GRAND MASS MEETING. The Union men in Council. HALL ADDRESS THEM.

The Union Republican meeting called for Tuesday night was one of the most enastic that it has ever been our privilege nd. The Court House was crowded to tmost capacity. We are sorry that we only give the briefest synopsis of its proings owing to the crowded condition of airs attending Court.

The meeting was organized by the appointof Hon. A. Weaverling of Bloody Run esident of the meeting. The following guished gentlemen were selected as Vice ents: Capt. Martin Bortz of Cumber-Valley, Capt. Oliver Horton of Monroe, W. Gracey, East Providence, Capt. S. Stuckey, Napier, Lieut. Jacob Ket-South Woodberry, Capt. I. H. Conley, sburg, Col. Alex. Compher, Colerain, D. W. Mullen, Harrison, Capt. Lemuel s, Broad Top, Lieut. W. Roberts, Woodberry, and Lieut L. B. Waltz, ; and the following persons were aprd Borough, Lieut. Wilson Sparks West nce, Sergt. E. Y. Imler Bedford hip and Capt. S. B. Tate, Bloody Run. response to loud calls Gen. Wm. H. z came forward and made a most briland beautiful speech which was listened ler followed in a most characteristic thing review of the course of the Copad party during the war, which elicited surpassed by any we have ever seen est efforts and was listened to with thusiasm and earnestness. Mr. Hall hen called out at a late hour and made of his neat and forcible speeches which received with much pleasure.

This fellow came forward amid calls from various persons. If he had heard the not very cuphonious epithets, heaped upon him at a imilar meeting, just after his vote for the constitutional amendment, by the parties who preceded him on this evening, he would doubtless have felt himself in a very uncomfortable position. As it was, he spoke for some time amid dead silence, without a word or smile of encouragement, cheers were out of the question, in fact the whole meeting was remarkably devoid of the noisy demonstrations usually attending the meetings of the Democracy, and seemed impressed with the idea that the whole thing was a very serious

His speech was principally devoted to the frank acknowledgment of the vote against the soldiers and a labored attempt to justify it. He seemed indeed to take especial pains to give the fact prominence, that they had voted against the soldier then, much as they love him now. They acknowledged the case was a desperate one, and their stock of a somewhat doubtful utility, because of Democratic precedents, but as it was all they had they seemed to have made up their minds as P. We understand that Mr. Berkstresser will commence to canvass at once and give every family an opportunity to secure one. This book long needed, has come at last.

> > FOR THE REDFORD INOTHER. Who is Capt. Adam Weaverling?

No doubt when the time comes to elect our county officers, many honest voters will seek information as to the moral character and qualifications of the various candidates before the people. For whilst it is true that most men are so strictly partisan that they will vote for any one nominated by their party, no matter whether fit for the position or not, yet there are many who would prefer to aid in elevating to office men of integrity, without strict regard to party principles. Perhaps some such will ask, who is Capt. Adam Wea verling? as he is nominated for the office of Associate Judge, what is his moral character, and what his qualifications for the office? Will the inquiring voter believe one who is most intimately acquainted with the gentleman in question-one who is not writing from partisan principles nor for selfish interests, g Government bonds and breaking faith but simply to give information to such as may not be personally acquainted with Mr. Wea

Although not possessing a classical education, he is, nevertheless, a man ly, came next, with a denial of having op of strong mind, clear judgment and good business qualifications.

LETTER FROM TEXAS. Hp. Qas. 17th U. S. C. Infantay, Brownsylle, Texas, August 14, 1865.

J. R. DURBORROW, Esq.: Dear Sir-Thinking that perhaps a few lines from this locality might not be wholly uninteresting to your readers, now that the rebellion is over and the armies disbanded, I have therefore concluded give you something of the doings of the largest army still in service—as well as a short cription of the country, the doings of our cousins across the river and the etceteras that may come up in my mind.

Landing at Brazos Santiago, the "best harbor South of Galveston," as I was informed and of which fact I can testify, as I did not see more than a dozen of wrecks upon the breakers when we landed, neither did we lose more than half the corps in affecting a beach upon which is erected some three or four sheds, two condensers for the manufacture of fresh water, some half dozen sutlers and the aforesaid wrecks.

Brownsville is distant from Brazos 40 mile cross the country, or 150 miles along the coast and up the Rio Grande. Small boats ascend the river to this point, and a Railroad is in a forward state of completion.

In our march across the country we had a very severe trial, as the mud exceeded by far anything I ever saw in Virginia. The river being on a "bender" overflowed her banks so that we had to march for miles in mud and water to our hips. One noticeable feature here is the stunted condition of the trees. In fact there are few trees that are above 15 or 20 feet high, although perhaps from 10 to 20 ded Col. Blackburn and Superintendent Quin inches in diameter. They grow in every confor their most cowardly, brutal and unofficerceiveable shape, except straight. I was like attack on the Rebel General Wheeler, at amused at two of the "darks" speculating upon the reason of their being so low and crooked, when Sam explained the matter satisfactorily by saying "they grew in the dark and couldn't see where in h- they were go-

This is a very dry section of country which ccounts for its barrenness. Scarcely anything grows away from the river but "Prickly Pears" and coarse brambles known as "Chaperal.

