FARM FOR SALE.—Persons desiring to purchase a first rate farm, should call at once, at the BELLEFONTE OFFICE, or upon Bond Valuation, Esq. This farm contains about 135 acres, forty acres of which are meadow. The buildings—house, barn and out-buildings—are all the very best. It is located about 1 1/2 miles from Bellefonte. There is a great bargain in this farm. Farmers desiring a first class farm, should call and see it. Terms easy.

THAT SLANDER.—It does seem that P. G. Meek, like the cartoon crew, finds no pleasure, or in seeking to destroy the character of men better and purer than himself. We had hoped that the recent puppet rebuke, administered to him in the "Dickinson Seminary Label Suit," would have taught him a little prudence and common sense, but it appears that our hope was without foundation, and we have come to the conclusion that Shakespeare was right when he said "It is hard to make a silk purse out of a sow's leg."

Meek feasts on filth, and it matters not how much he is advised by his friends, or washed and gilded by Democratic courts and juries, true to his instincts, he will return again to his wallowing in the mire. Take from the Watchman its vulgar abuse of good men; its blackguard "ink-slings;" its continued howling against the Republicans, and in favor of its Southern-secessionist rebel-democratic brethren, and there is nothing left. No argument, no dignity, no merit to trust in. In our opinion, Meek is the man, or the prototype of the man, spoken of in the Scriptures, whose conscience was seared, whose heart was hardened, and who was given over to believe a lie and be damned.

Witness the following, which we clip from the Watchman of the 25th of June: "We are informed that when poor, unfortunate man, Clearwater, was arrested to death by the cars at Millersburg, for purchasing goods of the 'Dickinson Seminary Label Suit'—a 'diabolical' humanitarian in that village was disposed to put him into the 'ground' without coffin or ceremony."

But three men, and we believe all Democrats, namely: Mike McLaughlin, Geo. Ronian and a Mr. Cole, refused to see him consigned to the earth, and so purchased a neat coffin for him, costing sixteen dollars, with a shroud in which to enwrap the mutilated corpse, and had him decently buried in the cemetery.

"We are also informed that a hotel keeper, not a thousand miles from the depot at Millersburg, charged Mr. Clearwater's friends with the murder of a 'poor body' in his cellar over night."

"We do not know whether the report is true, and hence it is not; [base slanderous, contemptible hypocrisy, why publish what you do not know to be true?—E. J.] but such infamous avarice deserves to be 'guilty' of such a slander."

"act, his hotel ought to be avoided like a pestilence."

Meek, "how art thou," truly, to "believe, and publish it to the world, with a hope of injuring innocent men; but you will yet learn, to your shame, perhaps sorrow, that such conduct will terminate in your own condemnation, that 'curses, like chickens, come home to roost.'"

The Democratic party must be dead, indeed; its rays, rotten, putrid, stinking, when it requires its advocates to resort to wholesale lying to bolster it up, or to breathe a little of the breath of life into its putrid carcass.

To be brief, the fact is, the whole article is a fabrication—a contemptible falsehood—a plain, blunt lie, and Meek knew it at the time, else why insert his doubts, and hopes that it were not true? The coffin, purporting to have been bought by the three persons named in that article, was purchased by the Overseer of the poor—Jacob C. Walker—a good Republican, and the persons named in Meek's article will acknowledge the fact.

A great wrong has been done Mr. Snyder by this libelous article. The facts in regard to him are as follows:—His bill was $10.50, but for what? Why the persons who attended to laying out the corpse, and setting up at night, were boarded by Mr. Snyder to the amount of thirteen meals; then the light, the cleaning of his hall, and the room and carpet, all saturated with blood, and yet his charge only $10.50. There is not a Christian, a "humanitarian," or even a fanatical Centre county who will not say that Mr. Snyder's bill was most reasonable. But, small as it was, Mr. Snyder did not receive it. When the friends of Mr. Clearwater offered him a portion of it, Mr. Snyder said: "No, keep it, put more to it, and purchase tombstones for the unfortunate man. We can explain it in no other way. We hope our surmise is true. Mr. Snyder is too honest, and too decent a man, to remain in such a corrupt, disloyal and secession organization as the Democratic party has proven itself to be. We ask Mr. Snyder and his friends to go to work in the cause of freedom and equal rights for all, and against the Democratic party, Meek and his corrupt 'ring.' Go to work and help us to 'beat' away this fall where her foulness will never more offend the nostrils of honest men.

