"GOD IN WAR."

SERMON BY REV. B. W. HUTTER.

The following is a synopsis of a sermon preached by the Rev. B. W. Hutter, in St. Matthew's (Lutheran) Church, New street, below Fourth, on Sunday evening week, in the presence of a large congregation. The text selected for the occasion was from First Chronicles, v. 22—"The War was of God."

The speaker opened by saying that there was no research more instructive or edifying than that which related to God's various dispensations to mankind. In all its bearings this was, he knew, an inquiry too stupendous for finite intelligence to comprehend; he would, therefore, address himself to the subject proposed, with the ambition of tracing out the ways of the Almighty unto perfection; but rather with a view to directing the mind of his hearers to the great fact that there is an overruling Providence. On this subject, he said, there were two opposite errors which should be avoided. Some had a desire to know just as much about it—to "be wise above what is written"—while others manifested an utter indifference to the subject altogether. The true course for the Christian to pursue, he said, was to avoid both these extremes, and it was to temper the latter disposition to trace the mysteries and yet all-embracing and overruling Providence of God in some of the ways which, at various periods, have desolated the earth.

Beginning with the narrative from which his text was selected, he said it is declared that the Israelites were referred to, in which Israel was engaged, "was of God." So too, in Numbers xxxi., we had an account of God's having given an express command to Moses to "avenge the children of Israel of the Midianites," while the passage being read in order to show that not only had this avenging war been by the command of God, but that Moses was especially raised up of Heaven, to be their captain and leader. The interesting account given in the 6th and 7th chapters of Judges, of Gideon and his valiant troops, he said, was but a repetition of the same thing, and it was in this instance, G-d led not only by his angel Urgel Gideon to go forth against the Midianites and Amalekites to battle, but assured Gideon that the Lord would be with him in the contest, and two wonderful tests. And so God went with him, and gave him victory over his enemies. These and similar passages were introduced to show, from the Divine record, "the hand of God in war." In fact, he took it for granted that no reflecting mind would question, that in none of the great events of this world's history, had the overruling Providence of the Almighty been more manifestly displayed than in the wars which, at successive periods, had desolated the fairest portion of the globe. To sever the Providence of Heaven from these things was, in fact, to deny the existence of a Supreme Ruler altogether, and to affirm, with the Atheist, that the world would have no head, but that they are left to capricious chance alone.

But it was important for us to obtain intelligent and Scriptural views respecting God's Providence; otherwise we might be guilty of charging upon the sovereignty of Jehovah, what is more properly attributable to chance. It was impossible to trace in our mind that the Word of G-d taught that there are two kinds of Providences prevailing in the Divine administration of the affairs of men, viz: those that are absolute, and those that are simply permissive. That the line of demarcation between the two was difficult, and even impossible to trace perfectly, he would admit; yet, so far as it was practicable, it was our duty to make the effort.

For his own part, the speaker held this to be incontrovertible, that Wars, in any or all of its relations, never, in any sense, generally, directly, or indirectly, investigate, except permissively—never absolutely, but always as part and parcel of the great chain of his providential dealings with the children of men. God was a God of order, not of confusion, and so no God who would be the author of war, the contrary of what is seen in the Divine administration of the affairs of men, viz: "Father of Lies, who was a murderer from the beginning," and it was he that stirred up the base passions of men, and incited them to deadly hostilities, imposing upon the good and the patriotic the necessity of repelling by force. The patriotic writers, he said, were entirely misled directly to God things which he simply permitted, for the full trial and discipline of man.

That God never could be the author of war except permissively, he said, resulted not only from his own participation, but also from characteristics of war itself. The immediate fruits of which the speaker here proceeded, with thrilling power and graphic accuracy, to depict. In delineating this horrible portraiture, the methods of destruction employed, the horrors attending their use, the desolation and ruin which they wrought, the devastation of towns, villages, and agricultural regions; impoverished communities, increased taxes, arrested commerce, despairing and suffering families, religion languishing, thousands of young men demoralized, bridges destroyed, railways torn up, travel suspended, and an endless train of other evils, sufficient to chill one's blood and make one's hair stand on end, like the quills of a frotted porcupine, were referred to. And all these things were incident to the mere preparation for war; what must it be when actually commenced in deadly conflict? The imagination could not be attracted to see the now smiling valley transformed into a spectacle of death, with the fruits of the earth trodden under foot, bosoms of ails weltering in their own blood, with the memory of home rushing on their minds, but not a word of friendship or relief reaching their ears. And who would tell the horrors of a beleaguered city, with its multitudes of men, women, and children fleeing from their homes into the caves and mountains to escape destruction; churches demolished, churches in ruins, banks plundered, and entire streets heaped with the dead? And such scenes as these the Bible told us, in the text, were "of God;" of Him who is the source of all goodness and the centre of all excellency. How could this be? He would again reply, they were "of God" directly. No, they were incidentally, resulting from the administration of man. But had the God not so directed the dust? Yes, much; if not in its instigation, at least in its consequences and results, for by them some of the greatest benefits to mankind had been achieved, both for the welfare of man and the declarative glory of God. Of course, if all men were actuated by the benign spirit of the Gospel, the dread afflictment of war need never be resorted to.

