Culture in the Farm House.

Glancing idly this rainy morning at one of our city dailies, my attention is attracted by a line under the well No more we take the ancient route, known head of" Hints to Farmers." "Den't buy a piano for your daughters while your sons need a plow."

Now. being a Yankee. I shall ven ture to "guess," as, if I were of the masculine gender, I should certainly "bet," and that right heavily, that the man who wrote those "Hints" had neither sons nor daughters.-Furthermore, he had no money to invest in either plow or planos, and he knew nothing of farming excepting what he had read about it. Neither was he writing in the country amid the songs of the birds and the hum of a myriad forms of happy life. No, he was a poor, miserable, cynical old bachelor, who was condemned for his sins to get up proper variety for a city newspaper, at so much per column, and didn't get well paid for it. As he sat striving for ideas in the fifth story of a third-rate boarding-house, bis landlady's daughter was thumming an old rickety piano below, and not daring to vent his spleen on her, he cowardly took to abusing the uneonscious piano.

Don, t you pay any attention to such "hints," farmers! They are all written to sell, and don't you be sold by them. You know the wants of your sons and daughters better than any old seedy scribbler can tell you. If your daughters, or sons, have a taste your means will allow, and never fear market price. it will not pay you back as well as your finest field of wheat! It will not hinder the plow | Never fear that? The plow boy,s whistle is proverbial, and don't we all know he plows the faster for his whistling? His horses are eplivened by it, and speed the faster through the field. His own fatigue, and the heat of the day, are disregarded and unfelt.

If the spring work drives, let your daughters help. They can ride on the com-planter as easily and gracefully as in an elegant carriage. and far more usefully. Then, when they are through the spring work, and everything is growing without their aid, let them in the pleasant eventide gather around the piano, sons and daughters both, and be sure that the piano is a good one! You would not use a poor, old plow,-From" Plana in July Phrenological Plow' 18. Journal:
