Original Poetry.

For the Republican. JAPTHAN'S DAUGHTER.

With timber stood she, at the wood,
To greet her father dead,
And hail his gay, with cheerful lay,
When he would first appear.

The gentle air brushed back her hair,
And leaved a mourning sigh;
As Japhan rode, not on the wood,
And saw her standing by.

Guarded by men, he came again,
With helmet, sword, and lance;
His life was saved, but more he craved,
For love's was left to chance.

He told her all, how she must fall,
Slay by her father's hand,
His more than life, his pride in strife,
The beauty of the land.

And there she stood, so sweet and good,
With dreamy wandering eyes;
The fete's plain, when fought in vain,
And hard to realize.

And she so sweet, he'd kiss her feet,
Bade him to weep no more,
Promised she'd stand, at God's right hand,
And open Heaven's doors.

For him to tread with others dead,
The nearly shining shore.

Select Miscellany.

The Harmonious Democracy.

"Every day," as the old song hath it,
"Every day brings something new."
And so, indeed, it does. Almost every day in the week, one or other of our exchanges informs us of dissatisfaction or defection in the ranks of the "harmonious Democracy." We are sorry to disturb the ill-forged serenity of our political antagonists, but truth demands voice, and we must give it. It is not only in Luzerne, Berks and Lycoming, those strongholds of Democracy in the by-gone years, but in other sections, also, that the spirit of the old party is troubled, and the hearts of the once faithful, have become disaffected and rebellious. Now is this, in the least surprising, for did not Packer himself, now the candidate of the party for Governor, on two occasions, at least, violate the faith he had pledged, and built up the nominations? Did he not, in 1850, or 1851, (we forget the year), bolt from the nomination of Judge Campbell, when that distinguished lawyer was the Democratic candidate for Justice of the Supreme Court, because the Judge was a Roman Catholic, and support Coulter, the Whig candidate, because he was a Roman Catholic? And further, did he not, in 1856, bolt the nomination of Geo. B. Barrett, the regular nominee of the Democratic party for Judge of the Carbon, Wayne &c., judicial district, and support John S. Bell, the favorite candidate of the State Whigs? Did not Packer who is now, through the Patriot, the central organ of the party, calling upon the Democratic hosts to rally to his support, do these things? Who, among all his well-paid supporters, will deny it? Will not, or will any Democratic press in the State, they dare not, because it is true, and susceptible of proof. Well, then, if he could commit these offenses against party organization and discipline without subjecting himself to expulsion from the ranks, or leaving a stain upon his Democracy, as would appear to be the case from the fact of his now being the standard-bearer of the party, why may not others, in consideration of objections they may have to the man, personally, or to the manner of his nomination, or to the manner of his election, to the State Whigs? Did not Packer who is now, through the Patriot, the central organ of the party, calling upon the Democratic hosts to rally to his support, do these things? Who, among all his well-paid supporters, will deny it? Will not, or will any Democratic press in the State, they dare not, because it is true, and susceptible of proof.