Finally, coming to the great question now proposed in the minds of our people, the speaker said he recognized in this disastrous civil war, in which our countrymen are now engaged, the hand of God. God, it was true, did inaugurate it. It has been begun by man, designed by him, in the seizure of the Government for and other property, and the attempt to overthrow, by rebellion, the present, and wisest, and best Government this world had ever beheld. Not this was not God's work, but the Devil's. The Devil was at the bottom of it, and he was the head and front of it, with his emissaries, whom he need not name—And yet, assuredly God was in it, and He would turn and overturn until his purposes were accomplished, and those purposes would be for good, and no doubt, also, for the chastisement of those wicked men, who would ultimately have to go to the furnace. Their boasted new republic, with its Rattles and ensign, begun in violence, and carried on by villainy and fraud, would prove an abortion, whilst the old Union, the old flag, and the old Constitution would come out of the ordeal not only unscathed, but like gold seven times tried in the furnace, the purer and better for the trial; and thus would be the work of God, and this was what his text meant when he said: "This war is of God." Suffering, sacrifice, and patience it would cost, but we should remember that liberty and good government are worth all they cost, whatever that may be. Our Revolutionary struggle cost much, but its result was priceless, and this had inspired the men who engaged in it. The present crusade against our Government and our flag, he would again repeat, he verily believed to be from the Devil—engendered in hell, and for a purpose exceedingly wicked and diabolical; but his trust was in God. What our fathers labored to establish, we were now laboring to perpetuate, and this he believed would be accomplished as certainly as that the Lord God Omnipotent reigneth.

This war was not of our seeking; but, having been begun by ambitious and designing men, with- out a justifiable cause, we looked, as Israel did, of old to our God, even the God of our fathers—God did not invite Israel to war, but when the enemies of Israel resisted the spread of his everlasting kingdom, and refused to bow to his supreme monarchy, then He did shield them by his power, and erect in their behalf the cloud by day and the pillar of fire by night, and the blessings of those very wars we were at this hour enjoying, for, had it not been for them, he continued, we would not now have the Bible, nor the Sabbath, nor the sanctuary, nor any of our inestimable religious privileges. So, in the American Revolution, God had not incited our forefathers to war; He had not infused into our great and good Washington a thirst for blood, but when the mother country sought to enslave our free-born sons, then God had infused into them opposite views and opposite principles, and the two coming in contact, there was war, and the blessings of it, in the fact that he caused victory to perch upon our banners; that he upheld our flag, and gave success to our armies, and enabled them to erect on those Western shores a home for the oppressed of every clime. In the same way, he reflected, God would aid us in this war; not that He was the instigator of it, God forbid! but God was in it, in that He was now raising up the people to defeat those who had conspired to overthrow our institutions.

The hand of God was most assuredly in this contest, although in few of us might like to see its whole purpose and design. It was, however, not for us to exercise a blind trust in this matter. God worked by means, and if rebellion was to be overthrown, and our Government maintained, it was necessary that our brave men go forth, not with malice in their hearts, but with prayer and deep sorrow—with a sense of Christian patriotism and duty. And, believing that they were far surpassing the Union, the Government, the Constitution, and the flag, are right, when those are assailed, not do otherwise than rush to their defence. His prayer was that they might be successful in this, and return in triumph, their brows bound with victory, the old flag flying—not a star dimmed, nor a stripe erased, and that until the trump of the archangel shall re-awaken through the earth this favored and happy land might continue as the centre of attraction for all the oppressed and the down-trodden of earth. And in this way, he verily believed that we would have it to say, as Israel said in the text, "This war was of God."

The discourse was delivered with even more than Mr. Hutter's usual earnestness of manner and felicity of expression, and elicited the closest attention throughout, and, as a whole, was unquestionably one of the most telling sermons that have yet been preached upon the all-absorbing question of the present hour.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—The statement that Mr. Ross Wiggins, of Baltimore, was unconditionally released, is unproved. There is authority for stating that it was only released by order of the Government, on his parole of honor that he would do no act openly or covertly hostile to the Government of the United States.

A general army order has been issued, stating that there will be added to the general staff of the army four quartermasters and eight assistants to be promoted and elected according to the existing laws and regulations. There will be added to the medical department two surgeons and twenty assistants. The surgeons will be promoted from the senior assistants and the assistants appointed from the senior surgeons, after having passed an examination by a board from the medical department of the army. Due public notice of the appointment, and time and place of meeting of the board, will be given.

Mr. Herbert, the superintendent of Mount Vernon, says there is no foundation for the report that the remains of Washington have been removed from their resting place. This is in accordance with a statement heretofore emanating from this correspondence. Brigadier-General Mac-field, to-day, issued an order, as follows: "Ordered, by telegraph, the agents of the Adams Express at New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore, that in future no express matter, inclusive of letters, will be permitted to go south of this city in Virginia. Last evening Col. Stone stopped, by order, the express matter, and stopped all contraband goods, and allowed the balance to go forward."

