A few years ago both started for Calafornia, but one was taken sick on the Isthmus and returned. The Eye of the Needle.—A recent traveler to the Holy Land informs us that there is at the side of the principal gate of Jerusalum, a small one, which, apon occasions of great urgency, was opened for admission of persons after the great gates of the city were closed for the night. This gate, from its small size, was called the Eye of the Needle; and to get a camel through it all was no small task—for a loaded camel to pass was an utter impossibility. With the above fact before the mind, one can see that the words of our Savier, when speaking of the "strait gate" and the "rich man," were more literal than many suppose. And we see how, as the fich man passes into the narrow way, the sides and the low top of the strait gate scrape everything from him in which he had before trusted. No one can take anything but himself through. Far easier is it to strip a camel of its burden, than to divest a rich man of his trust in riches.—Christian Register.

Plants in Sleeping-Rooms.—Daring the night

PLANTS IN SLEEPING-ROOMS.—During the night plants breathe out carbonic acid and absorb oxygen. The breathing of plants is therefore at night like that of animals; but we must not imagine that they contaminate the air to the same extent. This is a very popular, and at the same time a very great mistake. It has been supposed that growing plants viriate the irr of a sleeping-room in consequence of the amont. It has been supposed that growing plants vitate the air of a sleeping room in consequence of the amont of carbonic acid which they exhale, and that they are unwholesome and ought to be removed, especially from the apartment of a patient. But allowing that they give off carbonic acid and destrey oxygen, yet if everything that does this is to be expelled then the lamps must be removed, the fire put out, and all visitors at the same time.

Now although plants do absorb oxygen give out carbonic acid at night, yet in this instance the pro-carbonic acid at night, yet in this instance the pro-cess of combustion is so slight, that although evapor-ation has ceased, not the slightest heat is produced which is perceptible to the senses, or even to the most delicate tests which science furnishes. The abmost delicate tests which science furnishes. The absurdity, therefore, of removing the plants is at once seen. Let them alone! whether in flower or not they are doing no harm, and will do good if the patient is fond of flowers,—bring back the pleasant memories of the bright sun, the clear blue sky, the healthy breeze, of rambles in the field and; they are not foes, but friends. I love them. They have often driven away sad thoughts. They will continue to cheer me to the end of life's journey. They will take up their watch by my head stone. No matter if it is only a little groundsel, chickweed, or moss; all are welcome, because all are beautiful! Woven by the magic chemistry of Nature from earth and air, colored by the distant sun, each is the work of an Infinte Being, associated with the past and linked with the future of an eternal universe; and naturalists will puzzle themselves about the nature of their chemistry, and try in vain to search out the grand secrets of their vitality for ages yet to come, is we do now.—Once a Weck.

Schnibler has just made an extriordinary discovery, which, while explaining in a beautiful manner this characteristic of the bee adds another to the many striking examplifictions of that inscrutable power of instinct which which so often transcends reason to himself. Schnibler found that clear strained honey, which, kept in the dark, remained unchanged, when exposed to the light gradually chrystalline and solidified, undergoing, through the influence of the light, some molecular change, similar to that impressed upon the iodyne of silver of the daguerreotype plate. The bee, therefore, in order to preserve in the fluid form the nutriment it stores up for its progeny, shuts it up in total darkness. up for its progeny, shuts it up in total darkness.

QUININE is now the king of medicines; and while QUININE IS now the king of medicines; and while every one regards it as the most reliable and invaluable of remedies, there are many who think that with quinine and opium they can treat all diseases. The demand is enormous, and the more especially if we recall the rapidity with which this younger son of medicine has come into its rights. Into this country bark found its way for the first time late in the seventeenth century; and in France it won its entrance into the pharmacoposis by curing Louis XIV, being used then for him as a secret remedy, and on being used then for him as a secret remedy, and on the following conditions: 48,000 livres, 2000 livres as a pension, and the title of chevalier. The communication between French and leading the commun munication between French and English physicians was not then complete or intimate, and so this magnificent price was obtained for Pallot's remedy. which was only a vinous tincture of quinine commonly employed in England. Louis XIV ordered its admission into the pharmacopoeia; The sources of quinine are, however, gradually failing under the pressure of the enormons demand; and although the British government in forming plantations of cincho-na trees in india have met with success in an import-ant degree, yet the best kinds of quinine-bearing trees are said not to have succeeded so well as the others. -London Lancet.

THE MARRIED LIFE OF JOHN WESLEY .- When Wesley settled he said 'ilt would be more useful to marry." He married a widow, who, through her jealousy, led him a life of wretchedness and misery. jealousy, led him a life of wretchedness and misery. At last his spirit was up, and he wrote to her—"Know me and know yourself. Suspect me no more; provoke me no more; do not any longer contend for mastery, for power, money, or praise; be content to be a private insignificant person, known and loved by God and me." It was not likely that a woman would be pleased at being recommended to be an insignificant person. After twenty years of disquietude she one day left him. He bore it philosophically. He went even beyond it—he took his diary and put the most pithy entry into it! ever met with in a diary: "Non eam reliqui, non demisi, non revocadiary: "Non eam reliqui, non demisi, non revoca-bo," which may be translated thus: "I did not leave her; I did not send her away; I shan't send for her back." Aud so ended the married life of John Wesley.