County Correspondence. CENTRE HALL, July 19, '99.

How pleasant it is to know that we exist. We went down for the third time, or, rather, the third was the time we went down to the great international carnival on the pastoral grounds of the Sam-Andy-Johnson-Foster place. Every thing there was deliciously mellowed and softened with estrogen and conservationism—revenue stamps attached—and all went merrily as a country marriage until Johnson Sam is, without doubt, the "Midwest mannered man, That ever scouted ship, or cut a throat," and, like a true disciple of the illustrious Tennessee Moses, had laid the bullrushes of his grove with tangled festoons of hero-crowning laurel, and make peace nonsequiturs.

The fatigue of the week was excessive. One of us (committee) was most divinely attired in rich garments, set off with a one-mile silk hat, all ordered up with trepidation of cost, from the metropolitan centre of Aaronsburg, and which was duly submitted for inspection, one evening, to an admiring jury of croqueters. The remaining members of the committee completed their outfits with sundry stockings, handkerchiefs, ribbons, etc., at the command of their sisters and mothers. At ten o'clock, a. m., to be precise, the elegant cavalcade "glided" from the hall with streamers spanking, and with due dignity, took possession of the aforesaid bullrushes. The sight was entrancing. With the exhilarating aroma of a score of uncleaned horses, unswathed milkmaids and cabbage pigs, the air seemed freighted with the intoxicating smell of island spices. It smelt bigly. Almost immediately, the various delegations arrived, and deposited their precious cargoes upon the stumps and hay, arranged per order. A few—not more than two dozen—mistook the invitation for a raising bee, and, together with some two dozen others who came attired for a sweltering siege at having, beautifully illustrated the charming simplicity with which the children of America can attire themselves. After prayer had been dispensed with, the dancers were ordered up, and those of us who couldn't stride the two-foot-apart-planks, formed, in true Indian style, about the merry trippers, and speculated on the elasticity and lengthening powers of legs, short, and otherwise. It was a glorious sight—rendered doubly attractive, from the fact that the platform was some four feet above the ground, and lighted spectators. At ten o'clock and eight minutes we devoured our gingerbread and collected the fares. As two of the committee had performed most of the work, the collection was retained by them—an act rendered easy, as they monopolized the selling of tickets. It was designed, on re-assembling, to listen to the reading of the Constitution of the United States, by Fred. Kurtz, Esq., of the Reporter, and a characteristic speech from your conservative townsman, Orvis. As Kurtz had declined to publish further contributions from the army of grasshopper writers who had been afflicting him for several weeks, a picnic matter, he was overwhelmed by the committee, although arrayed in lovely garb, and holding an abridged copy of the Constitution in his hands. Orvis had his speech written out and carefully revised; but, discovering the Republican censor, with note book in hand, audibly censoring in general, and the Republican reporter in particular, "allowed" he save it for the fall campaign. Kurtz and Orvis, each, were decidedly emphatic in expressing their opinions that the picnic was too conservative, and lacked that zest and striking peculiarities incident to full-blooded Democratic gatherings.

In the evening—the gingerbread having given out—a few of the ladies who demanded something to eat, were provided for by the enterprising Spangler, who excelled all previous efforts in doing his guests complete and bouffant justice.

Trout compete us to admit that one of our ladies preferred walking home as the buggy became so sick as to make it an impossible thing for her escort to ride therein. Several others, including, emphatically, a member or two of the committee became very sick during the evening, and threw up their gingerbread. Candidly, the picnic was a very flattering success, numbering near one hundred couples, and, with the peculiarities noted, passed along with commendable harmony.