Gov. Robison has issued his proclamation calling for eleven regiments, and fixing their respective head quarters. This would be a pretty hard strain on any other State of an equal population. But Kansas contains a large population of men accustomed to fighting, and leader of the movement than any other member of the Confederacy. Their crops are all in the ground, and they can not leave home for incursions into Arkansas and Missouri (in case she succeeds) without inconvenience to any enemy they may happen to encounter.

The following is a copy of a circular now in course of distribution throughout the country. It contains advice worthy of serious consideration by the farmers of Bedford County. We hope they will at once discover the importance of conforming to it: "WAR AND FAMINE—War is upon us, and one can tell when it will end. To forestall a scarcity of provisions, which will be sure to follow, let Farmers, and all persons having arable land, plant as much Grain, Corn and Potatoes as possible this spring. Plant double your usual amount of land over."

The most ungrateful villain in the whole scene is, Lieut. Maury, who ran away from Washington and his oath of office on Thursday last. For twenty years, this rascal has been one of the pots of the government. During that time, he has had an excellent salary and has lived in glover. For a while life-time he has drawn a living from the United States, and yet the very moment the Government needs his services to put down treason, he turns sneak and runs away.

Announcements. Associate Judge. We are authorized to announce the name of Mr. William Gephart, of Bedford Township, as a candidate for the office of Associate Judge, subject to the decision of the Republican County Convention.

For Sore, Weak, Inflamed Eyes and Eyelids. A true specific, and invaluable remedy has been discovered. Dr. Humphreys argues that these affections invariably result from a constitutional disease, of which the local affection is only the outward manifestation. Hence, HUMPHREYS' SPECIFIC HOMOEOPATHIC OPHTHALMIC PILLS are only taken internally, and yet cure the worst forms of obstinate sore eyes and eyelids, which have resisted all other treatment. All cases of sore and inflamed eyes and eyelids, or falling, weak or defective sight, will be promptly benefited, and the cure of the worst cases is only a question of time. Price, 50 cents, with directions.

N. B.—A full set of HUMPHREYS' HOMOEOPATHIC SPECIFICS, with Book of Directions, and twenty different Remedies, in large vials, morocco case, $5; do. in plain case, $4; case of fifteen boxes, and book, $2. These Remedies, by the single box or case, are sent by mail or express, free of charge, to any address, on receipt of the price. Address: DR. HUMPHREYS & CO., No. 162 Broadway, New-York. Sold by H. C. Reamer, Bedford, Pa. May 16, 1861.

MARRIED. On the 16th inst., at the residence of the bride's father, by A. H. Hull, Esq., Mr. Philip Wantz, to Miss Catharine Colabaugh, all of Union Tp.

DIED. On the 16th inst., at the forks of the road, Geo. Watson Stuckey, aged 7 years, 1 month and 23 days.

He lay on a bed of suffering for five weeks, and when the friends thought he was getting well, he told them "he would soon be with Lizzy," referring to his sister, who took sick at the same time, and preceded him by four weeks to the land of rest. He gradually became weaker from the first of his sickness, and at last fell quietly asleep in his Saviour's arms. Suffer little children To come unto me: Were the words of our Lord, "As he took in his arms, Little children and bless, And, said in my Father's, Bright kingdom you'll rest. He called our dear Watson, From this world of sighs, To be with dear Lizzy, In the bliss'd paradise; Our hearts are left bleeding; Yet we learn in his word, That we shall find comfort, If we lean on the Lord. DR. J. C. AYER & CO. PREPARED BY DR. J. C. AYER & CO. LOWELL, MASS. Price, $1 per Bottle; Six Bottles for $5. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, has won for itself such a renown for the cure of every variety of Throat and Lung Complaint, that it is entirely unnecessary for us to recite the evidence of its virtues, wherever it has been employed. As it has long been in constant use throughout this section, we need not more than assure the people its quality is kept up to the best it ever has been, and that it may be relied on to do for their relief all that it has ever been found to do for the benefit of a family physician. Price 25 cents per Box; 5 Boxes for $1.00. Great numbers of Clergymen, Physicians, Statesmen, and eminent persons have testified to their remedies; but our space here will not permit the insertion of them. The Agents below named furnish gratis our Agents' Almanac in which they give, by name, with full descriptions of the above complaints, and the treatment that should be followed for their cure. Do not be put off by unprincipled dealers with other preparations that make more profit on Demand Ayer's, and take no others. The sick want the best, and there is for them, and they should have it. All our Remedies are for sale by: B. F. Barry, Bedford; Barnard & Son, bloody Run; G. B. Amick, St. Clairville; J. Breckenom, Woodbury; Geo. Gardill, West End; J. E. Colver, Schellsburg; and by dealers generally. Sept. 28, 1860.
