Washington gossip hath it that Thurlow Weed said that Secretary Stanton ought long ago to have sent Mrs. Lincoln away from Washington which remark coming to the ears of the president's wife, she treated Thurlow very cavalierly on a late call at the White House, refusing to allow him to sit down, and turning him out of the house. Poor Thurlow.

A CORRESPONDENT of the New York Herald gives this method for ridding trees of worms, which is certainly very easily tried, and will be valuable if effectual:—"Bore a hole in the trunk of each tree extenditions of the contract of the contract of the contract of the New York Herald gives this method for the New York Herald gives this method for the New York Herald gives this method for ridding trees of worms, which is certainly not the New York Herald gives this method for ridding trees of worms, which is certainly very easily tried, and will be valuable if effectively the new York Herald gives this method for ridding trees of worms, which is certainly very easily tried, and will be valuable if effectively the new York Herald gives this method for ridding trees of worms, which is certainly very easily tried, and will be valuable if effectively the new York Herald gives the ing to the center or heart of the tree, and then fill up the hole with pulverized sulphur and plug it up tight.—In a short time the sulphur will spread through all the branches, and the worms will soon disappear."

INCENDIARY COTTON.—The Lowell Courier states that in one of the cotton mills of that city, was found a day or two ago, in opening some cotton bales, a little cone shaped article, which was found in the pickone snaped article, which was found in the pick-er room, containing eight or ten percussion caps. On trying them several exploded, and it is supposed that all are good. Had these caps gone into the machinery with the cotton, it is more than probable that a conflagration would have been the consequence.

"A LEFTLE TECH." — "Some months since," writes a correspondent from Rondout on the Hudson, "our minister was impressing upon his hearers the duty of a greater regard for the services of the day of Thanksgiving, set apart by the Governor, and was informing them that on that day he would preach a sermon at that place, and he wished them all to attend to resuder in a proposery manner, seek nowledge. sermon at that place, and he wished them all to attend, to render, in a propper manner, acknowledgements for the many benefits of the past year—for a season of health and bountiful harvests, ect." Here a little wiry man, in a blue coat with metal buttons, and a very elevated collar, popped up from his seat and squeaked out? "Dominie, I wish you'd jest give the 'tater rot a leetle tech in that sarmon o' yourn.—It's been dreadful bad with us!"

"Well, that beats all," exclaimed Mrs. Partington throwing down the newspaper in which, during the last fifteen minutes, she had been spelling out the advertisements and peering indignantly over her spectacles across the breakfast table at Ike, who was spectacles across the breakfast table at Ike, who was busily excavating a fourth egg-shell. "Did any body ever hear the likes? I always said it was as good as tellin' Natur, she didn't know how to do her own work when they instructed them steam-rams and donkey-engines. But this imposterous idea of making slop-work babies is enough to make the poor thing shet up shop altogether!—Mark my words, Ike, them sewin'-machines will be pressed into this new-fangled business before long; and then all the emigration' in the world won't be able to keep down the surplice poppylation."

GEM. GRANT AS A CHECKER-PLAYER,—The Watertown (N. Y.) Daily Reformer relates an anecdote of Gen. Grant: "When the general was a young lieutenant he was stationed for some time at Sackett's Harbor, and in those days paid frequent visits to our village. He was a famous Checker player, and was wont to spend many an hour at the old American hotel in this absorbing game. But there was one of our citizens (whose name we are forbidden to mention) who could beat the lieutenant at his favorite game. But young Grant would never give up. and insisted on his competitor playing with him till he came out ahead, which he would, at last, always do. To secure this end he sometimes kept his friend up nearly all night, and would stay in town three days, studying his long-headed moves, and forcing his opponent to play until he beat him in the wind. If the man declined playing when he was ahead, the lieutenant was offended, and thought him ungentlemanly in the extreme. Grant is now playing checkers in the same style with Lee on the Virginia board."

WINTER IN SPITZBERGEN.—The single night of this readful country begins about the 30th of October; the sun then sets, and never appears till about the 10th of February. A glimmering indeed continues some weeks, after the setting of the sun, then succeed clouds and thick darkness, broken by the light of the moon, which is as luminous as in England, and during this long night shines with unfading luster. The cold strengthens with the new year, and the sun is cold strengthens with the new year, and the sun is ushered in with an unusual severity of frost. By the middle of March, the cheerful light grows strong.—Arctic foxes leave their holes, and the sea fowl resort in great numbers to their breeding places. The sun sets no more after the 14th of May; the distinction of the rad night is then leave. day and night is then lost. In the height of summer the sun is hot enough to melt tar on the decks of ships, but from August its power declines—it sets fast. After the middle of September, day is hardly distinguishable, and by the end of October, takes a long farewell to this country; the earth becomes fro-

