

Facts and Suggestions in regard to Care of Horses.

There are things about the feeding, care and management of horses, which would at once be acknowledged in words, while in deeds these ous styles and color—Ladies Head Dresses—Dress very methods of management are treated with Caps, and numerous kinds of useful and fancy articles for ladies toilet utter neglect. To aid in banishing this pernicious inconsistency; to assist in making the care Dress Goods, and management of horses more as they should consisting in part of Robes, challies, Barage de Lain be; to contribute to making both horses and their owners more generally share in the beneficial consequences which always fellow from the ficial consequences which always fellow from obedience to the requirements of right and reason, I submit a few suggestions, not so much with the intention of furnishing new information, as of calling to remembrance and giving fresh force to truths already known.

Such as colars, sleeves, Infants waits and a superior lot of French setts, Handkerchiefs—Edgings, Laces, and Flouncings—Calicoes and Cottons of all descriptions. Ging-barreners in release from all descriptions.

There is no better guide to the right management of horses or any other domestic animals, than to cultivate the disposition, and to be faithful to the DUTY of treating them in every respect as the owner would like to be treated, if he were a horse, or any other of the creatures committed to his care. Such managetures committed to his care. Such management, if there be ordinary knowledge and good judgment, will be just what will contribute constant effort to please to merit a continuance of most effectually to the comfort as well as the the same. health of the animal, and to the preservation of it in that condition in which it will be useful for any of the purposes for which it may be kept. Regularity in feeding; change and varicty in the food supplied; moderate hours of sortment working; good shelter, and several other things would be effectually secured, if the guide to good management which has been mentioned were more generally adopted. And it may be confidently affirmed that the owner would be benefitted by it fully as much as the animals of which he had care. He would, at least, be in a great measure exempt from these troubles and losses which proceed from disease and death among his stock. Most attacks of disease in a horse for example, proceed from irregular or improper feeding , over-working, or something else which reduces the vital powers for the time being, or the general condition of the horse for a longer period. A horse in a low condition is certainly more liable to attacks of dissase, especially when suddenly subjected to hard work, even though it should have at the same time higher feeding.

One objection to the otherwise excellent practice of cutting hay, stalks, straw, &c., is that it does not give the horse or cov, &c., a that it does not give the horse or cov, &c., a fair chance for rejecting such parts as may be smusty or otherwise injured and unfit for food Care should be taken that nothing is ever used either cut or uncut, which has been injured by smusty or otherwise injured and unfit for food either cut or uncut, which has been injured by mildew, heating, too much exposure, or in any other way. To fer thorses to consume hay, even a sale of the latest patterns and most approved styles, including several sizes of COOK STOVES of the best make, either cut or uncut, which has been injured by straw or other fodder, which has been damaged heating stoves for churches, offices, bar-rooms by cutting and mixing it with more palatable food as meal, &c., is at once cruelty and poor conomy, for disease or loss is not an improbable consequence.

Carrots are more profitable to a horse than any other kind of root. A pretty accurate observation has established it as a settled fact, that a mixture of two parts of oats with one part of carrots, or two feeds of grain and one feed of carrots in a day, will keep a horse in better condition than when grain alone is used Few, comparatively, use carrots, notwithstanding that their excellence is generally admit-

Very few seem to be aware of one disadvantage of grinding grain for horse-feed: namely, its tendency to heat and become mouldy or tainted. Grain ground into meal has several advantages above that which is unground; but it is liable to this one objection. To obviate it let the meal be watched and stirred and spread when heating or mouldiness threatens; and, what is still better, let only a small quantity be ground at once .- Cor. Scientific American.

AN INTERESTING DISCOVERY.

We see it stated, upon what may be considered reliable, authority, that 30,000 Christians have recently been found upon an island uorth of the Celebes. It has been rumored for a time that there was there a Christian people, fergotten and forsaken which however ssessed three bibles, and continued steadfast in the faith. When the missionaries first landed on the island, they met a school teacher and his pupils, who repeated in the Malayan tongue, "As the heart panteth after the water-brooks, so panteth my soul after The, O Lord." No Bibles were found, but the most precious promises of the bible written upon the bark of trees. They knew the Apostles' Creed, and the Heidleburg Catechism, and had Christian customs. Twenty churches and schools yet existed .--Through the instrumentality of pastor Heldring. founder of the Magdalen asylum at Steenbeck and chief patron of Inner Missions, in Holland four missionaries, who had been educated under the venerable Gosver, were sent out, and 3,-000 persons baptized.

This is certainly a most interesting discovery.
The island on which these Christians were found belong to the East Indian Archipelago. The Dutch have for years had political rule in this region. This may account for the original this region. This may account for the original introduction of christianity amongst this people and for the fact that the Heidleberg Catechism was still found in their possession. But still the particular time and circumstances in which this introduction took place may well challenge special attention, and elict investigation from those who have the leisure and facilities for the second of the citizens of Town those who have the leisure and facilities for the second of the citizens of Town those who have the leisure and facilities for the second of the citizens of Town those who have the leisure and facilities for the second of the citizens of Town those who have the leisure and facilities for the second of the citizens of Town the second of those who have the leisure and facilities for prosecuting it.—German Reformed Messenger Hopewell, June 11, 1858.-c*
