Several numbers of a diminutive paper, bearing the broad title of "Texas Countryman," printed at Belleville, Texas, by J. P. Osterhout, Esg. have been received at this office, with a modest request on the margin "Please ex." We have a distinct recollection of a tall, gaunt, sinewy individual, as far back as 1850, who "taught the young idea how to shoot" in the ancient borough about that period, and suppose that this Texas cotemporary is the J. P. Osterhaut, once Secretary of the Bedford Lyceum. Well, John used to be thin, and we cannot help wondering how he looks after having gone through the last four years of rebellion. Judging from his paper it is quite likely that he has reached the superlative degree.

On our return from Harrisburg, the other day, while glancing over the exchanges which had accumulated during our ab sence, our hands fell upon the Brookville Republican, we glanced down over its columns, and said, involuntarily, "a new paper. Does it desire an exchange?" Yet there appeared to be something about it that was familiar. It will be understood that we know our exchanges from their appearance. Turning over to the editorial column we learned that an old friend of ours had only put on a new suit, and we must confess that few look better in their Sunday clothes. If its editor can always offer as bright an apology for not attending the editorial convention he had better never attend, however much we might desire to meet him.

ADJOURNMENT OF THE LEGISLATURE. The House on the 12th inst. recalled a resolution, passed some time ago, and which had gone to the Senate but not acted upon, fixing the 29th of March for the adjournment sine die of the Legislature, and adopted another fixing the 12th of April for the final adjournment, in which it is expected the Senate will concur.

The Canadian Reciprocity bill was defeated in Congress on the 12th inst. by a vote of 76 to 53. With the reciprocity treaty repealed and the Fenian scare our Canadian neighbors are likely to have a sorry time of it.
