

AGRICULTURAL.

From the American Agriculturist. Hints on Making Maple Sugar.

Last year several essays were received in response to our call for experience on this important topic. Other lengthy communications, for which we had no room, were received from A. Brown, Somerset Co., Pa.; S. R. Griggs, Fayette (N. Y.); L. F. A., Andover, Me.; J. K. M., Canterbury, N. H.; H. U. Doolittle, Ontario Co., N. Y., etc. We embody here the principal suggestions contained in these letters.

The time for tapping of course varies with the locality and the character of the season. In many places in ordinary seasons, a large amount of sugar is made during February. The business should commence as early as the sap will flow.

Where but few trees are attended to, the ordinary utensils and fixtures used for household purposes will be sufficient; but where sugarmaking is a part of the business of the farm, the grove or "sap bush," numbering from a hundred to thousands of trees, special, and in some cases extensive preparations are necessary.

For tapping, a 1/2 inch bit is generally preferred. The holes should be 1 1/2 to 2 inches deep, entering only the sap wood, and inclining slightly upwards, to prevent the sap remaining and souring in the orifice. "Boxing," or chipping is condemned, as injurious to the tree, and gash being exposed to the light and air, the wood soon dries, so as to require additional cutting or "freshening."

Wooden tubes, of quill elder, sunach, or pine, as may be most convenient, are preferable to tin or sheet iron. They should be fitted closely into the opening. Pails or tubs of cedar or pine, the inside unpainted, with a board cover to exclude leaves and dust, are the best vessels for receiving the sap from the tree. They may be hooped with wood, and made quite cheaply. It is well to have the top of larger diameter than the bottom, so that ice may be easily removed, in case the sap should freeze in them. An auger hole or notch cut in the edge of the cover, admits the sap into the pail.

When the trees are quite near each other, labor may be saved by using leading troughs, running from tree to tree, and all finally emptying into a receiving tub. Or a line of troughs from near the centre of the bush to the tub, may be made, into which the collecting vessels are emptied. There is more waste in this manner from leaking, spilling, and evaporation, than in the common method of hauling the sap to the boiling place in a capacious covered tub, mounted on a sled.

Sheet iron pans, (Russia iron is best,) five or six inches deep, set in mason work, so that the bottom is exposed to the heat, will evaporate the sap much more rapidly than can be done in the old-fashioned aereal kettle.

A brick wall built across the middle of the fire chamber, to within two inches of the bottom of the pan, will throw the heat against the bottom of the pan, and save much fuel.

Some of the most successful sugar makers say, it is of the greatest importance in sugar making, that the sap be reduced to syrup in the shortest possible time after being collected. Although the sap may not sour in several days, its properties are undoubtedly affected by light and air, and the amount of crystallizable matter considerably diminished, so that: even if the "sap" be light for a few days, it is best to reduce to syrup every 8 or 12 hours. This precaution is even more necessary in the latter part of the season, when the sap crystallizes with more difficulty. By judicious boiling the available run, may be prolonged several days.

To "sugar off," the syrup should be strained through a thick woolen cloth into a medium sized kettle, and reduced slowly, carefully guarding against burning, as this would greatly injure the color and quality of the sugar. It is sufficiently done, when threads of the thick syrup break off short like glass, after cooling quickly in water or on snow. Then remove it from the fire, stir it continually, and when it begins to "grain," immediately turn it into the molds. Grained sugar is prepared in the same manner, only that the stirring is continued until the mass is dry.

We have said nothing of clarifying, for experience has proved that if proper care be taken to keep every article used in the various processes scrupulously clean, and to prevent leaves, insects, etc., from falling into the sap, no clarifying agents are needed. We have eaten much sugar of the finest quality both as to flavor and color, made entirely without clarifying.

The best form for city retail market, is in small cakes, weighing from two to four ounces, as these are more convenient for peddling out.

