

Farm, Garden & Household.

WEEDS IN GARDENS.

Nothing reduces the current expenses of a family for the outlay more than a well-managed kitchen-garden; but the general complaint with many is the labor of keeping it clean—the constant fight with weeds. Some are of opinion that a garden of a quarter of an acre in extent will grow more weeds than ten acres of farm land, and there is good ground for the belief according to the way some are managed. A few weeds, allowed to ripen next year, and thus, year after year, the earth becomes filled with them till the soil of a garden consists of three main ingredients—namely, a soil naturally, a large amount of manure, artificially, and an immense supply of food weeds, spontaneously.

The question naturally arises, is it not practicable to clear out entirely, and totally the last of the three? Are weeds a necessity? If a garden contains a hundred thousand, and ninety-nine thousand are killed by the hoe, why not the remaining thousand? If nine hundred and ninety of this thousand, why not the remaining ten? The soil of a garden may be completely purified of weeds and their seeds, greatly reducing the labor of keeping it in order, and largely contributing to a fine growth of the crops. It is much easier to keep a garden perfectly clean than to be engaged in a constant warfare with the weeds. The labor is far less. The reason that it is not done is the want of care and attention. Nearly all are satisfied if a garden is nearly clean. This is the origin of all the trouble—namely, leaving a few weeds to seed the whole ground. The remedy is, begin now, eradicate everything that may have shown its head, and so continue the examination every week. One morning every week should be set apart for this special purpose. Unless something of this kind is adopted, the thing will certainly be neglected. And after they are out continue the process to keep them out. It is easier to spend half an hour in a morning once a week in this way, and have good crops than to spend three days in each week fighting the intruders, and, as a consequence, getting bad crops.—Scottish Farmer.

ABOUT TASTES—A FREQUENT MIS- TAKE.

Several years ago, a party of travelers in the Rocky Mountains, foot-sore, weary, and hungry, came upon a wild grape vine, loaded with clusters. They stopped and feasted, and all declared the grapes to be the best they had ever tasted. Late in the fall, on their return eastward, they brought home several packages of cuttings for the propagation of this new and superior grape. But when it came into bearing, all were disappointed; the fruit was tough, lacking in flavor, and every way inferior to the ordinary grapes of Eastern gardens. Whence came their disappointment? Simply from the fact that they ate the Western grapes when they were tired and hungry, and had not seen any fruit for many days, and had nothing better at hand as a standard of comparison.

WASH FOR APPLES AND OTHER FRUIT TREES.

One of the best methods for preserving the health and promoting the vigor and fruitfulness of fruit trees, is to wash them frequently with some liquid capable of destroying the parasitical plants and insects which adhere to the surface of the bark, and sap the vital energies by a constant drain of the circulating current. A liquor formed of one pound of whale oil soap to a bucket of water, is now generally used for this purpose. A ley of wood ashes, rather dilute, is also excellent. The liquid should be applied with a coarse rag, which will remove the moss, and dislodge the insects which may have obtained a lodgement on the bark. By giving the trees in your orchards and gardens, two or three good washings during the season, care being had to wet every part of the surface of the trunks, the insects as well as the moss will be effectually removed, and the bark left in a beautiful and healthy condition. April, June and August are the months in which washing may be practised with the best results, though where one can afford time, a good thorough scrubbing every month during the growing season, would be still better. If the trees are old, and thickly incumbered with moss, should be scraped off carefully before applying the wash. A coarse piece of coffee or cotton bag may be used for scrubbing, and the coarser it is the better. Brush brooms, partially worn, may answer well, where the surface is rough and very mossy; but on young trees, the bagging is preferable, and used with much greater efficiency and ease.—Ger. Tel.

CRACKER CRIBBERS.

There are very few housewives who are advised that the common water-cracker, properly prepared, will produce one of the most palatable, delicious dishes for either breakfast or tea, that can be placed on the table. My method of preparation is as follows:—Soak the crackers twenty minutes, in clear, cold water, when they will be increased to twice their original size, and as fluffy as a sponge. Place them carefully, to avoid breaking, in a pan or skillet, having in it, just so much hot butter, fat, or clean "drippings," as you would use for frying fish—fry one side to a rich brown,
