nea. Let it be distinctly understood that w do not deviate from our published terms. We have only the Advertised price for EDITORIAL NOTICES, special notices and advertisements. The puffing business is played out with us unless our terms, 15 cents a line, are strictly complied with, nor do we make any reduction or our advertising to accommodate our best friends. There is no use for us to establish prices if we do not be governed by them, and we shall hereafter as heretofore, know no faworitism. We hope those persons desiring to use our columns will save time by examin ting our terms and complying with them .- tf.

We take great pleasure in returning our thanks to the numerous subscribers of the INQUIRER for the prompt manner in which they have come forward and paid their subscription in advance. We believe that we have the best paying patrons in the State. We are also very highly gratified at the numerous subscriptions which we have received; during Court week upwards of twenty volun tarily gave us their names without any exer tion on our part, and better than all this, paid in advance. The INQUIRER has almost doubled its circulation within the last two years. it is now rapidly approaching 1,400, between 1,100 and 1,200 of this number are circulated in Bedford county, making it one of the best advertising mediums in Southern Pennsylvania. This circulation then, we have no hesitation in saying, exceeds the bona fide circulation attained by any other journal in this county at least 500. This is certainly very encouraging, and with a little more effort' on the part of our friends the INQUIRER will go into the hands of two-thirds of the Union men in the county, when we succeed in ac complishing this feat. Bedford county will give us a clear Union majority of three hundred. Friends, there are twenty-six hundred Union voters in the county, the INQUIRER ought to be in the hands of two thousand of them at the least calculation. We are giving as much reading matter as any county paper published. and we are excluding all the demoralizing advertisements which too frequently crowd the columns of the country press. In a very when we will not likely renew the contracts. Friends, spread intelligence it is the safe guard of Republican institutions .-- tf.

RATIFICATION.

The Union men of Philadelphia Ratify their nominations—A vast gathering at National Hall—Speech of Hon. John Cessna.

The people of Philadelphia assembled or Saturday night, in large numbers and with great enthusiasm, at National Hall, to ratify the nominations made by the late Republican Convention, and to listen to the distinguished speakers who had accepted invitations to ad-

There were present upon the floor a grea any prominent citizens. The meeting was marked by the utmost enthusiasm. Hon John Cessna, Chairman of the State Central Committee, on opening the meeting, said:
CITIZENS OF PHILADELPHIA—We are about

CITIZENS OF PHILADELPHIA—We are about to organize the first mass meeting of the political campaign of 1865 in the Keystone State. It is right and proper that this work should commence in the great metropolis of our commonwealth. The city whose sons were among the first to respond to the call of their country, whose means have contributed so largely for the last four years to the cause of the Union, whose fires of patriotism have constantly burned brightly through the whole night of gloom and darkness, and whose patriotic daughters have ever been hastening to the field of battle, before the smoke of the the field of battle, before the smoke of the battle had passed away, to care for the wounded and alleviate the pangs of the dying, may well be among the first to declare her position on the great issues raised by the war and now presented for adjustment by the American people.

One year ago and the representatives of a great political organization, in National Convention assembled, pronounced the war for the preservation of the Union a failure; and the papers, speakers, and leaders of that organization, during the entire campaign of 1864, proclaimed that war could not restore the Union, that the re-election of our late lamented and patriotic President, Abraham Lincoln, would protract the struggle, fill the land with untold horrors, and finally overthrow and destroy the republic of our fathers and rear a great military despotism on its ru ins. The friends of the government boldly and fearlessly met the issues thus presented. The people, by their verdict at the polls, by a majority unprecedented in the history of the republic, recorded their will. The enemies of liberty in foreign lands stood appalled at the result. The friends of the Union everywhere took new courage. Rebels trembled, and the heart of the rebellion grew sick, and sank in the bosom of treason, and the friends of traitors in our own midst hid themselves away, and many of them deny now that they ever advocated the doctrines, or made the prophecies which composed the entire burden of their songs of 1864.

The war is now over. The promises and pledges of our friends, made in 1864, have year ago and the representatives of their songs of 1864.

The war is now over. The promises and pledges of our friends, made in 1864, have all been kept and fulfilled. Those of our political adversaries have all been dissipated, and proved hollow, delusive and false.

Thanks to the heroism, courage and skill of American soldiers, sailors and officers, and to the God of hottles.

the God of battles, our nation is saved and the good old republic of our fathers still lives. Sweet peace has again spread her gentle wings over our once happy and still beloved land.