Here is a copy of an original letter picked up in one of the streets of Des Moines—out West:

Des Moines Iowa Nov. 12 1857—My Dear Miss—the pleasing prospect I have of taking you out on a sleighing the first good snow that comes is enough to lift my soul above the sordid vanities of this world with such an intelligent young lady as you are, yours in love purity and fidelity. E. S.

THE GREAT PURIFIER—THE WORLD CHALLENGED!

TO PRODUCE ITS EQUAL! THE BLOOD SEARCHER

GLOIOUS TRIUMPH! Sworn statement of David McCreary, of Napier Township, Bedford county:

In April, 1856, as near as I can remember, a small pimple made its appearance on my upper lip, which soon became enlarged and sore. I used politives of sort, and a wash of blue vitriol, without effect. Finding the sore extending, I called on Dr. Ely, of Schellsburg, who pronounced it CANCER, and prescribed a wash of sugar of lead and bread poultices. Finding these remedies of no avail, I called upon Dr. Shaffer, of Davisville, Somerset county, who also pronounced the disease CANCER, and gave me internal and external remedies—the latter consisting principally of caustic; but all to no purpose, as the disease continued spreading toward the nose. I next used a preparation of arsenic, in the form of salve. This for a time checked the disease, but the inflammation soon increased. I next called upon Dr. Staller of St. Clairsville, Bedford county, who also pronounced the disease CANCER, and applied a salve said to be a never failing remedy, but it had no effect whatever in checking the spread of the sore. In December, of the same year, the disease had eaten away a greater part of my upper lip, and had attacked the nose, when I went to Cincinnati, where I consulted Prof. R. S. Newton, of the Electric Medical College. He pronounced the disease "a cutaneous Cancer, superinduced by an immoderate use of mercury." He applied mild zinc ointment, and gave internal remedies. My face healed up, but the inflammation was not thoroughly removed. In February, 1857, he pronounced me cured, and I left for home. In April the disease again returned and so violent was the pain that I could not rest at night. Late in May I returned to Cincinnati, and again placed myself under the charge of Dr. Newton, with whom I remained until September, during which time he used every known remedy, and partly succeeded in checking the disease, but when I returned home there were still three discharging ulcers upon my face. I continued using Newton's preparations, and also medicine that I got from Dr. Ely, but the Cancer continued growing until it had cut off the left side of my nose, the greater portion of my left cheek, and had attacked my left eye. I had given up all hope of ever being cured, since Dr. Ely said he could only give relief; but the cure was effected. In March, 1858, I bought a bottle of "Blood Searcher," but I must confess that I had no faith in it. I was very weak when I commenced taking it; but I found that I gained strength day by day, and also that the ulcers commenced drying up. I continued using Newton's preparations, and my face was healed as if by a miracle. I used a fourth bottle, and I have been healthier since than I have been for the last seven years. Although my face is sadly disfigured, I am still grateful to a benign Providence who has spared my life, and which has done more through the instrumentality of LINSEY'S IMPROVED BLOOD SEARCHER. D. McCREARY.

Sworn and subscribed, this 31st day of August, A. D. 1858, before me, one of the Justices of the Peace in and for the Borough of Hollidaysburg, Blair county, Pa.

Witness—U. J. Jones. JOHN CORLEY, J. P.

NEW EVIDENCE.

Being afflicted with a grievous letter on the arms and face—after trying many remedies which utterly failed to cure—I was persuaded by W. M. Harris & Co. to try Linsey's Improved Blood Searcher, and now, six weeks after finishing the second bottle, pronounced myself cured.

The letter broke out, something over a year ago, on the inside of my arms, extending from the elbows down to the wrists, also, on my face, immediately round the mouth and chin. It continued to be a perfect torment to me until cured by the Blood Searcher. My arms, were almost useless, owing to the cracks and sores on them, liable to bleed at any time on the least exertion to lift or work, and sometimes so sore that I could scarcely prevent tearing of my flesh. I have now been cured six weeks and feel it due to Mr. Linsey, and to the public generally, to make this statement, in hope that others like myself may be benefited by using his valuable medicine.
