Why do we Fail?-No. 3. THE FAILURE TO COMMAND RESPECT FROM THE PUPIL.

No teacher, it matters not what may be his literacy, or other qualifications, can be sucecssful in promoting the education of the child to any great extent, unless he can command the supreme government of Gad, to bow in upon by the scholars, as an example for their imitation; and he should possess those traits Lord is the beginning of wisdom, and to pray of character, and his habits should be such, with all fervency and contrition for the parthat the natural delicacy of the childrens' don of their past offences, and for a blesssing minds and the promptings of their simple, but upon their present and prospective action; generally correct judgment, shall not lead them to form a bad opinion of, nor to become them to form a bad opinion of, nor to become tion of the success they will meet with during the term. If the teacher be morose and sulan opposition that will seriously hinder him in He will have to spend his time in governing the school; and as no two things can be well scholar a kind and cheering word, and show them that he is interested, in their behalf, and they will take hold of their studies with animation, feeling it for their own interest; and be willing to favor him by their obedience .--They are governed without realizing it; and, as they have nothing to excits their obstinacy, it lies dormant, causing no trouble; while his mind is undivided; and he can devote his whole time and attention to the recitations. He shows them that he respects their feelings and their wishes, and it is not in the heart of the child to do else than to feel respect for him in return.

But, while a man may possess all the traits of character, necessary to secure the love and the cooperation of the cuild-and the parent: he may still be addicted to habits that will lessen though they may not entirely destroy their confidence in him. I have beard teachs ers carelessly remark, that the scholars were not affected by their conduct, if they did use intoxicting drink occasionally, out of the school room: or if they did engage once in a while in amusements of an exceptionable character; or if they did use tobacco, even in the school room; but how little are those teachers aware of the influence they are exerting. We all know how ready children are to contract bad habits, the practice of which yields them a temporary pleasure, if they can but justify themselves by citing the example of those whom they look upon as superiors. There may be some reason for believing that those opinions are sincere on the part of tobacco chowing and whiskey drinking teachers, for we koow what so effect the use of these filthy and injurious articles has in lowering the standard of refinement, and in contrasting the capacity of the mind. Can any man, however, suppose that he will be more respected by a child-or a grown person either, -if he be seen rueling through the street, using profane linguage and unable to take care of himself? Can any one suppose that he is exerting a refining influence upon a scholar, when he has a large pool of tobacco juice by his side in the school room ? If he does we pity him for his want of perception and lack of judgment. If the teacher be asmindful of the effect of such a course, let not the parents, who have a greater interest in the welfare of their children, be careless in regard to it; and should a teacher be employed and insist upon his removal. The example be may set those children, may lead some of them astray, and entail upon them endless misery and degra farion.

Fellow teachers, it you have one particle of respect for your profession, or for your scholars -- though you have none for yourselves, -- do not offer again to fill such a situation, until you have overcome and forsaken such bad habits as you may possess, whether they be those saumerated, or others. We do not expect that teachers will be faultiess - no mortals can be,-but such disgusting babits may and should be entirely avoided. The tobacco chewer and whiskey drinker cannot in their thoughtful moments respect themselves, nor will they command respect from others.

The teacher must be very cautious as to his conduct. In many respects he occupies a very unenviable position, for the eyes of both pupil and parent are upon him, ready to see and magnify every perty fault; and if he fails in this one particular (in commanding their respect,) his labors will be for naught.

MASTER OF PAIN. THE GREA! EXTERNAL REMEDY.

For Sprains and Bruises, Burns and Scalds, Rheumatic and Neuralgic Pains, Swel-lings, Sliff Joints, Paralysis, or Numbness of the Limbs, Pains in the Breast, Side or Back; Scre Throat, Tooth Ache, Frosted Feet, &c., &c., And for the Relief of Pain Anywhere and Everywhere.

and Everywhere.

This is a most perfect preparation, and seldom fails to dogood. It is harmless in its effects but powerful to relieve Pain. If you use it once you will not likely be without it again. You will find it a constant household friend, giving ease and relief just when needed. Keep it constantly on hand and it will save you many hours of pain and suffering. There is hardly a pain it will not ease.—There is hardly an accident that will occur where it will not be useful.

Should one of your family get burned or scalded cover the burned part with a cloth of several thicknesses wet with the "Master of Pain," and keep the cloth saturated with it. In a short time it will draw all the fire out. It will cause a prickling sensation—this is the fire coming out. Keep it wet with the "Master of Pain," until the pain and prickling ceases. Let the wet cloth stay on for six or tight hours, after which apply some healing ointment or sweet oil. In nearly all cases of Pain of Soreness of the Chest, Throat, Side, Back, Spine, Limbs or Joints, it will give relief.—Rub it on freely with the hand or with a flannel cloth until the skin becomes heated and burning.

For soreness of the throat rub it on until it produces a little soreness.

For Croup use it in connection with the Cough Syrup, by rubbing it on the chest.

duces a little soreness.

For Croup use it in connection with the Cough Syrup, by rubbing it on the chest.

For Rheumatism and all deep seated pains, if the pain is not speedily removed by rubbing with the hand, lay a cloth wet with the liquid over the part affected, and pass a warm smoothing iron over it.

For Pains in the Breast, Side or Back, the same may be done.

For Tooth-ache, drop it on cotton, and apply it to the nerve of the tooth, also rub the gums and cheeks with it.

For Frosted Feet, apply the "Master of Pain"

For Prosted Feet, apply the "Master of Pain" reely, and dry it in before the fire.

For Head-ache rub it on the forehead.

It is called "Master of Pain." I did not give it this name—I don't like the name. When I first commenced making it it was without name or label. I made it and sold it by the ounce at my Drug Store. I had no idea then of making a business of it. Some who bought it called it Master of it. Store. I had no idea then of making a business of it. Some who bought it called it Master of Pain, and by this name it became known for many miles round. And finally, when I had a label printed I was compelled to adopt the name, for by that name it was known. After all, the name is not so very inappropriate. It is used to alleviate or remove pain. It is put on wherever there is pain. Sometimes it will cause pain, but the result always is freedom from pain.