A large party of patriotic pleasure seekers from the Glades—every man a woman a Old Republican—secured a couple of Old Fort meals, and you have heretofore expressed your admiration of Porter's excellence in the line of edibles. A fourteen-county delegation from Pooleburg also made merry at the resonant Old Fort, and departed with light hearts and lighter purses.

Allow me to express my admiration of the highly "consistent" and Astor-like manner in which the Milroy House—W. R. Bell, Proprietor—is conducted. A tarry with Bell is decidedly refreshing, and the traveller learns his hospitable roof with better thoughts of landlords in general, and Bell in particular.

McCRACKEN.

BELLEFONTE ACADEMY.—Next term opens on Wednesday, Sept. 1, next.—The buildings are being enlarged, renovated and pleasantly furnished. The services of an accomplished and successful lady teacher have been secured. Improvements have been made in the plan and course of instruction, and no pains will be spared which are necessary to insure the moral culture, general refinement and intellectual improvement of the students. See advertisement of this institution in another column.

Catalogues containing full particulars can be obtained, either at this office, or from the Principal.

ELI McINTYRE, 99 years old, lives on Lycoming creek, Tioga county, at Carpenter's Station. He has five sons, aged from 57 to 66. The united ages of father sons and two nephews present at a late family meeting, was 537 years.

We learn from the Jersey Shore Vi dette and Look Haven daily Quid Nunc, that our friend, Gen. Gregg, has returned from Washington city. We would be glad to see the General in our sanctum. He acted as Agent for the Republican last winter and spring, but his authority has been revoked. He is not Agent for the Republican at present.

SHERIFF SALE.—The Bellefonte National Office was sold by Sheriff D. Z. Kline, on Monday, the 19th inst., and purchased by Edmund Blanchard, Gen. Beaver, and others, for $3,100. We understand that these men have employed the Messrs. Kinsler, under the supervision of Col. Shortridge, to run the machine. We have not space for full particulars.

LUMBER, ATTENTION! We would call the attention of lumberman, to an advertisement, in another column of the Republican, in relation to valuable timber lands for lease. This is one of the most desirable timber properties now in the market. The roads for getting out the lumber are all made, and being situated on the banks of the Susquehanna river, it is worthy the attention of those desiring to engage in the lumber business. The terms of the lease are easy, and whoever may be the successful bidder for the timber, will realize a large profit. See advertisement.

PATENT DAY HOUSE.—W. B. Savage, dealer in stoves, tinware, &c., Allegheny street, Bellefonte, Pa., has been appointed Agent for L. A. Oellig's Patent Day House. Every fruit grower in the county should have a "dry house." The Oellig patent is, in our humble opinion, the only one that should have. It only costs $20, and is the most complete thing of the kind we have ever seen. Indeed, we never saw anything like it. It does, of a truth, surpass any other dry-house ever brought before the public. Persons wishing to examine before purchasing, should call at the store of Mr. Savage.

The Marsh Harvester.

The time for hard work in harvest has passed—No more hard work for Poor Old Ned—The most complete labor-saving Reaper ever invented.

"Oh! Brown," the time for hard work in harvest has passed away forever. It is no longer as it was when you and I were boys!" This was the ejaculation of Robert Valentine, on last Saturday, as we entered his field on the "Old Furnace farm" where the Marsh Harvester was at work. And it was working most beautifully and symmetrically. Every thing was right. It made very little noise; and cut a swath five feet wide, did it all, and scattered the grain in the furrows, and scattered less than any other Reaper, the operation of which, we have ever witnessed. We realized the force of Mr. Valentine's exclamation when we saw two men riding on the reaper, binding the grain as fast as it was laid on the table, doing a work of five. Surely the days for hard work are over, and every farmer in the county should, at least, desire to see this great reaper at work before purchasing any, or either, of the old inventions. It makes a man perfectly enthusiastic to see it work.

We understand that Mr. Valentine is going, with his Reaper, on Friday next, to the Old Fort, or some place in that neighborhood, to show the people of Pennsylvania what a grand success it is.
