Mr. Armstrong's detence of his action on the Sonthern Pennsylvania and Connellsviile Railroad Bill.

HARRISBURG, March 26, 1866.

DITORS BEDFORD INQUIRER: In your issue of the 16th inst. appeared an article under the caption of "Southern Pennsylvania and Connellsville Railroad" to which wish to reply. I do not object to a full. free and therough criticism of my record as a member of the House of Representatives; but do object to being made the subject of criticism to build up the claims of others of my own party to foist them into office. The true version of the S. P. and C. R. R.

uestion is this: The bill as it passed the House (and to which you devoted nearly a column) fixed three years for the commence ment of the road, but no time for its comple-It is tion. At the time the bill passed those were the best terms that could possibly have been secured. I was dissatisfied, but learned prior to the passage of the bill that it would have been useless to have asked anything betterand therefore did not. My action on the bill n question, proceeded altogether from a sincere desire to favor, as best I could, the interests of my constituents, and although I felt that I was doing it but poorly and not as I wished to, I claim that it was the best that could then have been secured. The bill passed and was sent to the Senate where it became the special property of Mr. Householder, if I am to judge from articles in your paper and the Harr isburg Telegraph.

What occurred in the Senate I quote from the Senate Journal of March 20th as it now appears in the hands of the State Printers: The bill as passed by the House was called up. First section agreed to. The second ection was read as follows:

Sec. 2. That so much of the said act incorporating the said Connellsville and Southern Pennsylvania railway company as limits the ime for the construction of the main line of their road to three years from the passage thereof, be and the same is hereby repealed, and that the time for the commencement of the construction thereof shall be extended for three years from the passage of this act; and that said company shall have the same power, that said company shall have the same power, by branches or otherwise, to connect their road with any road incorporated by the State of Virginia, or West Virginia, to the same extent that they have now by law the right to connect their road with any road authorized

Mr. Householder and Mr. Bigham moved o amend the section by striking out from line 1 to the word act in line 6: "That so much of the said act incorporating the said Connellsville and Southern Pennsylvania railway company as limits the time for the onstruction of the main line of their road to three years from the passage thereof, be and EPISCOPAL SERVICES GOOD FRIDAY AND the same is hereby repealed, and that the EASTER .- This present Friday being Good time for the commencement of the construction thereof shall be extended for three years from the passage of this act." The bill as it passed the House the old man of Florence during the years 1859, and Senate gave the company three years to mmence the construction of the road.

On Thursday the 22d the Hon. John Cessna effected an arrangement with the parties John Foster Kirk, author of "Charles the interested and a reconsideration of the vote Bold." contributes an essay on Sainte-Beuve, in the Senate was had, and the bill was editor of the Revue des Deux Mondes, and amended so as to force the company to commence the road in one year from the passage of the act. Justice requires me to say that neither Mr. Householder, Mr. Ross nor myself were in any way instrumental in bringing which beset all who are so unfortunate as to about the above arrangement. The bill, as amended, passed the House on Friday last. I might say, however, that the credit is claimed to belong to Mr. Householder, as witness the following from the Telegraph (Johnson's with the whites. I do not think so, for I organ) of March 24th:

"When the bill was reported to the Senate, Senator Householder at once discovered its vital defects, in that it did not provide a defivital defects, in that it did not provide a den-nite period far the completion of the road. He accordingly had an amendment introdu-ced, providing that the construction of the Connellsville and South Pennsylvania rail-road shall be commenced in one year from the passage of the act authorizing said road, and that it must be completed in eight years. Thus by the energy and vigilance of Senator Householder, the completion of this important work has been secured."

the whole cloth. The whole difficulty resolves itself into this: I did not fight the bill because after feeling the ground, I saw I would fail, while Mr. Householder fought and failed. Texas Correspondence.

BEUMONT, TEXAS, March 1, 1866. This is a most beautiful day, Spring being full upon us. What few Peach trees are found here, are covered with bloom. The few husbandmen who do anything are also engaged in putting in their crops. The busies of all are the feathered songsters, whose joyous carols greet us everywhere. In fact it is such a day as we like to stroll by brook sides, in groves, or in fact any place, but to remain in doors. However, as I have not given you all I had to say from this point, I will attempt to do so now. As to the staples of the country I think I have informed you that they are cotton and cattle, particularly the latter. The ountry is gently undulating, and immense heards everywhere cover the plains. The great wonder with me is, how they can exist at all. In conversation with some of the first cattle growers here, I learn that there is great danger of the destruction of the busness by overstocking, and that the grass is fast dying out, owing to the great number of cattle feeding upon it. In some places it is entirely tramped out. As to the business there is none that was more secure, or which paid a better per cent. The "growers" always (on cattle) are certain of 331, as their gains. Sheep are still better reaching frequently 100 per cent. per annum

