Now dig up your celery, taking great care not to shake the dirt from the roots, and place the heads of the celery on both sides of the ridge, roots up, hearts down, pack them closely together the whole length of the ridge, and cover the stalks and roots with dry earth. Now place another layer of celery, then a covering of earth. and so continue until all are buried. Cover the whole with earth to the depth of eightren inches or two feet. Before the snow falls deep, place hemlock boughs. straw or leaves thickly over the whole -the former being the most frostproof. Three tiers deep is enough for one ridge. Celery will keep in this manner fresh and clean. Some prefer to cover the stalks with dried leaves before the earth is on, thinking thereby they prevent "resting."-Age.

IF a horse is at all inclined to kick in harness, listen to no excuss made for his having done so, He may go quietly for a week, month or year; but unless he is a mere inexperienced colt, kick again he wil', so sure as he contain an aoundance of lime for a i. a hoise. If, after knowing what have thousand years, while other . oils ren'ss means, a horse kicks, he is not to be radically cured of the propensity; believe no breaker who promises to take it out of him.

The direc- tions.-Germantown Telegraph. GET RID OF UNDESIRABLE STOCK. Farmers should be very careful in selecting breeding animals of every kind. It is a great mistake to waste alone for all puposes, except for milk- provender on stock of an inferior quality, which are not only far from profitsins, or glass cream crocks, are far able, but unprofitable even after conprefetable to earthen or tin. All that suming an amount of pasture or forage that would "tell" on a better class of animals. Old horses are a bad dependence for spring work. A thrifty ter how long sour milk has been in it farmer generally manages to get rid of his horses before they are past their labor, and fall on his hunds a dead loss. Old milch cows are not fit for the dairy, they should be fattened or sold as soon as they are no longer yield more cream than either of the profitable for milking or breeding purposes. Old ewes produce light fleeces and small weak lambs; they are more liable to lose their wool by brush and briars than young sheep, and they do not winter well; they should be culled out of the flock and made fit for the butcher. KEEPING POTATOES IN CELLARS -It is a bad plan to place potatoes against the damp walls of a cellar, or to put them in large, deep bins, where they will be likely to gather moisture. If bins are used, the bottom should be made of strips, with small spaces lef. between, to admit air. Barrels or open boxes are also good, as well as con venient vessels, in which to keep potatoes, and whenever it is necessary to look over and pick out decayed tubers it is more easily done than when a large number of bushels are placed in one heap or bin. Cellars in which potatues are kept should not be too light, because it will, as every farmer knows, make them turn green, and injure their flavor and value.-Hearth and Home.

THERE is said to be carried off from the soil nine pounds of lime in twenty bushels of wheat, nine pounds in fifty bushels of oats, and fifteen pounds in thirty-eight buskels of barley. There are thirty-five rounds of lime in two tons of elover, one hundred and forty pounds in twenty-five tons of turnips, and two hundred and seventy pounds in nine tons of potatoes. Some soils quire an occasional application of lime as a fertilizer.
