

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25, 1862. THE BUNDSIDE EXPEDITION—THE OFFICIAL DESPATCHES OF GEN. BURNSIDE.

A special messenger with despatches from Gen. BURNSIDE, reached Washington this morning. They are dated, "Headquarters, Department of North Carolina, Hatteras Inlet, Jan. 25, 1862."

The messenger left Hatteras on Sunday.— Gen. BURNSIDE states:

"We left our anchorage at Annapolis on Thursday, the 9th, and, after a protracted passage, owing to dense fogs, arrived at Fortress Monroe on Friday night at 12 o'clock. Leaving Fortress Monroe on Saturday at 10 o'clock in the morning, we proceeded at once to sea, but owing to fogs on Sunday and Sunday night, our progress was very slow. On Monday, the 13th, the weather cleared, with a heavy wind and rough sea, which caused our vessels to labor very heavily, and some were obliged to cast loose from the vessels they were towing.— Most of them, however, passed over the bar and anchored inside the harbor about 12 o'clock noon, on the 15th, just in time to escape the severe storm of Monday night and Tuesday.

"The propeller City of New York ran on the bar at the entrance of the harbor, and, owing to the severe weather and want of small boats, we could render her no assistance. She was laden with stores and was lost."

The General also says he had been led to suppose that he would find experienced pilots at Hatteras, but had great difficulty in accomplishing his wish for want of proper accommodations. He adds that he would commence that day to build a wharf for the landing of supplies. The men were cheerful and patient, and he would proceed with confidence. An accident occurred in an effort to relieve the steamer New York, by which a boat was swamped, and Col. ALLEN, of the Ninth New Jersey Regiment, his surgeon, and the mate of the boat were lost. After the arrival of the expedition at Hatteras, the enemy made their appearance in one or two vessels on a reconnoitering expedition. Our boats gave chase and drove them back.

The transports and other vessels grounded, will be got off by the aid of the tug boats.— Only one was lost, (the City of New York,) and no lives lost, with the exception of the three above named.

Two Traitors—Two Niggers.

Capricious in its humor, and highly antagonistic to American institutions, the London Times now and then tells truth—by accident, we suppose. In the case of MASON and SIBDELL it comes out, very strongly, against any civility being shown them in England. At Bermuda they dined with the British Admiral on the station, who behaved politely, but invariably snubbed them whenever they began to prate, like Othello, of the dangers they had passed through.

On the contrary, the Times, which is supposed to speak the opinion of the British Government, laughs the martyrs of the Tent to scorn, saying that, "they are about the most worthless booty it would be possible to extract from the jaws of the American lion." It may be asked, why are these amiable martyrs thus denounced? The Times answers, sharply enough, because these two men have long been known as blind and habitual haters and revilers of England! Another reason why the traitors should be made nothing of, in England, socially, is to be found in the fact that the fugitive-slave laws generally afflicted on Mr. MASON.

Give no ovation to these fellows, says the Times. They are of no account. "England would have done just as much to rescue two negroes." All we say is that, if the writer of that cruel assertion, avowing himself, dare venture into the limits of Secession, we are afraid that he would be tarred and feathered, out of hand, amid universal Southern applause. MASON and SIBDELL, pseudo-ambassadors from the South, not of more account than two negroes! No wonder, if such things be, that Vesuvius emits flames and overwhelms cities! — Philo. Critt.

Zollicoffer.

Felix K., Zollicoffer, reported among the slain at Somerset, was born in Rowley county, Tennessee, May 19, 1812, and received an academic education. In 1829, after a short service in a printing office, he undertook the management of a newspaper in Paris, Tenn.— He next edited the Columbia Observer. From this journal he took charge of the Nashville Banner. He held the offices of State Printer, Comptroller and State Senator. In 1851-52 he again assumed charge of the Nashville Banner, and in 1853 he became representative in Congress, which position he held till Congress of 1860. Nothing further is heard of him till he turns up as a rebel general.

That the American people are appreciative of any substantial service rendered them, is seen in the result of Dr. Ayer's enterprise.— It was something of a venture for a chemist of his splendid reputation among the literati of the world, to risk it in the production of Cough Drops and Pills. But he boldly threw himself into the gap where his talents could best subserve the public weal, and it is now easy to see that he did not misjudge the temper of his countrymen. Throughout this nation and some foreign lands, his name is foremost as the benefactor of sickness—while in the good he scatters, he is second to no living man. He wins the brightest laurels most can wear, and enjoys in untold measure the luxury of doing good. [Observer, Dubuque, Iowa.]

"Peterson's Detector," with the rapid multiplication of paper currency is daily more and more an essential in business.
