At all other times desiring opporations should call early, as time is limited. All operations Warranted.

The circulation of our paper is so large that we experience great inconvenience, as well as delay, in pinting it upon an ordinary hand press, such as are pretty generically used in country newspaper offices. It takes us a whole day to run off our edition when every thing works well. If the press does not, as is often the case, run well, a day is not enough .-We have been seriously retarded and inconvenienced because we have not been able to get off our paper always quite up to time. With our present facilities, we have no inducement to make the crease our circulation, because it is impossible for us crease our circulation, because it is impossible for us to print more than we are printing. We think the to print more than we are printing. We think the BBONT.

CARD FRAMES, less than ten or twelve hundred Union men who do not take the INQUIRER. We are determined that it shall not be our fault if they do not have the oppor tunity of taking it. And to afford them that oppor tunity we are considering whether we had not better at once procure a power press, capable of throwing off our present edition with ease inside of an hour and a half. Our subscription list has already been so largely augmented and our job work so much increased, that we feel under a sort of "compulsion" to take some action without needless waiting, so that we may carry on our growing business with dispatch and with the utmost regularity. On the whole we guess that if power presses have not not gone up too high in prices, we shall have one in the full tide of successful operation within a few weeks.

From the N. Y. Tribune. The Fifty-fifth Pennsylvania Regiment. To the Editor of the N. Y. Tribune :

Sin: In your issue of May 21, 1864, you published a communication, signed "J. W.," from a correspondent with the 16th Army Corps, dated "Near City Point, Va., May 16, 1864," giving an account of the enemy's attack on our lines near Drury's Bluff, Va., on the morning of that day; which contained the following paragraphs:

"Col. White, commanding the 1st Brigade in Gen. Ames's division of the 16th Corps, was pierced with fifteen bullets, while endeavoring to encourage the 55th Pennsylvania, which behaved badly."

As your paper has been the instrument of spreading this slander throughout the country, we feel that we have a right to ask that you should publish the contradiction. In the first place, Col. White was teken prisoner, unhurt, and was not "pierced with 15 bullets, as stated.

LIGHT. CHAS. A. CARLETON, A. A. A General.

Sir.: I have the horror to acknowledge the receipt of the request of Capt. John C. Shearer, commanding 55th Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers, referred to me from Division Headquarters, relative to the behavior of that regiment during the engagement on the 16th of May last, at Drury's Bluff. In reply, I will state the position of the 55th Pennsylvania Volunteers and the 4th New Hampshire Volunteers, being a portion of the 1st Brigade, and under command of Col. R. White. When the enemy opened fire on the morning of the 16th, five companies of the 4th Mew-Hampshire Volunteers were at the front, or on the advanced picket fire of the brigade, protected by a rifle-pit thrown up the night previous, the remaining five companies being in their camp, a short distance in the rear. The reserve were immediately ordered to fall in, and marched forward in line of battle, under the command of Col. Bell, to support the advanced line, which was, done without loss, the fog at this time being very heavy, which doubtless prevented the enemy from noticing the advance, as the fire from their batteries went over us, and fell near our camp. Immediately afterward the 55th Pennsylvania Volunteers marched forward in our rear, the regiment being formed in two lines of battle, their right resting in the rear of the center of the universe o

Here they halted, and the men were ordered to Here they halted, and the men were ordered to lie down. At this time the fog lifted, and the enemy noticing their position opened upon them with solid shot, shrepnell and shell. Being on the right of the 4th N. H. V., the enemy's fire passed over my company, and was received by the 55th, and also on the the center and left of the 4th N. H. V., causing a large number of casualities in both regiments. A section of Langdon's Battery which had been stationed in the edge of the woods on our left opened fire on the enemy. The 55th were then ordered to change position, one battailon closing up on the 4th fire on the eage of the woods on our left opened fire on the eage of the woods on our left opened fire on the enemy. The 55th were then ordered to change position, one battalion closing up on the 4th N. H. V., the other marching by flank to the left.—Soon afterward an order came for me to report to Col. Bell, when I received order to march my company from the rifle-pits by the left flashs, which order was complied with. In leaving I passed in the rear of the 55th, who held their position in good order. Here my own personal observation of the 55th ceases, and I can report that what I saw of them under fire would not justify any one in accusing them of bad behavior. From the statements made to me of bad behavior. From the statements made to me of bad behavior. From the statements made to me of bad behavior are unanimous in the opinion that no regiment could have done better than they did under the severe fire to which they were exposed.

Capt. Langdon, of the 1st United States Artillery, whose batteries were supported by the 55th previous to the 16th, as well as during that day, confirms the opinion of the foregoing officers, and, in his our own language, made the statement. To wish for no better regiment to support my battery than the 55th Pa.

Every gentleman who possesses or cares for horses would do well to keep this book in his house. Mr. Mayhew's treatment of the worst diseases to which the Kquine race are subjected; together with the latest mode of treatment, and all the requisite prescriptions written in plain English.—By Edward Mayhew, M. R. C. V. S., author of several works on Veterinary Art.

[From the London Globe.]

Every gentleman who possesses or cares for horses would down and the method of keeping horses well to keep this book in his house. Mr. Mayhew's treatment of the worst diseases to which horses are liable is very clearly laid down and the method of keeping horses well and to a prolonged old age, is that ef nature, of common sense.

[From the Era.]

No one with the least equine knowledge can require to be told that Mr. Makew is the man for the task which he has undertaken, and most satisfactorily accomplished.—
His high reputation in the veterinary art cations as a practiced writer on domestic animals, render him the very person for supplying an intelligent and interesting work on the diseases of the horse, which would be devoid of mere professional localities, while, at the same time, his skill as a draughtsman, and humor as a witty observer of life, enabled him to illustrate with his pencil what he had written with his pen. We advisedly say that "The Illustrated Horse Doctor" is the very best book of the kind which we know; and what gives it an essential charm is, that the author so thoroughly sympathizes with the noble animal which he decreibes. We at once pronounce it as scientific, yet intelligible; informing, yet highly amusing; acceptable to the profound horse doctor, yet the work of all others for the hook shelves in every gentleman's sanctum.

We give it our unqualified approbation and recommendation.
