TERRIBLE CONFLAGRATION OF OIL WELLS. The express from Titusville, on Thursday, brought the news of a terrible conflagration which occurred at Rouseville, fourteen miles below the former place, at 4 o' clock on Wednesday. The particulars, as near as we could glean them are as follows: $-\Lambda$ party of men were drilling at the "Merrick Well," and at about 3 o'clock struck the largest vein of oil and gas flowed from the well in a four inch stream, and sponted into the air to the height of fifty feet, with a rushing sound. Prepararations were made to save the oil, and while dipping it from the ground into barrels the gas with which the atmosphere had become charged ignited by some means unknown, and exploded with the noise of thunder, which was heard at a distance of six miles. Instantly the whole neighborhood was in flames, and burning with the fierceness of a volcanie fire. Four men were burned to a crisp at the well where the explosion took place, and a fifth, Mr. H. R. Rouse, of the firm of Rouse, Mitchell & Brown, was so baldly burned that his bowels protruded and his body was almost completely robbed of its skin and flesh. He was not expected to live twenty minutes when persons were dispatched to Titusville for Thyscians. These persons, stated that the flames spread from well to well, and bounded over the ground in every direction as if chased by a whirlwind, and that all the derricks and combustible matter in the vicinity would be destroyed. They also stated their fears that large numbers of p roots had suffered death. At the mement they left many were missing and the utmost confusion prevailed.

It seems that there are a large number of wells on the plot, many of them only thirty feet apart, and as the light was seen to grow brighter, from Titusville, late on Thursday merning, with sudden and vivid flashes, it is but reasonable to suppose that the entire flats have been burned over .- Erie (Pa.) She was admired and loved by all who knew her. To ber ratingal endowments of mind and heart, which secured the esteem and affection of ber acquaintances, were added, we trust, the richer adornments of religion. Interested in the covenant of Christ, with views of the plan of salvation remarkably clear, and exercises of mind though not strikingly marked, yet such as indicate the special operations of divine grace, two mourn not as those who have no hope." Deeply convinced of sinfulness, and persuaded that there was nothnot as those who have no hope." Deeply convinced of sinfulness, and persunded that there was noth-ing between her and perishing but the blood of the Lamb, she sought an interest in the atoning sacri-fice, pleading the Saviours provise : "ask and it shall be given unto you." She was not a com-muting member of the church. Although she had in contemplation a public profession of religion several months before her decease, impaired health and other causes prevented. She occasionally ex-pressed a strong desire to live, and was hopefut with regard to the issue of her sickness, until near the last. She once remarked to the writer that she had been praying much that God would pre-pare her for an early death, or, if it was his will to prolong her life, that she might henceforth live to his glory. She spoke but little to others with re-gard to her prospects, but her thoughts were eri-dently much occupied with eternal realities. In the still hour of night, when she supposed others slept, she was heard to repeat those words of the Saviour which form a part of that tender fatewell aldress to his disciples; "In my Fathers house are many massions, if it were not so, I would have told you." After an interruption, by a par xysm of conghing, she reisnmed the discourse which scemed to furnish a subject of devout and pleasant contemplation. On another occasion, the evening of her death, when a christian fined was reading seemed to furnish a subject of devout and pleasant contemplation. On another occasion, the evening of her death, when a christlan friend was reading one of the Psalms, she anticipated the reader and quoted in a clear, calm voice a passage refering to the work of redemption, and the harmonizing of the divine attributes in the blood sheding of Christ; "mercy and truth are met together; rightcousness and peace have kissed each other." Her last thoughts were given to the Saviour and his work. She said she was prepared to die, and soon after without a struggle or a groan, fell asleep, we trust, in Jesus. in Jesus. This case of hepeful conversion, as we regard it, should not encourage presumption, as we tegard h, ment of preparation for death until "the eleventh hour," when many seek to enter into life and are not able. We refer to it as an exemplification of God's grace, and the Saviour's willingness to re-ceive those who come to him in the way of God's appointment. The mother of the deceased, for many years

Scrofula, or King's Evil;

SCIOIULB, OF King's EVIL, is a a stitutional disease, a corruption of the boot by which this fluid becomes vitiated, werk and pase. Being in the circulation, it privad a the whole bede, and may burst out in decase on any part of it. No organ is free from its a tacks, nor is there one which it may not destroy. The scrofulous taint is variously outered or unicelity food, impure air, filth weight holds, the depressing view, and, aveve al, by the veneral infection. What-ever be its origin, it is herefiltary in the con-stitution, descending "from parents to children us to the third and fourth generation," "indeed," it estimates to be the red of Him who says, "I will visit the inighties of the fathers upon the children."

Its effects commence by deposition from the blood of corrupt or ulceroous matter, which, in the denses, liver, and internal organs, is termed tabereles; in the glaads, swellings; and on the surface, cruptions or sores. This foll cor-ruptions which genders in the blood, depresses the energies of life, so that scrofulous constitu-tions not only suffer from scrofulous constitu-tions not only suffer from scrofulous constitu-tions and only suffer from scrofulous com-plaints, but they have far less power to with-stand the attacks of other diseases; conse-quently, wast numbers perish by disorders which, altitude not scrofulous in their nature, are still rend red fatal by this taint in the system. Most of the consumption which de-cimates the human family has its origin directly in this scrofulous contamination; and many dear enve diseases of the liver, kidneys, brain, and, indeed, of all the organs, arise from or are aggravited by the same cause.