To give you an idea of the business, a Mr McFadden, living here, is the heaviest grower, although there are a number of others nearly as large. He informs me that he had branded 3000 calves this Spring. There is little to do in the business after branding, as the cattle roam over the prairies until large enough for beef and bring on the average $15 per head specie. As there is generally the opinions prevailing in the North, that Texas cattle are small or scrubby, I assure you it is not so, for larger cattle I have never seen. One thing is truly surprising here, that no person has been found with sufficient enterprise to go into the dairy business. "It is no use" is the cry here "the cows wont give a supply to warrant the trial." One man here who protested as useless the attempt, asserting "that a Texas cow would not give a quart of milk per day," with almost the same breath assured me that "he knew a lady of his acquaintance, who had a cow that gave our gallons of good milk per day but that the cow was fed with corn. So indolent have the people become, by the ease with which they can live, that they can't think of anything so expensive as that of feeding corn to to cattle. Every pound of butter that is consumed in Texas is of Northern manufacture And it is also true of the corn, Irish potatoes etc. They raise a yam, or species of sweet potatoe, some of which I purchased at 75 cents per bushel, specie. Few other vegetables are raised here. I neglected to say that hogs are among the staples, as they abound everywhere, not unfrequently running wild in natives not unfrequently resort to knotting their tales to keep them from depredating apon their neighbors gardens, but as the lat. er commodity is a scarce article I am inclined to think the report slanderous.

As to the town, it is much scattered, cov ering a large scope. The people seem to like plenty of elbow room, as the town was Mr. Householder and Mr. Graham then divided into 12 acre lots. The houses are paint entirely unknown. Few lots are fenced notwithstanding they have the best timber in the world. The soil is thin, yet with pains produces well. The only gardening by the Germans. I visited a very fine one two miles below this to-day. The motto here eems to be-that "to work is to be disgraced." At least, now that Spring is upon ns, I no where see them planting, although surrounded by every facility.

I occasionally call upon some of the "F. 7.'s'', and am soundly berated for assisting n freeing their negroes. (It is mostly by those who never owned one.) One lady (I'll call her such) asked me why we didn't bring down a cargo of our servant girls for them, them so well. I must confess I was not a little chagrined at this, to think that people who, it they had all their goods converted into money, would not purchase six months inde pendence for them; and yet they talk of using our tidy, intelligent and well behaved servant girls, who laber frequently, not of necessity, but of choice, and who, are infinately more capacitated to be independent. The idea. Messrs. Editors, that our girls should be used by these highfalutin, gum chewing, and snuff taking "ladies of creation." who never perhaps went to school a day, and who think Beumont the "hub of the universe," was so very rediculous that I smiled not a little. Everything looking to the improvement of the colored race, is looked upon very unfavorably, or, as intended to equalize them hope God will spare them from stopping at that point, and will prosper them, thereby setting an example to the poor, illiterate 'white trash,'' which is more prevalent at this point than any place I have ever seenoccasioned doubtless by the fact that all the off-scourings of creation, made for the Neches, when they could no longer be tolerated by civilized society. Here Kidd and his pirate crew flourished, as did John A. Murrill and his confederates of a later day, and many of the present residents can trace their origin The above extract is made to order out of to these or other equally flattering sources. Is it to be wondered at that such a state of things should exist upon the Neches. Murders, Linchings, Robberies, and Gambling seem still to be prevailing passions here. Should the troops be removed from this tack? Was it prompted by a belief of a want | State I fearthat life and property would be as of fidelity in the House, or was it intended insecure as ever it was during the period preprospect of passing as it left the House. Sev- inability to protect them from mob violence, eral prominent citizens of our district having several attempts being made at lynching, and been lately looking up the bill, it may see all because these men were Union during the s. E. HENRY WM. F. JOHNSTON T. S. JOHNSTON war, and at present, there are conflicting interests in a ferry at this point, which make as for myself, I will conclude by remarking degree. The other interests are in the keep-that I cannot allow attacks such as that of ing of several persons, who have controlled your paper upon me, (particularly when the the irresponsible masses, at this point, dudesign is so apparent in every line) to go by ring the past rebellion, and long anterior. making them the willing instruments, for every piece of damnable enterprise which base minds conjure up.

The Girard Life Insurance Company was char-ared in 1826, and is therefore one of the oldest, as well as most substantial companies in the Uni-ted States. It effects insurance for the whole of Life; mon the nonforfeitable of ten year plan, or for any term of years. It also issues Endowment Policies.

Premiums may be paid Yearly, Semi-annually or Quarterly. All the insured for whole of life, (including those on the ten year plan.) participate in the profits of the company. in the profits of the company.

These insuring never need fear the loss of what they have paid in case they cannot keep up their payments. The company will always commute in to a smaller amount, or purchase the policy at an equitable value.

Bonusses or additions to policies are made every five years, without any increase in the premium. Its profits are absolute. Its premiums moderate, for privileges liberal. It has paid many losses, and has never contested a claim.
