November work is that of preparation for the winter; fitting stock and their quarters for the cold season; finishing up the fattening of those animals destined for the market, and turning those farm crops which can be disposed of into money, or something else, which will equally contribute to happiness. Nomber is the month of full granaries, and of thankful hearts. A good Providence has vouchsafed to this country all that we need of the fruits of the earth, and a great deal more and though sometimes in particular sections; we may have had larger harvests, yet taking the value of gold and of exchange into consideration, and the prices which are likely to rule, it is probable that we have never had a season of greater agricultural prosperity. We have poor to care for, and early and generous thoughtfulness for them will provide work for many, and comfort for many more who in the proverbial improvidence of pover ty might otherwise suffer from the necessi ties of life, lose health and pluck, honesty, honor and perhaps life itself. Let us not forget this, among our other November work. BUILDINGS.

Look well to roofs of all kinds. Stop holes and give a coat of coal tar to those from which the water is not collected for use Stables may be made very warm by boarding up on the inside and filling straw, bay, or leaves between the inner and outer boarding. Whenever it is possible to prevent the sweep of the air under stable floors, by banking up earth against the sills of the buildings, do so, first painting the wood-work with gas tar. Look to the ditches and channels to carry water away from buildings, especially away from the cellar walls of the house or barns, so that there may be no danger, in case of heavy rains and melting snows, of the cellars getting

The very high price of butter should lead to feeding oil-cake, carrots and other roots, corn meal, bran, pumpkins, etc., which, ju diciously used, will increase the yield. BEEVES

Fatten rapidly at this season, when the cool air gives them sharp appetites. Provide salt and fresh water abundantly. Give them the feeds of grain (ground and cooked, or soaked) with entire regularity. Keep fattening cattle warm, and never let them worry for a meal, or for lack of regular attention. Keep the amount fed, of grain, roots, oil-cake, etc., uniform or increase it very gradually. Occasional changes of feed, to give a variety, are CALVES. Provide shelter, and feed so that there shall be no check in their steady growth.

Feed well so that they may be milked longer, and give this year richer milk, than usual, to take advantage of the butter market.

CISTERNS. Enough rain falls on the roof of an ordina ry dwelling to supply water for all purposes of the family, and a great deal more. So too the roof of an ordinary barn turns water enough for all the stock it can cover, and all other purposes. What is needed is to have cisterns to hold and store it. They should be out of the reach of severe freezing, and conveniently situated. At this season clean out cisterns, if the water is low. Protect from leaves which might enter through the eave spouts, and protect the pumps and pipes from

That which is to be stored should be left in the ear, and put in narrow open cribs, or spread out on a floor in a dry loft. Feed soft corn before dry weather. Sell rather than store, except for home use, if good prices are Straighten up exterior fences and put them in such order, that there will be little to do in the spring. Dispense with all interior fences possible. Before the ground freezes, make an inspection to know what fencing stuff it is best to get out next winter.

The great value or fruit this year will lead to its careful handling. Never roll barrels of apples, always lift them, and avoid pouring them from a basket into a barrel, etc. GRAIN FIELDS.

Guard against standing water, or floods from higher ground, which will wash the soil away, or which will bring on gravel, etc., by a good system of surface drains. Well drawn plow furrows are usually sufficient, but on spots where much water is likely to come pile stones, or set planks so as to turn it off.

FLOWER GARDEN AND LAWN. While the unusually dry autumn has impaired the beauty of the late blooming flowers, it has been favorable for all work of construction, road making, grading and planting of deciduous trees.

October is the most suitable month for planting the Dutch bulbs, but it may be done early this month. Take up Gladiolus, Tigridias and others planted last spring, before the ground freezes. Dry them in the sun and store them in a cool place where they will not be injured by frost, or mice. Preserve the labels with all named varieties.

support the weight of flowers. When done flowering, cut away the old stems.

HEDGES. Deciduous hedge plants may be set. Nev-er make a hedge where its spreading roots will rob the soil devoted to other plants.

FRAMES AND PITS. These are to be opened whenever the weather is mild enough, and closed before the air becomes chilly. Protect in severe weather by shuttets or mats. Give water only when the earth looks dry. Keep mice out, or they will destroy the plants.

The ground may be prepared by manuring plowing, leveling, etc., but it is now too la to seed with much prospect of success. Old lawns may have a good dressing of composi and be rolled.

PERENNIALS. The hardiest of these will come out all the stronger in spring, if they are covered by a few forkfulls of manure.

ROSES. If the tender sorts cannot be wintered in a pit, or cellar, bend them down and cover the branches with a few inches of earth.

WISTARIAS. In places much north of New York it is necessary, in order to secure a bloom, to lay this down and cover it with a few inches of earth. Treat other tender climbers in the same manner, - American Agriculturist
