

Agricultural Department.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, June 9, '69.

Humbugs and Sharpers.

There are, at the present time a great many men trying to live by their wits instead of honest labor. They are engaged in the manufacture of articles "needed in every household," which once known "no one will willingly do without." Or, they set to work to produce perpetual motion, or some other machine that will enable them to make a fortune in a day. Or they will take up some old and discarded variety of fruit or potato, or some other matter, which, under a new name, they palm off on the credulous. Or they will take a load of stoves, which they will sell with "all the furniture complete," but, which furniture they could not bring along, because of the heavy roads, or heavy loads: they will agree to take a note for the full price of the stove and furniture, which note is always traded off or sold to second parties, and has to be paid at maturity, or the cost of a law suit added. Of course the furniture (which was to come along in a few days) never comes, and the stove cost double its worth, and the secondaries who did the swindle are never to be found. We sometimes feel sorry to see innocent and confiding parties thus taken in: and again we feel and say, "Served him right—he ought to have known better!"

The best way for our readers to do is, to order their goods from respectable and well-known establishments, who are permanently located and who have a reputation at stake, and let all itinerant agents and peddlers soverely alone. If a man offers you an article of any kind which you can examine at the time, and which you read (if you do not need it, it will be dear at any price)—purchase, if you are so inclined; but on a future delivery, give no obligation, only as the article is delivered and comes up to the recommendations.

Spring is the time when sharpers from the city will, like the locusts of Egypt, come down on the country, and devour every green thing. We have known farmers who purchased rare and costly fruit trees, shrubs and flowering plants, of which beautifully colored plants were shown, only to find them old and worthless stock under a new name. "Far fetched and dear bought," will apply to all such.

Another dodge is, the sale of patent rights. Farmers ought to leave such things alone, because, generally, they are not familiar with inventions nor inventors—who, if they have a really good thing, know enough to go into the manufacture of the same and make the most of their discovery. So, also, in the purchase of farm machinery; and the great importance of making a judicious selection, especially since farmers have become so dependent upon machinery, justifies the occupation of a little extra space to offer a few special suggestions.—The disposition to cling to old and well tried implements is commendable, and while too much care cannot be exercised in exchanging that which seems to have rendered good service, for a more improved machine, the farmer ought not shut his eyes to the fact that defects in his old may be remedied in the new machine. Improvement—genuine and substantial—is the order of the day, and those who ignore the progressive tendencies of the age will soon be left behind by those who turn every new development to their advantage.

Especially care ought to be taken to get good machinery. By this we mean, that which is good mechanically. It is far better to pay a little extra and get an article that will last a life time than to buy because it seems cheap—that which at best can't last but a few years. Good farm machinery can't be built on cheap principles, and those who understand their interests will get the best, let it cost what it may.

POULTRY IN LARGE NUMBERS.—The London Field lately had an article on the failures that seem to have universally occurred in attempts to keep fowls in large numbers. In conclusion it says:

There are two reasons for this inevitable result; one is, that when a large number of fowls are crowded together or kept in one place, the ground becomes tainted with manure, and disease invariably breaks out. This is more particularly true of chickens, for in every attempt to rear a large number in a confined space, the mortality is excessive.

The employment of an incubator in this climate will always be found a failure, for this simple reason that it is impossible to rear the chickens when they have been hatched; the hatching process is sufficiently easy; but chickens are of no value whatever without you have hens to brood them. The only manner in which an incubator can be usefully employed is by hatching an extra number of eggs so as to give each hen a full brood of chickens. Used in this way we have known small incubators very serviceable; but when employed to hatch chickens that are to be reared by artificial mothers, we have never seen them used with advantage.

TO WASH CALICO WITHOUT FADING.—Infuse three gills of salt in four quarts of water; put the calico in while hot and leave it till cold, and in this way the colors are rendered permanent, and will not fade by subsequent washing.

KINDNESS TO HORSES.—A writer in the American Stock Journal, discussing and denouncing the cruelty practiced by men called "horsemen," says:

A gentleman of New York is the possessor of a thousand-dollar horse, whose organ of approbation is so prominently active he can be coaxed, but rarely driven against his will.—When the considerate owner enters the stable the horse greets him with a hearty whinny, his only language, which is equivalent to a cheerful expression of delight. He is at once treated to a lump of sugar, which the beautiful and sagacious creature knows is usually carried in a vest pocket—for he rubs his nose there.—On returning from a drive he expects two lumps. As two are invariably forthcoming when unharnessed, it is unmistakable evidence to the horse that his conduct and efforts were satisfactory. The sight of a whip to that animal would be an insult and an outrage to his affectionate regard for one who looks carefully to his health, security and comfort. Such an instrument of barbarity does not belong to that good man's carriage, and may God speed the incoming day when they will only be seen in museums, to illustrate the conditions of countries that ultimately became Christianized.

