ASTONISHING RESULTS OF THE WORKING OF "MY POLICY."

The work of reconstruction is going on so rapidly under the peculiar policy of the President and the encouragement of the Copperheads, that, within the past month the Mayor of Mobile at a public celebration (of some rebel victory we suppose) deemed it an appropriate occasion to offer a toast to The some rehel victory we suppose) deemed it an appropriate occasion to offer a toast to President Davis, soldier, statesman, patri ob, prisoner. Our tonques may be mate but out hearts are with him," The Mobile Register flaunts at the head of its columns Gen. Robert E. Lee as a candidate for the Presidency in 1868 and declares that there is a movement already in progress to make the Rebel Chief the standard bearer of the State Rights Democracy. What a strand of, pressour. Our tongues may be must but our hearts are with him." The Mobile Register flaunts at the head of its columns Gen. Robert E. Lee as a candidate for the Presidency in 1868 and declares that there is a movement already in progress to make the Rebel Chief the standard bearer of the State Rights Democracy. What a grand spectacle that would be, to see the Rebels and Copperheads with the Traitor Lee at their head marching for the White House. What an able cabinet that arch traitor might call around him. What a capital Secretary of War Jeff. Davis would make. What a grand haul another Secretary Cobb would be able to make now from the fat treasury. with its hundreds of millions. What a magnificent army they could soon equip for setting things right, according to rebel and copperhead ideas. Who but rebels and copperheads would be capable of such grand conceptions as these. What an excellent Lieutenant for some minor office, Clymer would be (for these fellows must have their mouths stopped with petty offices,) the fat ones will be kept for men who have dared to draw the sword for Southern Independenze. Clymer did yeoman's service in opposing the war, discouraging enlistments encouraging desertions and his services would have to be recoganized. Ye gallant soldiers who wore the army blue, who marched with Grant, Sherman and Sheridan, ye heroes of a hundred battles, ye who mourn for husbands, brothers and sons, sacrificed upon the altar of your country's liberties, contemplate the sublime spectacle with which rebels and copperheads propose to crown your labors and reward your services. What a magnificent programme is here mapped out by these latter day conservatives. When completed, what a brilliant page it will make in our country's history. In the carrying out of this proposed, coup

The Copperheads have been sadly disappointed in the late Peace Proclamation. Instead of the mere official announcement of of the cessation of actual armed resistance everything which tends to their develop which it really was made over sanguine by the Presidents antics, they supposed it to be the signal for a determined and persistent effort to force-rebel members into Congress and hand over the government of the country to Davis, Lee, Bright, Vallandigham, Clymer, et id omne genus. Their glorifications over the proclamation have turned to our vast mineral resources, agricultural pro grumbling, since it has failed to fulfil their expectations. We have a very distinct remembrance of a similar failure of the expectations and predictions of Copperhead prophets about the same time last year. They may expect a repetition of this singupectations and predictions of Copperhead ket and s They may expect a repetition of this singu-

THE RAILROAD QUESTION.

Reply of Gen. Geary to the Busines Men of Pittsburg.

HE IS OPPOSED TO MONOPOLY AND IN FAVOR OF A GENERAL RAIL-ROAD LAW.

New CUMBERLAND, PA., April 4th, 1866. } GENTLEMEN:-Your communication, caring date March 20th, only reached mo on the 30th ult., and in compliance with you request, I proceed to answer it with as little delay as possible. You propound to me three questions, which you request an answer, viz: "1. Will you, if elected Chief Magistrate of Pennsylvania, faithfully exert the power of your administration, so as to defeat any and every attempt, made by Legislation, o otherwise, for the monopoly and control by any one corporation of the railroad policy o the State

"2. Will you oppose and withhold your "anotion from any legislation conferring upon the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, or any company it may control, the authority to build branches, unless the said grant should be under provisions of a general law Will you oppose and withhold you regulating the construction of railroads? ## RECNOSTRUCTION

A Plan Petf ectedi-Basis of Repretentation.-Males Above Twenty one Not Voters Excluded.-Participants in Rebellion Disfranchised Until 1870. Leading Rebels Not to Hold Office.