The sound of trumpets, the roar of cannon, the noise of musketry, the tread of armies, the victorious cheers of our brave soldiers, and the sad and sickening groans of the wounded are no longer heard throughout our borders. To-day our nation stands forth more bright than ever before, as a beacon to the down trodden and oppressed throughout the world, as a terror to the tyrants of the earth, as an asylum to the oppressed of all nations, and as the wonder and admiration of the lovers of liberty everywhere. The issues of the coming political struggle in Pennsylvania are already made up. The importance of a proper settlement and determination of these issues cannot be over-estimated. The past history as well as the present position of our State entitle and will secure for her great weight in the settlement of all questions of national policy. The representatives of the political organization with which you are supposed to sympathize declared as follows: "The Union party of Pennsylvania, in State Convention assembled, declare: That as representatives of the loval needle of the Commonwealth we rever-The sound of trumpets, the roar of cannon of Pennsylvania, in State Convention assem-bled, declare: That as representatives of the loyal people of the Commonwealth we rever-ently desire to offer our gratitude to Almighty God, whose favor has vouchsafed victory to the national arms, enabled us to eradicate the crime of slavery from our land, and to render treason against the republic impossible forevermore; and next to Him our thanks are due and are hereby tendered to our brave soldiers er the war has been a failure, whether it exisand are hereby tendered to our brave soldiers and sailors, who by their endurance, sacrifices, and illustrious heroism, have secured to their country, peace, and to the downtrodden everywhere an asylum of liberty; who have shown that the war for the restoration of the Union is not a failure, and whose valor has proven for all time, the fact that this government of the people, by the people, for the people, is as invincible in its strength as it is proven for all time, the fact that this government of the people, by the people, for the people, is as invincible in its strength as it is beneficent in its operation."

In contrast with the doctrine here stated, the representatives of our political opponents in convention recently assembled, have also presented a platform of their principles. In substance and effect they have declared that "war existed as a fact more the advent of the substance and effect they have declared that "war existed as a fact upon the advent of the successful party in 1860 to the seat of power." That "slaughter, debt and disgrace are the results of our late civil war." That the assassins of our late President were murdered by military commissions, and no more murders of the kind would be permitted, whether the the Andersonville butcher, the importer of loathsome diseases or the great second Luciter who now chafes and foams in his cell at Fortress Monroe, and who for so long a time. cifer who now chafes and foams in his cell at Fortress Monroe, and who for so long a time has been their beau ideal of a stern statesman and a Christian gentleman. They add in express terms that "the men and the party administering the Federal government since 1861 have betrayed their trust, violated their sacred obligations, disregarded the commands of the fundamental law, corruptly squandered the public money, perverted the whole government from its original purpose, and thereby have brought on untold calamities upon the country."

e country. The measures of the administration of Abraham Lincoln were submitted to his countrymen at the election of 1864, for ratification trymen at the election of 1864, for ratification or condemnation. It would seem as if a decent respect for the opinions of their fellow men might have prevented the folly and malignity of the late so-called Democratic convention at Harrisburg, as exhibited in the adoption of their platform. It is perfectly manifest that they have not excepted the results of the war, nor are they prepared to bow to its decrees. Again, fellow-citizens, they have forced upon you these issues. It will be for you to decide by your action in this campaign, whether the war just closed shall produce substantial results, or whether all the blood and treasure of the nation have been expended and shed in vain. We intend to be merciful, but our mercy must be tempered reiful, but our mercy must be tempered h justice. We ask not, we wish not venwith justice.

geance. But indiscriminate mercy to the en-emy is danger and injustice to ourselves. Whenever and wherever our late adversawhenever and wherever our late adversaries come in a true spirit of sorrow and repentance, sheathe the sword, and promise to obey the law in the future, we will extend to them the right hand of fellowship and forgive them for the past. After they shall have given us a sufficient security for the future time, by a satisfactory explation, we will then—but en us a sufficient security for the future time, by a satisfactory probation, we will then—but not till then—restore them to the enjoyment of all the inestimable rights and high privileges which they so recently, so defiantly, and so causelessly trampled under their feet. For the defiant and unyielding rebel; for him who keeps his sword still drawn, reeking with the blood of our brothers; for him who refuses to accept and submit, in good faith, to the results of the war; for all those who glory in the part which they took in the rebellion; who still in sist that they were right and the nation wrong we have confiscation and loss of citizenship: we have confiscation and loss of citizenship and if, in the end, nothing else will cure, we must have banishment or the halter. will cure, we must have banishment or the halter.