VITALITY OF SEEDS.—Farmers are often advised through agricultural papers to gather matured weeds and put them in their compost heaps. Now, I very much doubt the propriety of this advice. Although the decomposed weeds' stalks may be of some vitality, I am very certain the seeds do not lose theirs. When seeds will stand cold and heat for years, or pass through the stomach of an animal without being in the least impaired, I very much doubt the decomposing process of matter with which they are connected, destroying them. Years ago, there stood a small thick hemlock forest in a certain there stood a small thick hemlock forest in a certain locatify in Ashtabula country, through which a win-ding wagon road, from necessity, was made, and farmers often drew loads of hay through this piece of wood. When the public roads were properly laid out and fitted for use, the wood road was entirely abandoned; twenty years later the forest was cut down, and as soon as the sun's rays struck the earth here, there came up a beautiful bed of timothy, the whole length and breadth of the old road. I believe pe length and breadth of the old road. I believe peo-ple acquainted with the circumstances, generally be-lieved that the hay seed scattered there twenty years before, retained its vitality, and when the sun and rain fell upon it, it germinated and grew. During the early part of summer, while weeds were in bloom, I dag a large pond-hole in my pasture, some three feet deep, soon after it was finished there came a slight shower and a warm sun; a week or so after slight shower and a warm sun; a week or so after this, the bed of the hollow was covered with small weeds. It was impossible forthe seed to have blown there at that season of the year, and the only conclusion I could come to, was that the seeds had remained for centuries in the earth without losing their vitality. I think it more advisable to gather matured weeds and burn them, rather than to put them into the com-

When Will the War End?

A deep impression prevails at the North and at the South that the present summer is to see the close of the war. The Southern papers have even put the issue upon the campaign in Virginia, and have said whichever wins, the war is at an end.

We do not take this view of the case, though we fervently wish and pray that the impending strug-gle may be the overthrow of the millitary power of the rebellion, and the establishment of peace and good government in the whole land. But we must bear in mind that the resources of the rebellion have proved far greater than was expected at the beginning, and that with the desperation of failure, the rebels fight with fiercer valor and more endurance than ever. If we defeat and scatter their armies now; if we take Richmond and Atlanta, they have still vastregions in which they may construct their forces again and renew the fight uncontract their forces again and renew the fight uncontract their forces again and renew the fight uncontract.

they have still vast regions in which they may concentrate their forces again, and renew the fight until utterly exhausted. We must be prepared to hold on, and hold fast, and persevere till the Government is restored to the whole country.

It is probable that the unity of sentiment is greater at this moment at the North, than it has ever been since the war begun. The more the war has cost, in blood and money, the more theroughly determined is the heart of the American people.—
The magnitude of the work reveals the value of The magnitude of the work reveals the value of the blessing we seek. If it costs so much to preserve the life of the nation, the nation ought to be very precious in our eyes. And it ought to be doubly dear to us now that we have endured so much to save it. much to save it.

But we are among those who believe that the war ought to be, and might be brought to a close this summer, and that too by the complete triumph of the Union cause. To this end the energies of the Gevernment ought to be directed, and the energies of the complete triumph of the Union cause. the resources of the country brought to bear upon the extinguishment of the rebellion. Such a host of men are interested in prolonging the war, that we shall have to encounter all the obstacles they can throw in the way. They want it to go on, that they may make money out of it. But the great bulk of the American people are willing to make bulk of the American people are willing to make any sacrifices, and to resume operations next year, and the year after, and again, rather than to suffer the country to be rent in twain by the hand of rebellion. They want the war to be prosecuted vigorously, and ended speedily, but they do not want it ended on any other basis than that of Union, and the Constitution.—N. Y. Observer.

HOSTETTER'S

Celebrated

A pure and powerful Tonic, corrective and alternative of wonderful efficacy in disease of the STOMACHH LIVER AND BOWELS.

Curas Dyspepsia, Liver complaint, Headache, General de-bilily, Norvousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation Colic, Intermittent Fevers, Cramps and Spasms, and all Complaints of either Sex, arising from Bodily Weakness whether inherent in the system of produced by special Nothing that is not wholesome, genial and restorative causes.

Nothing that is not wholesome, genial and restorative in its nature enters into the composition of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind, no deadily botanical element; no fiery excitant; but it is a combination of the extracts of rare balsami', horbs and plants with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants

It is well to be forearmed against disease, and so far as human system can be protected by human means against maladies engendered by an unwholesome atmosphere, impure water and other external causes, Hostetter's Bitters may be relied on as a safeguard.

In districts infested with Fecer and Ague, it has been found infallible as a preventive and irresistable as a remedy, and thousands who resort to it under apprehension of an attack, escape the scourges and thousands who neglect to avail themselves of its protective qualities in advance, are cured by a very brief course of this marvelous medicine. Fever and Ague patients, after being plied with quinine for months in vain, until fairly saturated with that dangerous alkaloid, and not unfrequently restored to health within a few days by the use of Hostetter's Bitters.

The weak stomach is rapidly inviganted and the appreter's Bitters.

The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated and the appetite restored by this agreeable Tonic, and, hence it works wonders in cases of Dispepsia and in less confirmed forms indigestion. Acting as a gentle and painless aperients, as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs.

Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous Attacks, Lou-

The agony of Billious Colic is immediately assuaged by a single dose of the stimulant, and by occasionally resorting to it, the return of the complaint may be prevented. As a general Tonic, Hostetter's Bitters' produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. In cases of *Constitutional Weakness, Prenature Decay and Debility and Decreptitude arising from Old Age, it exercises on electric influence. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed, it operates to re-enforce and re-establish them.

Last, but not least, it is *The Only Safe Stimulant, being mnnufactured from sound and innoxious materials, and entirely free from the acid elements present more or less in in all the ordinary tonics and stomachies of the day.

No family medicine has been so universally, and it may betruly added, descreedly popular with the intelligent portion of the community, as Hostetter's Bitters.