WASHINGTON, April 28, 1866. The Reconstruction Committee, pursuant to adjournment, held a very important meet-ing to day at the Capitol, during which they definitely agreed on a plan to be submitted to Congress alid the country for the recon-struction of the Southern States to the Union. The committee were in session four Union. The committee were in session four hours and had an exciting time. Each separate proposition that was made was vo-ted on and declared agreed to by a majority vote. The question of requiring negro suff-rage of the South within the next ten years was lost Thad Stevens are conving it was lost Thad. Stevens even opposing it. That having been disposed of the issue of a basis of representation next elicited a pro longed discussion and it was finally deter nined that a constitutional amendment should be proposed, declaring that all males above the age of twenty one, who were not allowed to vote by the States, should not be counted in the basis of representation. It will be noticed that the practical effect of this amendment will be to leave the number of Southern representatives just about where it is now inasmuch as all the colored people of the South except the males over twenty one will be counted in the representative population. Mr. Bingham, of Ohio, then insisted that the present Civil Rights bill was unconstituional, and that an amendment to the Cor stitution, guaranteeing civil rights to per-ons in all of the States would be agreed to The Committee adopted the proposition. It was then resolved that all who partic oated in the rebellion should be disfran pated in the rebellion should be disfran chised from voting for Federal officers, and that the rebel debt should be repudiated These several propositions were then en-bodied in a constitutional amendment, which will be duly reported to the House on Monday. There was considerable satisfaction expressed in the Committee that they had

Fields that had the appear ance of being entirely winter killed are sprouting up, showing conclusively that the plants received very little, if any injury the past winter. General Butler has had a long interview with President Johnson, which rumor in-vests with special significance. We have the following from the Goshen (Northern Indiana Times, April 24: A ride of some twenty miles over the country last week on purpose to ascertain the exact condition of the wheat satisfied us that the condition of the wheat satisfied us that the crop this season was next thing to a total failure. On the prairie several pieces were being plowed up and barley sowed, wille other pieces save eight or ten feet next to the fence might as well be treated in a like manner. In the timber land it was not with a barley show y closury manner. In the timber land it was not quite as bad, but prospects are very gloomy not half a crop can be counted on even in the timber. Some pieces on rolling ground where water and ice did not collect during the late severe winter will yield from or half to twothirds of a crop but these piece are few and far between. Five bushels per acre is more than will be realized from the Ind sown to wheat in this county the present season.

HOW REBELS TALK AFTER BEING RECONSTRUCTED ACCORDING TO "MY POLICY,"

Prominent among the Southern papers that support the President stands the Richmond Examiner, in which we find the fol-lowing spirited expression of the feelings and sentiments of reconstructed rebels. We commend it to the careful consideration of such as have an inclination to copperhead conservatism.

"Not quite a year age a small knot of de-voted Patriots in Washington, believing that the life of "The tyrant Lincoln" stood in the way of the establishment of the Southern Confederacy, resolved to rid their country of "that monster." They did so, but immediately fell victims to "the min-ions of that tyrant." who, in their fiendish rage, shot the immortal Booth, as he was getting ready to shoot three or four of his cowardly assailants, and afterward murder-ed up on the scaffold the venerable Mrs. Sur ratt, the heroic Payne, the undanted At-zerodt, and the gallant Harold. While these inhuman butcheries were being per-petrated, Andrew Johnson, a Southern man, of whom better things might have been hoped, unmindful of the debt of gratitude he owed to the brave Southern hearts, whose deed had made him President, was whose deed had made him President, was declaring in mangniloquent words that trea-son—that is, loyalty to the South—must be rendered infamous; that the rebel—mean-ing the Confederate—leaders should be severely punished. While the apostate Southron was thus breathing out his threats of vengeance over the graves of the heroic outdoers of Brutus and Charlotte Corday, it did seem indeed as if they had sacrificed their lives worse than and Charlotte Corday, it did seem indeed as if they had sacrificed their lives worse than in vain—as if they had removed Lin-coln to place in power an enemy of the South, whose little finger would be thicker than his predecessor's loins. No wonder that the people of the defeated Confedera-cy stood aghast—that they felt that their on ly hope lay in the most absolute submission, to the will of this terrible Tenneseean. But Booth and his heroic comrades had not done their work in vain. What, the greatest General whom the world has ever seen, had

Legislature. To the second interrogatory, I say, that while a general a road system would best comport with a sound public policy, it must criginate with the Legislature, and until it shall be established by law, grants or power may be properly made to railroads to con-struct branches when they are desired by struct branches when they are desired by the people who are imediately interested in the matter, and would promote the develop-ment of their property, and afford them ave-

In reply to your third question, which to my mind includes both the others, I say, a-gain, that I believe a general law regulating the construction of railroads and grants of the construction of railroads and grants of power for that purpose to be most consis-tent with public policy and the interests of the Commonwealth; and entertaining these views, I would certainly use the legitimate and constitutional power of the Executive to secure so desirable a result. The spirit of monopoly in this and other matters, should be discouraged in a Repub-lican Government, and I have no sympathy with any policy which may be designed for its encouragement.