A SEASONABLE HINT.—It may be of service to some of our readers to remind them, that any time this and next month they can layer their shrubbery, vines, roses, &c., while they are in the prime of their growth. The several spiraea, weigalla, Forsythes, Chinese glaucous clematis, teocoma, pyrus japonica, honey-suckles, &c., &c.; and in the fruit the grape and the raspberry that do not propagate themselves readily, like the Catawissa and American purple and some red varieties, &c., can all be extensively increased in this way. The Catawissa raspberry costs at present about 25 cents per stalk; and a person having half a dozen can produce fifty the next season by aiding nature in this way. So it is with grapes, the dearest kinds of which with a little labor and care can be increased four-fold yearly. Some varieties of the grape can be propagated easily—like the Hartford Prolific, Concord, Telegraph, &c.; others are very difficult, as the Delaware, Diana, &c.

Those who have not heretofore increased their shrubs, vines, &c., as here suggested, should attempt it the present season; and if the thing is attended with ordinary care, they will be surprised and gratified at their success.—Germantown Tel.

TRAINING COLTS.—A correspondent of the Western Rural says:

"My mode of training colts is this: I first halter them and put them in the stable. I hurry them gently each day; place the harness on them and let them on for a few hours each day for a few days. After they have become accustomed to the harness, I place them before an empty wagon and drive them about a few hours each day for a number of consecutive days. After they are sufficiently subdued, so that I can hitch and unhitch them at will, I use them harrowing in grain, and all light work the first season."

We should be glad to receive practical articles from horsemen on this subject.

GREAT POULTRY SHOW IN ENGLAND.—The most successful poultry shows of this country are small affairs, in size at least, compared with some held in England. At a late exhibition at Birmingham, England, there were 2747 pens or coops of fowls. Of gray Dorkings alone there were 272 coops, and of games 482 coops, with 153 coops of game Bantams. Some choice birds were valued at very high rates. A La Fleche cock was held at £25, and some of the Dorkings as high as £100. Some heavy weights are reported. The prize gander, Toulouse, weighed 37½ pounds; the prize pair of ducks, Rouen, 194 pounds; the prize turkey, 33 pounds. It can safely be said there is a poultry fever in England equal to anything we have here.

LEAKY TREATS IN COWS.—"J. C." Columbus, Ohio, writes to the American Agriculturist as follows:

"I have a valuable cow that loses her milk; at times it runs from her in streams. Will you give me a remedy?"

Ans.—Milk three times a day, say at five in the morning, at noon, and at eight in the evening. If this does not stop it, have a little colloid, (which is gun cotton dissolved in ether) to be had of all druggists or photographers, and put a drop upon the end of each teat after milking, being careful not to touch it to a sore spot, or the cow will kick. The hole need not be covered except in extreme cases, for a little ring of colloid will shrink in drying and draw the hole together.

CUT OFF THE LEAVES.—Almost every one who has had any experience in gardening knows the importance of pruning newly planted trees. But in transplanting cabbages, beets, tomatoes and similar vegetables, few ever think of taking off any of the leaves, an operation fully as important as the reduction of the branches of an apple or a pear tree. Let every one who is about setting out any of the larger leaves, and we think they will never omit it again.—Heart and Home.

SEWING MACHINE.

AMERICAN BUTTON-HOLE OVER-SEAMING AND SEWING MACHINE COMBINED.

MEDAL AWARDED AT THE PARIS EXHIBITION, 1867.

In directing attention to the celebrated COMBINATION BUTTON-HOLE AND SEWING MACHINE, we feel fully warranted in claiming for it unquestionable superiority over all others as a Family Machine.—The Simplicity, Ease and Certainty with which it operates, as well as the uniform excellence of any other similar invention of the age.

It is also the cheapest, intrinsically, as well as the best, since it is really two machines combined in one, (by a simple and beautiful mechanical arrangement never before accomplished by human ingenuity,) making either the Lock-Stitch or Button-Hole Stitch, as occasion may require. It is, at the same time, simple in construction, comparatively noiseless, easily understood, and in a word, it combines with these advantages exclusively its own most desirable qualities of all others, for it not only does every variety of sewing in a superior manner, but in addition OVERSEAMS splendidly and makes beautiful BUTTONS and EYELET HOLEZ in all fabrics. This is far beyond the capacity of any other machine.

The SPLENDID MECHANISM of this Machine, and the superior skill workmanship and materials employed in its construction, are a guarantee of accuracy, strength and durability, and enable the company and its agents to warrant Every Machine they sell to give entire satisfaction.

INSTRUCTIONS GIVEN ON THE MACHINE GRATUITOUSLY.

Lessons may be taken if desired with a view to test the Machine, or to become better acquainted with it before deciding to purchase. Samples of work will be furnished upon application at
