined in one, (by a simple and beautiful mechanical arrangement never before accomplished by human ingenuity,) making either the Lock Stitch or Button Hole Stitch, at an occasion may require. It is, at the same time, simple in construction, comparatively noiseless, easily understood, and, in a word, it combines with those advantages exclusively its own the most desirable qualities of all others, for it not only does every variety of sewing in a superior manner, but in addition over-seams, buttonholes, and makes beautiful Button and Button-Holes in all fabrics. This is far beyond the capacity of any other machine.

The superior excellence of this Machine, and the superior skill workmanship and materials employed in its construction, are a guarantee of accuracy, strength and durability, and enable the company and its agents to warrant Every Machine they sell to give entire satisfaction.

INSTRUCTIONS GIVEN ON THE MACHINE GRATUITOUSLY. Lessons may be taken if desired with a view to test the Machine, or to become better acquainted with it before deciding to purchase. Samples of work will be furnished upon application at J. J. BISEL & CO., LOCK HAVEN, PENNA.

This Machine does all kinds of Stitching, Hemming, Curving, Felling, Braiding, Binding, Ruffling, Tucking, Sewing and Gathering on.

Examine all other Machines, then call and examine this one before buying. J. J. BISEL & CO., Lock Haven, Pa.