The money spent, the lives lost, the cripples, the widows and orphans made such by the war, planned, commenced and waged by traitors, as well as the security, safety and future peace of the nation, all require at least this much at our hands. They shall receive all that justice and safety will permit us to grant. Our treatment of them shall be moul-

towards the nation. In all cases where the adopt, adhere to, and carry out, in good that, the policy of reconstruction generously offered them by President Johnson, we will cordially welcome them as returning brothers into the great family. But if they come with ha tred and bitterness, and only that they may tred and bitterness, and only that they may the better restore themselves to power so as to accomplish those original designs, by political management, which they failed to secure by the hazard of battle; justice to ourselves, duty to the country and to posterity, require that we shall keep them in a position to prevent harm. By the valor and patriotism of our brave soldiers, and by the help vouchsafed by that Providence which has always watched over and protected our nation, we have proved to the world that the whole host of rebels in the south, with the aid of all their foreign friends and northern sympathic host of rebels in the south, with the aid of all their foreign friends and northern sympathizers, have been unable to resist the power of our country or successfully vie with her armies on the field of battle. By the help of the same brave men, and with the blessings of the same Providence, we do not mean that their John Mosebys and Wade Hamptons shall be permitted to rule the Councils of the nation. Our political adversaries were the first to lemand for the rebels belligerent rights. Our enemies abroad united in the demand. To save the lives of sur prisoners, and from mo-tives of humanity, we were obliged to yield to the demand. Now that the war is over, these the demand. Now that the war is over, these are the first men to demand that they shall be released from all the liabilities and responsibilities of belligerents. By the law of nations it has been long and well settled that in every unjust war the victor may exact indemnity for the past and security for the future. So may the victor hold his adversary in the military grasp until he has accepted the result, and until security against all future danger shall have been exacted and obtained. It is to be expected that our political adversary ger shall have been exacted and obtained. It is to be expected that our political adversaries will object. Yet who but they can object that the widows and orphans of the land should be supported by the authors of the calamities? Who but they will object that the wounded soldier who lost his ability to support and maintain himself shall be aided and supported by the wickedness which brought the injury upon him? Who but they will object that the vast debt created by the work of treason shall be at least partly paid and discharged by the traitors themselves?

They tell us the innocent in the south, and the women and children of the south will suffer. They forget that such is the result in all wars, and never once think that the innocent and the women and children of the north suffer from the war of treason. Yes these are fer from the war of treason. Yes these ar the men who are now striving to secure twotes of the soldiers of Pennsylvania. Who volunteers were needed for the army they were opposed to volunteering. Drafting was the fair way—only Democrats would volun-teer—in the draft all would have a fair chance.

teer—in the draft all would have a fair chance. When the draft came they were violently opposed to the $300 commutation clause. That was a discrimination against the poor man. The rich would all pay out and only the poor would go. When the commutation clause was repealed they became more clamorous because the only chance for the poor man was now taken away—he must now go while the rich man could got a substitute. For a time it man could get a substitute. For a time i man could get a substitute. For a time it was a negro war, and no white manshould go. When negro troops were called for they were aroused to the highest state of indignation. "The south would never stand it. It is an evidence of our weakness. If you can't conquer them with white troops you never can with negroes." Thus they continued during the whole four years of the war. No single measure of the government ever received the whole four years of the war. No single measure of the government ever received their approbation. No matter what course might be adopted they were found in opposition. Are these the men to be now placed in power? Are they to control the government of this nation. The late administration, so recently endorsed by a majority of four hundred thousand at the ballot box, is still by them denounced and abused. They clamor only for the rights of rebels. They forget that by the very act of war all who engaged in it forfeited all the rights they ever had under the Constitution which they were trying to overthrow.

o overthrow. The very instant war commenced, under laws of war and the laws of nations, al obligations, contracts, treaties and stipula-tions between the belligerents were at an end. Shall the settlement of the great questions growing out of this war be left in the hands of these by when the of those by whom the war was carried to a successful issue, or shall it pass into the hands of those who opposed it from the beginning? It is right for you to answer at the ballot-box. Upon you depends the result of the issue, and for you it will be to say wheth-