"What are we doing here?" is the all absorbing question. I will tell you, we are planting gardens. Yes, sir, the 25th Army Corps have turned the "Sword into ploughshares and the bayonet into pruning hooks.' If things continue thus for a few months the lower waters of the Rio Grande will be a miniature Egypt, as measures are being taken to irrigate the soil, the climate being so mild that crops, if properly irrigated, will grow all the time. This is, however, a sanitary measure, as scurvey has for some time existed very extensively in our corps. I think it will have a salutary effect in teaching the poor benighted greasers how to garden-or give him an idea of Yankee enterprise.

Brownsville is a town of from five to seven ousand inhabitants, mostly Mexicans, and was, when we came here, very dirty, but as details are daily made from the various regiments in the neighborhood for police purpo ses it wears a better appearance. It boast of but few good houses, mostly one story buildings. The native Mexican is the laziest goes are their chief amusements. They may tinuance. The case was continued until next | be seen at all hours loitering around the sa lo ons drinking and carousing. The Fandanof $10,000. Mr. Cessna conducted the case goes might bear a passing notice as they are now the peculiar institutions of this country When one is on the tapis all classes and con ditions are admitted upon equal footing, the only expenses of the evening being for what you eat and drink. Thus you ask a senoretta to dance, after which you adjourn to the saloon and quaff a mint julip, a brandy cocktail, or a punch—either of which she can take without wincing. Thus the evenings pass night after night, and week after week. It is not unfrequently you see the gold laced gentry join in a cotillion, a Mexican break-down, a quadrille, or a schottische, with a slouchy wench of a greaser, who would be kicked out their former masters. of any northern kitchen on account of her sloveliness. As to costumes they are the oddity of the season. The men wear very large hats (sombreros) three feet in diameter. a swadling cloth, sandels and a huge pair of spurs, making altogether a brilliant appearance. The women wear a loose wrapper thrown over their shoulders (very low) with out gathering about the waist-taking the habiliments of each, I think them a very cool > arrangement. The weather has been warm, but owing to the fact that there is a constant breeze from the east, I question if we feel it any more than you do in Pennsylvania. There is much sickness here now, mostly curvey and bone fever. Constant skirmishing is going on across the river between the Liberals and Imperials. Gen. Mejia holds the city, while Cortina prowls through the chaperell capturing all property in transit from Matamoras to Monterey. His headquarters seem to be in Brownsville, as he or his lazy crew can be seen prowling around the saloons at all hours of day and night. They can be told from the rest of the greaser fraternity by wearing a white handkerchief around their sombreros, and two very suspicious looking revolvers slung to their waists, and of that order who are ready to cut the throat of friend or foe for a picayune. We are in favoring of enforcing the Monroe doctrine, but unless the Government establishes a protectorate or annexes them, their condition will be worse. The Imperial rule in Matamoras is equal to some of our northern cities in guaranteeing security to life or property. Thus a few days since in company with two other officers, I ored population, when possessing freedom was walking the streets of the "heroic city," and the means of education, can be permanently excluded from the elective franchise. when some of the many exiled rebels seeing our uniforms commenced hollowing for "Jeff. Davis," and making demonstrations of a hostile nature. Ere things could become serious, the police, who are armed with sabers, rushed to the scene and handled the chivalry very roughly. We are ever treated with the greatest courtesy, the Mexican soldiers always saluting our officers when passing. There were some 800 French in the city, they have now left, as their numbers were constantly being depleted by desertion. But I must close as I have written much that is useless.

Very respectfully yours. Capt. F.

The New York papers are discussing the expediency of conferring the right of suffrage upon the freedmen of the South. The World says:

If, after order and stability are restored in the South, the Southern people shall see fit to admit the freedmen to a participation in the elective franchise, it may be wise and politic for them to do so. But this is a matter of which they are the exclusive judges. As a question of State policy it is one of the points for them to do so. But this is a matter of which they are the exclusive judges. As a question of State policy it is one of the very first magnitude. We are of opinion that the next generation of negroes will either have the suffrage or perturb the State. If the negro population of the South were as small in proportion as that of the northern States the quesiton might be decided either way without peril to the public tranquility. In different Northern States it has been decided variously, and there is nothing in the face of society to show that one mode of deciding it is no just as good as another. In some of the Northern States we have universal negro suffrage; in others, ne negro suffrage with a property qualification; in others, no negro suffrage at all. Our negro population is so insignificant that all these methods are equally and perfectly safe. But in some of the Southern States the negroes approximate in numbers to the whites. We do not believe that, in such States the approximate in numbers to the whites. We do not believe that, in such States the col-

Give the emancipated negroes of the rebel States, then, in the reconstruction of those States, the right to vote along with the whites. There need be no fear that this concession will lead to negro social equality. Negroes vote in New York and there is no approach to negro social equality. Society will take care of itself in the matter, as it does in everything self in the matter, as it does in everything else affecting its peace and harmony.