Those Remarkable Institutions—The great Public Schools of England, have recently been submitted to the examination of a Parliamentary Commission, whose lately published report exhibits a states of things curiously at variance with received notions. So far from the mass of English gentry (who usually are educated as one or the other of them) being well grounded in classical literature, it appears that any such acquirements are a rare exception to the general rule. At Eton, the most popular and wealthiest of the Foundation Schools, where eight hundred of the flower of British youth are brought up, and where the enoluments of the head master are between thirty and forty thousand per annum, the best that can be said is that a boy, if studious. It is not thought the worse of on that account; but all real influence and distinction in the school, are only to be acquired by intense devotion to rowing or criketing. In fact, the great majority of the Eaton boys are said to lead edsy, pleasant lives, spending their time chiefly in the playing field and on the river, and not a little of it in the public houses and taps of the neighborhood. Of Härrow School, where the receipts of the master are even greater than at Eaton, the record is a little better, and at Winchester School study is more regarded than ply, most of the hardworking clergy being educated there. At Westmin ster School, where Dr. Busby's awful shadow still villes, it is stated that the system of "fagging" prevails so strictly that at the end of his first year a boy cannot only have made no advance, but he must necessarily know less than when he came, as the whole of his time would be taken up with blacking shoes, lighting fires. Ec., for the elder boys, so absurdly does English conservatism cling to the worst abuses that have age and precedent in their favor. The only great schools that properly carry out their purpose are declared to be two of minor consequence andrank. II. A Companion to the Illustrated Horse Management.

NEW EDITION.

THE ILLUSTRATED HORSE DOCTOR.

Being an accurate and detailed account, accompanied by more than 400 pictorial representations characteristic to the various diseases to which the Equine race are subjected; together with the latest mode of treatment, and all the requisite prescriptions written in plair, English.—
By Edward Mayhew, M. R. C. V. S., author of several Works on Veterinary Art.

[From the London Globe.]
Every gentleman who possesses or cares for horses would do well to keer this book in his house. Mr. Mayhew's treatment of the worst diseases to winch horses are liable is very clearly hid down and the method of keeping horses well and to a prolonged old age, is that of nature, of common sense.

IFrom the Era ...

No one with the least squine knowledge can require to be told that Mr. Mahew is the man for the task which he has undertaken, and most satisfactorily accomplished.—His high reputation in the veterinary art, and his qualifications as a practiced writer on domestic animals, repder him the very person for supplying an intelligent and interesting work on the diseases of the horse, which would be devoid of mere professional localities, while, at the same time, his skill as a draughtsman, and humor as a witty observer of life, enabled him to illustrate with his pend what he had written with his pen. We advisedly say that "The Illustrated Horse Doctor" is the very best book of the kind which we know; and what gives it an essential charm is, that the author so thoroughly sympathizes with the noble animal which he describes.

We at once pronounce it as scientific, yet intelligible; informing, yet highly amusing; acceptable to the profound horse doctor, yet the work of all others for the book shelves in every gentleman's sanctum. ... We give it our unqualified approbation and recommendation.

We heartily invite the readers of the Teacher to examine this excellent volume, believing that it will tend to hasten the time when teaching will be recognized as a profession, and the teacher be as fitted for his work as to command the respect of the wise and good.

[From the Com. School Journal.]

This is an excellent book and we welcome it as a valuable addition to the limited lists of works for teachers.—

It was written by an earnest and experienced teacher-by one whose heart is in the great work of Education. It is full of useful hints, suggestions and directions, and no true teacher can read it without profit. We sincerely thank Prof. Wickershamfor the preparation of this work. It will be good wherever it may be circulated.

uman system can be protected by human means againg naladies engendered by an unwholesome atmosphere, in pure water and other external causes, Hostetter's Bitten may be relied on as a safeguard. In districts infested with Fever and Ague, it has been found infallible as a preventive and irresistable as a ren. edy, and thousands who resort to it under apprehension of an attack, escape the scourges and thousands who neglect to avail themselves of its protoctive qualities in advance, are cured by a very brief course of this marvelous medicine Fever and Ague patients, after being plied with quinine for months in vain, until fairly saturated with that dangerous alkaloid, and not unfrequently re-stored to health within a few days by the use of Hoster ter's Bitters. The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated and the appetite restored by this agreeable Tonic, and hence it works wonders in cases of Dispepsia and in less confirmed forms HERRING and Mackerel by the barrel, half barrel or dozen; together with a great variety of other goods to which we call the attention of every body. gestive and secretive organs.

Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous Attacks, Lou. ness of Spirits, and Fits of Languor, find prompt and pernanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony or oint is most conclusive, and from both sexes. The agony of Billious Colic is immediately assuaged by a single dose of the stimulant, and by occasionally resorting to it, the return of the complaint may be prevented.

As a general Tonic, Hostetter's Bitters produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they ex-be fully appreciated In cases of Constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay and Debility and Decreptinas arising from Old Age, it exercises on electric influence In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed, it operates to re-enforce and re-establish them. Last, but not least, it is The Only Safe Stimulant, being innufactured from sound and innoxious materials, and ea. irely free from the soid elements present more or less is in all the ordinary tonics and stomachies of the day. No family medicine has been so universally, and it may be truly added, deservedly popular with the intelligen portion of the community, as Hostetter's Bitters.
