The Old Surplus Revenue.

In the year 1836, when the Federal Government had not gone through the depleting and demoralizing process that it has been put uar through by recent Democratic administrations, it was entirely too rich for its own convenience. and did not know what to do with its money. The plan was adopted of distributing the surplus fund lying in the Treasury among the inplus fund lying in the Treasury among the in-dividual States. By that process Pennsylvania fereieved the snug sum of two millions eight hundred thousand dollars. The other States were accommodated in proportice, the under-standing being that the money thus dispensed was in the nature of a loan, rather than a gift, sod that its return might be demanded if the Federal Government ever got into a tight bilare.

Mr. Buchanau and his lave miserable, swindling Secretaries have contrived to get the Gov- Da ernment into a particularly tight place, and his new Scoretary of the Treasury, Mr. Dix, of New York, finds himself obliged to resort to Lee extraoidinary expedients to supply the means Ph necessary for earrying on the Government .- Ab The happy thought entered his mind of trying Jac this "surplus revenue" fund in the hands of the States. Yesterday Gov. Curtin sent to the Joh Legislature a message, communicating a letter Ad from Mr. Dix, requesting that Pennsylvania would guarantee the bonds of the National Government to the amount of $2,800,000 .- J. Wishout a moment of unnecessary delay, a resolution was introduced into the Senate to А. М. comply with the request, and it was passed unanimously at once. It was then sent to the our readers, it has probably reached the Bee-signature attack. signature attached to it.

This is the way in which Panney lvalia recognizes her obligations to the Union. No lapse of time, and no change of oir cumstances, can release her from the duty she owes to the federal government. She might, with far more justice than South Carolina or Louisiana, have declared that because the Federal Government refused to protect her manufactures, she was J. exempt from obedience to it, and could therefore refuse this request of the Secretary of the Treasury. But her Executive and Legislature, M. rightly reflecting the loysity of her people, at Att once comply with the federal request, and guarantee the payment of nearly three millions of dollars to the Government. We pressure that the other States that are faithful to the Union. and that received part of the federal bounty, will promptly follow the example of Pennsyl-vania. As for the second States, they will, vania. As for the second States, they will, Dri on the principle on which they seize Mints, By Custom Houses, Arsenals and Forts, quietly Ele Custom Houses, Arsenals and Forte, quietly use the money thus entrusted to them by the Federal Government for the destruction of the Bederal Union .- Phila. # A New Breckinridge Plot.

The Breckinridge Democratic State Committee of Pennsylvinia has not been unaindful of the ne-cessities of the faction which it represents. Being completely wiped out by the last election, some of its leaders are auxious to retrace their position on the slate, and capture an organization which the sturdiaces of the Douglas men prevented the holding of a State Democratic Convention on the 21st of February. This convocation will be something like a mob, its number entirely too large to be guided by either deliberation or wise couselis. The whole affair, it may safely be said, D. The Breckintidge Democratic State Committee Ch large to be guided by either deliberation or where for councils. The whole affair, it may safely be said, is and a plot to wring in? the Douglas men to sub-serviency and obedience to the minority, who voted With the Southern secressionists at the last election. By a cunning proceeding of this nature, Messrs. Weish and Bradford, et id genus onne of used up for We shall all pointicity, it is gravity solution to be a first pointicity of the measures once more at the head of affairs. Under the treacherous cry of J, is the head of affairs. Under the treacherous cry of J, is the head of affairs, in the treacher of the support of the Southern traitors and secessionists. The call ntion is not dictated by any patrio f the Conver desire to invention is the country in maintaining peace, or to strengthen the Federal Government in the maintainance of the Constitution and the laws. At this time we need something better than the re-solves of politicians, whose real designs are soffsh and unpatriotic. The country has already been brought to the brink of ruin by politicians, and at bis time any assemblage of office-hundrer and this time any assemblage of office-hunters and office-holders will be looked upon with derision and contempt, as another effort to add to the ruin al-ready menacing us from the want of honor, honesriotism, of this sordid class of men. -Sunday Dispatch.

No organ is free from its attacks, nor is there one which it may not destroy.
