

W. W. BROWN, Editor. A. B. HUTCHISON, Editor.

Terms $2 Per Annum in Advance.

BELLEVILLE, PA., Wednesday Morning, Nov. 24, 1869.

ADVERTISING.—The BELLEVILLE REPUBLICAN has a larger circulation than any other Republican paper published in the county. Our merchants and business men will please make a note of this.

Money—Pay Up! We dislike to dun those of our subscribers who have not paid up their subscriptions, for money, but we must have what is over due, within a brief time, even if we shall be compelled to use extra efforts to secure its collection.

To each of you, the sums are small; to us, the aggregate is important. Those who receive the paper by the carrier, in town, may call at the office and settle, or on either of the Editors. Those out of town, may send by mail, at our risk, if they make the Postmaster a witness of the fact that the money is enclosed. Will not each of our patrons make a point to attend to this point? We are obliged for your patronage, grateful to those who have already paid, and are confident that those who have not paid, will now read at once. As soon as you finish reading this number, send us the amount due, and if you can spare it, the sum due for the next year. You can thus insure the getting of value for your money by making it easy for us to furnish you a live paper.

A Word to Republicans.—The State Treasuryship.

The history of the Republican party has been written for itself in this nation, is one of which every member ought to feel proud. It has contributed more to the elevation and happiness of the masses, than any other political organization that ever had an existence. It began its history for the purpose of ameliorating the condition of the oppressed white and black men of the country, and for the past fourteen years it has never lost sight of that purpose. It has battered down the mighty walls of prejudice, it has lifted up four millions of human beings out of the mire of slavery—it is now washing away their filth—clothing them in the garments of liberty, and putting into their hands the sword of protection. (ie) the ballot, against the fiat of a few. It has given a new impetus to the advancement of civilization toward the far West, and has so regulated the public lands as to place a homestead within the reach of every man. Its redeemed promises of the past, and the principles which make up the platform of the present, should secure for it the confidence of liberty-loving men everywhere.

The fact that it has been the successful party for the past ten years, has drawn into its folds a large number of office-seekers and unprincipled men. Some of these have sought for positions of trust at its hands, only to develop that they were actuated by mercenary motives, and their acts of corruption are weighing down the party to a fearful extent.

This is a point we must jealously guard, or it will grow to be a ponderous weight, under which we must inevitably sink to rise no more. The honest masses of our party are not tired of the immutable principles for which we have fought in many a heated contest, nor are they finding fault with the progress we have made, but there is a great deal of dissatisfaction in relation to the conduct of some of the men who have been entrusted with office. This is evident in the nominations for Legislature during the past year. Many of the old members were placed on the retired list, while some who have been there before, were re-elected with the understanding that they would do better in the future.

The people are looking forward to the meeting of the next Legislature with extreme anxiety. They will expect that body, in its organization, to show, by the election of officers, that it means retrenchment, and that it will frown upon all "Rings" and "corruptions."

There is one important office at its disposal, on account of the responsibility of the office. We mean, of course, the State Treasuryship. It will be absolutely necessary for it to select for this position, a man who has the financial capacity, and the honesty of purpose, to do what is right—a man who will step up all the links (if any are to be found), and who will disburse the public funds that the pulse of this mighty Commonwealth shall beat with regularity, and the people, therefore, willingly pay over their taxes, having the consciousness that every dollar is legitimately used for the benefit of the State.

From present indications there is a wide spread desire for a new man. Several names have been mentioned in connection with the office, but from what we can learn, Geo. F. Huff, of Greencastle, Westmoreland county, is the most formidable candidate. Some of our exchanges speak favorably of him, and many of the leading men in different parts of the State, who have wakened up to the importance of having a good man, are laboring for his election, and above all, the people everywhere who know him, are very anxious for him to be the coming man. Mr. Huff is a successful Banker and an excellent financier—a man of undoubted integrity, standing in his own community, and in all circles in which he moves, above suspicion. He is also a life-long Republican, and one of the most efficient workers in the party.

He is not an office-seeker, but his name was first suggested by one of the most sagacious leaders of the party in the State, who remarked before he was thought of as a candidate, "if you want an honest and able man for State Treasurer, that man is Geo. F. Huff." If the office is tendered to him he will accept of it, and fill it faithfully and well.

We hope that our Legislature will rise superior to the "petty rings" that infest Harrisburg about the first of January, and elect Mr. Huff to this office.

Congress and Senators. It is useless to speculate as to who may be the Republican candidates, or what counties may receive the nomination. In the Congressional district, Mr. McClure, who has the Democratic majority, has had the Congressmen for six years, and will, we think, be re-elected. In the State Senatorial district, Mr. McClure has the Democratic majority, and will, we think, be re-elected. In the State Senatorial district, Mr. McClure has the Democratic majority, and will, we think, be re-elected.

