Fruit and Grain Prospects

As far as we can hear from the various part of cur county, the wheat and rye promis about an average crop. In some districts they have been seriously damaged by winter freezing while in others they give promise o av abundant harvest. Among fruits, peache ter, but unless still further damaged by frosts there will be a fair crop. Plums where trees are healthy will bloom freely but frost and enreulio have still to do their work, while the ravages of black knot threatens speedily deprive us of all the varieties subject to its attack. Apples are not yet sufficiently advan ced to indicate the prospects, but as the crop has been a partial failure for the past two years, we expect a bountiful crop of this most valuable of all our fruits. We give below reports gathered from our exchanges in various parts of the country. The Waynesburg, Green county, Pa Mes with our farmers, we learn that the past very open winter has had a deleterious effect upon our wheat and fruit crops. We underupon our wheat and fruit crops. We understand that wheat is not expected to be an average crop and on this account flour has already risen some two dollars on the tarrel within that many weeks. Peaches, our most delicious, if not most valuable and permarter delicious, it not most valuable and per-martent fruit, are nearly all killed by the hard freezes of February, and some of our other fruits and considerably injured. The hardy apple, our most valuable and abun-dant fruit, we believe has suffered but little, if any. We trust that the injury to the wheat crop is not nearly so great as now thought, but that the genia sun and showers of April, and the balny breezes of May will bring 'little Greene,' full crops, bountiful harvests and well laden

A correspondent writing to the same paper, from Richhill township, that county, says: Wheat prospects are more discouraging than ever before within my memory. Many fields are being plowed up for oats.

The Bucks county, Pa., Intelligencer says;
The wheat as a general thing, does not look very promising in this county. While there are numerous fields that look as well as is usual at this time of the year there are equally as many poor ones. That which is sown upon loose soil and in ground favorably located for drawing parts will be because of bly located for draining naturally looks much the best while on level tracts, or where the soil is inclined to be heavy it is more or less Winter killed. The early sowed grain has in most cases suffered least. The injury to the grain seems to be pretty general through out the county, although in some neighbor bout the county, atthough in some neighborhood it is much less injured than in other localities. In the vicinity of Quakertown it has sustained comparatively little damage. Between this place and Newton there are numerous fields that present an unfavorable appearance. Favorable weather may improve its condition somewhat where the prove its condition somewhat. roots may not be entirely killed but from present indications the prospect for an abundant crop in this county is not very encouraging.

The prospects for a fruit crop in this vicinity this season are said to be favorable. The backwardness of Spring har kept the buds in a condition not to be affected by the changing weather. - Lebanon Courier

A dispatch from Franklin county, Ohio, dated April 17, is as follows: Wheat is almost gone. Ground rather dry. Farmers busy plowing. A little rain would be very gcod. A dispatch dated three miles east of Columbus, April 16th says: "Wheat is almost ruined. Apples look fair. We need a little rain for our pasters. A dispatch dated Fairfield county, April 16 says: The wheat crop in this section is almost an entire failure crop in this section is almost an entire failure I do not think it will average ten bushels per acre. Peaches all killed. The prospect of apples, pears and cherries are very flattering A dispatch dated Findley, Hancock county northeast Ohio, says: Wheat crop very un promising—never more so. Many of the far mers are plowing up their wheat for oats and corn. Some few are experimenting in Spring wheat by harrowing in on Fall wheat.

Peaches are considered as "gone up."

Other fruit, doubtful.—Pittsburgh Chronicle.

Fruit Prospects in New England .- The are looking well. Twigs and buds are plump and promise blossoms. The winter seems to have been favorable to trees. None are gnawed by mice or broken by heavy snows.

While not so large yield will be gathered as we could wish yet we have no doubt our farmers will have "enough and to spare."

CELLRAS POISONOUS.

Atthis season of the year, it should be especially remembered that the cellar of a dwelling house is very likely to be a a source of disease to the whole family. The remnants of vegetables stored during the winter begin to decay on the approach of warm weather, and the exhalations from these, with the chilly dampness, are liable to produce sickness. Many a family has attributed to "providence" the disease caused by the poisonous miasms arising from the neglected cellar. Every cellar should at all times be kept clean by the removal of all vestiges of decaying vegetables, fruits, and food. A coat of strong lime white-wash upon the walls and ceiling, at least once a year, or better twice a year, will add greatly not only to the healthfulness of the cellar, but will also make it much lighter and more cheerful .- Amer.

UNBOLTED FLOUR THE MOST HEALTHFUL.

Having been raised in a good wheat coun try, we can not well overcome an early at tachment to "mother's nice white bread." Yet science plainly teaches that the most healthful bread is made from wheat ground without separating the bran. The coarser portions of the bran keeps the finer particles of flour separated, so that the gastric juice of the stomach more readily penetrates and dissolves the mass, and hence is better digested. These coarser particles, and prevent constipation, which is one of the prolific causes of disease in these days. It would be far better doubtless, if every flour bolt were removed from our grist-mills, and people consumed the meal of the whole wheat kernels, just as the several parts are combined naturally. Taste depends mainly upon habit; those accustomed to the unloited flour eat it with a relish .-- Amer. Agri.

FEEDING YOUNG CALVES is attended with some difficulty, because they will knock over the pail unless it is held. Mr. M. Hester Muron Co., Ohio, has pieces of hollow logs, cut one toot long, into which he sets the pails firmly about 1f way.—A good idea, Amer. 1 Lot
