

Farm, Garden & Household.

AN OLD FARMER'S EXPERIENCE.

The following bits of experience are worth making a note of. There is only one point in which we disagree with our venerable friend. It is in regard to the degeneration of wheat, oats and potatoes. If we save the seed of small grains, in the ear or head, and especially if we give drill culture, extra care and perhaps hoeing to the grain we wish for seed, and select the heaviest kernels from the earliest and largest heads, small grains will not degenerate any more than corn. Our friend writes:

"I have farmed 46 years for myself and ever since 1881 have taken two agricultural papers. I have been greatly benefited by their instruction, although there are many things published in them that never ought to be. Allow me to give you a few facts. Fruit trees should never be trimmed in February, March or April; the time when they are in blossom. The time to cut timber, to have it cut, is in January and February, July and August. One load of manure hauled out in the fall after the snow crosses the line, and spread, is worth two to four loads hauled in the spring, any way that you can fit it. Fall plowing is beneficial on clay loam or muck soil, and on sandy and gravelly soil if you can plow before there is any frost. Some men say that corn will degenerate and run out. My father got a kind of yellow 12-rowed corn in the year of the great eclipse 1806, which I remember very well. I took it from him in the spring of 1820 and have it now. It is an early, sound corn, very easy to husk. I can raise 80 bushels of shelled corn to the acre with no extra labor, planting 32 feet each way. I have another kind of 8-rowed yellow corn, which I got in 1828, which will grow and ripen in 90 or 100 days. Wheat, oats and potatoes wear out [with ordinary culture; E. J.]. We do not harvest our grain and cut our hay early enough in this country. When I commenced farming I was closely watched by my neighbors, who said I plowed too deep, cut my hay too early, and cut my grain too green. I have farmed on 12 different farms, and the result has been I have tumbled the crops on an average. I have drained three farms pretty thoroughly within the last 20 years, and am now President of the County Agricultural Society."

TOO MUCH LAND.

The desire to own a very large farm is natural, but often proves unwise in its results. When a man wishes to practise a mixed husbandry, and his present acres are too few and unproductive, it is doubtless wise to annex more territory. Neighbor Jones has twenty acres of meadow land, which is suitable only for hay, or grain, or hoad crops. But as he finds a small dairy would be profitable, and sheep would bring in good returns, it would be advisable for him to buy several acres of rolling or hilly land adjoining. But this accomplished, let him stop, and be careful to buy no more than he actually needs for his special purpose. For, this new land will have to pay taxes, will have to be fenced, and may need expenses laid out upon it. At any rate, it will add to his cares, and perhaps will bring in no adequate return.

We know a farmer who, ten years ago, owned 150 acres, and was doing very well; he now owns five hundred, and is worse off than before. And why? Because this large farm is a great bill of expense which he cannot afford to keep it up in good condition, and it hangs a millstone of care about his neck. His wife and children, both sons and daughters, are obliged to work hard to keep the great machine a-running. We presume his boys declare they will leave home as soon as they are old enough, and the girls say they will marry farmers. Neither sons nor daughters are educated as they desire to be; they cannot be spared for this from work on the big farm.

Now we declare that such a farm is a curse to its possessor and his family, and an injury to the whole agricultural interest. If that man wants to save himself and his household, he should sell at least one half of his land, improve the remainder to make it more productive, release his children from bondage, and try to make his home a place of comfort. He will live longer, lay up as good a property, and will train up a more intelligent and a happier family.—Am. Agriculturist.

WORK IN THE HORTICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

The time for planning has well nigh passed, and the lengthening and milder days indicate that work may now soon begin in earnest. If there are any who intend to plant, and have not ordered their trees, or who intend to sow and have not yet looked after their seeds, we counsel them to do it forthwith. Do not order every novelty that is advertised or noticed in the papers, but let the main selections, whether for fruit, vegetables, or flowers, be of established sorts, with only a few of the newer things for a trial. Better plant a dozen sorts of apples or pears, known to succeed in your neighborhood, than fifty sorts known only by report. We do not at all object to the trial of new things, but encourage those who have the means to test them, and are ready to pay any price for a novelty. But to those who wish trees for fruit, vegetables for the table, and flowers for enjoyment, and whose space and means are both limited, we advise caution and moderate investment in unknown things.—American Agriculturist.

WORKING THE GROUND WHILE IT IS WET.

The temptation is often great, to use a fair month for the preparation of the soil for crops before the water is sufficiently dried off, or drained out of it, to warrant its being stirred at all. Thus the gain of forty-eight hours in time is often a serious detriment to the field for the entire season. Light sandy loams are not injured in this way, but every clay loam is, and as a general rule, so is any soil which ever dries in lumps. The plow presses the furrow slices into clods, which often dry like pressed bricks, and the treading of the teams in harrowing makes bad worse, though the harrow tears them up somewhat. Even heavy loam may be worked into a light, porous, warm seed-bed if in proper condition for plowing before being worked.—American Agriculturist.

MAKING A WIFE OWN A STRANGE

A. P. Traut, Turnbull Co., Ohio, writes as follows: "When you find a ewe with a dead lamb lying pitifully and mourning over it; if you wish to make her adopt another, catch the ewe, milk her own milk upon the lamb, then removing the dead one out of her sight, step back out of the way and witness the joy of the mother at the supposed restoration of her offspring.—Am. Agriculturist."

THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE.

Our most momentous, arduous struggle having resulted in the triumph of American Nationality, the utter discomfiture and overthrow of Secession and Slavery, THE TRIBUNE, profoundly rejoicing in this result, will labor to convert the legitimate fruits of this grand, benignant victory by rendering Liberty and Opportunity the common heritage of the whole American People, now and forever.

Discontinuing all unmanly exultation over or needless infliction of pain or privation on the upholders of the lost cause, it will insist on the earliest possible restoration of the Southern States to their former power and influence in our Union on the basis of All Rights for All their People.

It will labor to prove that the substitution of Free for Slave Labor must inevitably and universally conduce to the increase of Industry, Thrift, Prosperity and Wealth, so that the South, within the next ten years, must look back amazed at her long prostration in a practice so hateful as the chattelizing of Man.

It will labor for the diffusion of Common School Education, the Useful Arts, &c. &c., throughout every portion of our country, but especially through the sections hitherto devoid of them, believing that every good end will thereby be subserved and the interest of every useful citizen thus promoted and secured.

It will urge the Protection of Home Industry by discriminating duties on Foreign Goods imported, with a view to drawing either the most capital and skill of our citizens, and the general and the naturalizing on our soil of many branches of production hitherto all but confined to the Old World, while it would strengthen and extend those which have already a foothold among us.

It will give careful attention to progress and improvement in Agriculture, doing its best to give to the farmer the benefit of the most improved and teach them how to make the most of the opportunities thus afforded them.

It will devote constant attention to Markets, especially for Agricultural Products, with intent to give both producer and consumer from being victimized by the speculator and forestaller.

Now, giving fair scope to Current Literature, to the proceedings of Congress, and the general News of the Day, it hopes to retain its old patrons and attract many new to their common cause.

We rarely employ traveling agents, as so many impostors are habitually prowling in the assumed capacity of solicitors for journals. We prefer that our subscribers shall pay their money to persons whose names and addresses we are assured of. Any friend who believes he will do good by increasing the circulation of the Tribune is authorized to solicit and receive subscriptions. Special Agents will be promptly sent without charge to those requiring them, and we trust many friends will be moved to ask their neighbors and acquaintances to join in making up their clubs.
