A very large share of our farmers take n care to save seed corn, but trust to taking it care to save seed corn, but trust to taking it from their cribs, and of course often find it heated and rendered worthless for planting. Theygo through all the labor of putting in their crops, wait two or three weeks to learn that their seed is worthless; then have all the labor of planting to repeat, and have their corn thrown behind time. But while they are doing all this, the seeds of weeds, never failing are throwing up their shoots with vigor, and by the time the second planting of corn is large enough to plow they are beyond control large enough to plow they are beyond control They have got their start, and will keep it through the season, in spite of every effort.

Why will any farmer go through all this vaste of time, labor, and crop? He would make money by paying $5 per bushel for So soon as it has turned from the milk it is all right. Gather off the earliest, best developed ears. Be sure to take enough of them. Husk them off, leaving but three husks on decreased.

The account of E. M. Alsip, adm'r., of the estate of Stephen Tucker, late of Bedford borough decreased. Husk them off, leaving but three husks on each, and trace them together and hang them in a dry, siry place, and you are sure of good seed. Cold will not hart it. It is dampness that spoils the germ in corn. If any one who reads this fails to secure his seed corn for next year's planting, all we have to say is he will make a great mistake. And if any one is induced by reading it to thus secure himself against the loss by bad seed, we shall have done that man a real valuable service, worth to him the cost of the Republican for many

WINTER SHELTER FOR SHEEP.

Have our friends provided winter shelter for their sheep? or are they-many of themneglecting it as usual-and, as usual, not have ing the best lack with their sheep. Depend on it that cold, in addition to wet, is hurt ful. You will see it more especially in the spring. Shelter is feed saved; strength kept, which would otherwise be lost; and wool im proved by the good condition of the sheep, to say nothing about one of the most important points of all—the lambs which are to follow. A suffering sheep will produce a weak lamb. Among weak lambs there is always mortality, and a stunt growth in the future body of the sheep. A weak, sickly lamb will not make first-class sheep, even under good treatment. Good treatment of sheep is profit all roundand shelter is one of the important points to be attended to. Build it and invite the sheep in it; feed them there; let their salt be there, and the little tit-bits they need. Now is a good time to see to this thing-to prepare for .-Rural Wag.

REGULARITY IN FEEDING.

Every good farmer knows that any domes tic animal is a good clock-that it knows, almost to a minute, when the regular feeding time has arrived. If it has been accustomed to be fed with accuracy at the appointed period, it will not fret till that period arrives; after which it becomes very restless and uneasy till its food comes. If it has been fed regularly, it will begin to fret when the earliest period arrives. Hence, this fretting may be entirely avoided, by strict punctuality; but it cannot be otherwise. The very moment the animal begins to worry, that moment it begins to lose flesh; but the rate of this loss has never been ascertained-it is certainly worthy an investigation-and can be only determined by trying the two modes, punctuality and irregularity, side by side, under similar circumstances, and with the same amount of food, for some weeks or months together.

There is one precaution to be observed in connection with regular feeding, where some udgment is needed. Animals eat more in sharp or frosty, than in warm and damp weather. Hence, if the same amount by weight is given at every feeding, they will not have enough when the weather is cold, and will be surfeited when it is warm and damp. Both of these evils must be avoided, while a little attention and observation will enable the farmer to do it .- Tucker's Rural Affairs.

YOUNG STOCK.

Calves and lambs, well treated, will make better cows and sheep than if neglected and allowed to shift for themselves. We know that sheep improve a good deal both in wool and mutton on good keeping. The same is especially the case with calves. What you want is not to fatten, but to keep up a strong healthy growth. At this season, good tender grass and a little milk, no matter if it is not all sweet, and a little oat meal mixed in, will pay for itself in the thrifty growth which it will induce. A little extra care at this period of growth is sure to be rewarded at a later age. The treatment of calves which we have often seen, such as turning them out to grass before they are old enough, and requiring them to eat what they know little about or die, is cruel and wasteful in the extreme. There is no economy in neglecting your stock. They may live through it, but nature will demand her reckoning.

The same may be said of colts. Sweet, pure pasture grass is the best, but if this is short, a little oat meal is excellent for them. Oats make muscle rapidly, and this gives strength and power and growth, and this is what all young stock needs to thrive upon. It is a gteat mistake to keep any stock short of feed, but especially young growing stock. -Ploughman.

The dairy products of this country, suitable for foreign shipment, are likely to be in demand to supply the markets of England, now seriously threatened by the cattle plague from he continent, which cuts off, not only the fall supply of healthy beef, but as a natural consequence, affects the cheese and butter also. The shipment of American cheese to England has for several years been a profitable business and now it seems likely to be still more so. Ohio Farmer.

Crickets and grubs are unusually plenty in the fields this year, the former doing almost as much damage as grasshoppers, and the latte helping themselves very freely to potatoes and other roots. A farmer tells us that the unu sual abundance of these insects and worms is owing to the raid on skunks, which has been going on for some years past, as they formed a large part of that odoriferous animal's diet.