We have no doubt there will be a number of candidates, many of them good men, and although our resouring above appears fair to us, yet if other plans should be adopted, we shall be content, always considering it the first principle of a good Republic to honestly support the fairly chosen representatives of its party.—Hollidaysburg Register.

We copy the above for two reasons; first, to show our readers that the REPUBLICAN is not the only paper which has already commenced preparations for the campaign of 1870; and second, to call the attention of the Register, and other papers in this Senatorial District, to the fact that Centre county does profess to have some claims for the next Senator. We have several good men; but at the proper time we propose to choose from all of these one of the very best, a high minded, honorable, upright, Christian gentleman, and give him the confidence of the people without a contest, and then respectfully, but earnestly, ask Junius P. Perry, Huntington, Millin and Blair, to sanction our claim by voting unanimously for Centre county's choice.

The Register, we know, will not require arguments from us to establish the claims of our county to the next Senatorial candidate; but on the other hand, we believe, do all in its power to aid us in securing the nomination of the man, whom we believe to be designated by our county convention as the choice of the Republicans of Centre county.

We do not wish to be understood as possessing a desire to over-ride—set at naught the claims of other men, or other counties—but we do propose, while we respect the rights of others, to put forth every effort, to labor in season and out of season, to write, and talk, and work in the interests of a Centre county man.

We hope that there may be no strife nor ill feeling engendered in the contest. Mr. McClure, who now holds the seat, will, no doubt, be re-nominated by the Democrats. He must be defeated. The friends of Phillipsburg, an other portions of the district, so shamefully perverted in 1867, will not, under the new Registry law, be re-elected, so that with good men on our ticket, the rights of all respected, and harmony in our ranks, we can secure the election of our candidate, and obliterate the disgrace of 1867.

The New York Herald, of Saturday, in reference to the King's county sheriff, says: "The climax of political rascality is reached in Brooklyn, where it is evidently determined that true Democracy consists in putting a Democrat in office; and if it be in defiance of the popular vote all the better. What business have the people to any choice in such a matter? 'Count the man in.' That is the whole philosophy of republics."

The worst portion of the Democracy says the Chicago Post, is now trying to eliminate the Bible from the Common Schools. Next, it will try to eliminate all other good books; and it would not be long, should the party succeed, till our now magnificent system of popular education would degenerate into a series of Confucius X Roads affairs, with the inevitable distillery accompaniments.

Currents Question. A Raid Commenced on the National Banks. In order to give our readers some information in regard to the condition of the finances of the country, we clip the following extracts from some of the leading newspapers.

It will be seen that they differ somewhat in their opinions of the causes which led to the stringency of the money market, as well as in the remedies proposed. We do not agree with any of them, while the "reasons" given by the Press and Inquirer for the scarcity of money, are, to some extent, the true reason, we hold that they utterly fail in the remedies proposed.

In our humble opinion, the true remedy lies in the breaking up of the "Gold Gamblers Ring," in increased tariff duties; in fixing a time—a certain day—a year or two hence, for the resumption of specie payments, and in the adoption of a free banking system. A day fixed, say two years from the 1st of January, 1870, for a return to specie payments, would at once do away with the doubts and fears of the business and commercial men of the country, and as a matter of course, clear away the uncertainty of the Inquirer's speaks, when it says: "How soon it may come, or how long it may be delayed, no one knows; but in expectation of it, trade and commerce stand still and wait, making few ventures abroad." &c. What stronger argument could be urged in favor of fixing a certain day in the future for the return of specie payments. "Trade and commerce would no longer stand still," and with the other necessary legislation spoken of above, the business interests of the whole country would revive, the prosperity of the past ten years would be again enjoyed for the ten or twenty years next to come.

The New York Tribune says: A Washington dispatch of yesterday says: "A letter we are One Hundred and Eight Millions in gold in the hands of the Government. Simultaneously with this, we are told that the Gold Exchange Bank in this city has been set going again, and recommenced the operation which it calls 'clearing gold'—that is, emitting bonds for the purpose of paying off millions per day on the price of gold without having received, paying, or seeing any gold. The two facts seem to us the complement of each other."

Had Secretary Boutwell, when the gold gamblers first after his appointment ran up the premium on gold to 145-6, just managed to let them have ten or twelve millions at 140 to 145, and as much more as they could get, he would have induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own hands, and the Treasury in theirs, would be induced to take at 140, or over, we think that would have ended gold speculation. Let it now be understood that the Treasury is on the keen look out for bargains in gold—that it stands ready to receive a check of $1,000,000 per day, and buy bonds with the proceeds, so fast as it can do so to advantage, and we need be troubled with no more gold-rumbling. The gamesters in their own