MANURING CORN IN THE HILL.

When manure is scarce and the greatest effect is demanded the first season, or when corn is on a good sod, and a little start is wanted at first, or when the land is rather cold and the season uncertain, it is best to MANURING CORN IN THE HILL. cold and the season uncertain, it is best to compost, say of swamp muck and manure, containing one-fourth of the latter, after marking out, a good shovelful may be distributed to three or four hills, and the corn dropped directly upon it. If. however, the compost is made up of ashes, superphosphate, guano, poudrette, etc., singly or mingled, it must be mixed with soil and covered with a little earth besides, or the seed may be killed by coming in contact with it. Such active soon as it starts. Superphosphate, ashes, gypsum, soda-saltpeter, etc., may be applied upon the hill after the corn is up, or, at least, after planting, with quite as good effect as if

The list of concentrated manures which may be made on the farm, or bought, is quite large, and if any person visits the manufacto ries of various kinds in this vicinity he will often be able to secure much that is of value to himself, and do the shoemaker, soap boiler, brewer, tanner, butcher, or glue boiler, a favor also .- American Agriculturist.

GRASS LAND, HOW TO IMPROVE IT-If you ask this question of many farmers the only reply will be, break up and sod down afresh. Others will hesitate before giving this uniform answer. They will insist or looking at the land first, or at least will wish to know what is the matter with the present grass crop. Is some part of the field mossy or boggy? or does it grow certain coarse grasses which indicate undue moisture at the bottom? If so, their eyes will be opened, and they will reply, in medical language, that 'underdraining is indicated.'' Nothing does the land need so much as this; nothing will do it material good, until this is first attended to. Plowing and manuring will be nearly all useless, so long as the land is clogged with

If this is not the trouble, they will enquire whether foul weeds have got possession, to the exclusion of wholesome grasses. If not, but the trouble is simply an impoverishment of the surface by long cropping, they will advise to scarify the sward in the fall with a heavy harrow, tearing up the mosses, and disturb ing the soil a little, so that it will receive fresh seed. Then they will sow from ten to fifteen quarts per acre of clear Timothy and Red Top in equal parts, and cover the same with a light harrow. We should have said too, they will apply a good coat of old manure before the seed sowing. In this way re peating the manure once in two years, many a meadow or pasture can be brought up to a high state of productiveness. If, however, the land is infested with white daisy, dock, or thistle the only way will be to breek it up thoroughly, cultivate it five years with crops and grain, and finally seed down again. Manuring should go along with this cultivation of course. When seeding down, be not spar ing of seed, but use half a bushel of Timothy and the same of Red Top. If Red Ctover is desired, it should not generally be sowed until in the spring, as it is apt to winter-kill. If our farmer is a progressive man, perhaps he will enquire whether the grass crop could not be improved by irrigation. We believe much is to be realized from this practice during the next generation. - American Agriculturist.

OIL THE HARNESS And have it repaired if necessary, before a drier season sets in. Wash it thoroughly with warm soft water and castile soap, and brush out every particle of dirt before putting on the oil. This is the important point. Better not oil at all than to apply it on dirty leather. The harness should be taken apart and the pieces washed and oiled separately. Rub on the oil while the leather is softened with the water. It can be applied at once if the leather is rubbed a little with a dry cloth. It should be soft, but not too wet. After applying the oil hang up to dry for a few hours, till the oil is absorbed. Old harness, that has been neglected, and is dry and hard, bad better not be oiled. It will do no good. The evil is already done. The fibres of the leather have lost more or less of their tenacity, and oil will not restore it. In fact, by softening the leather it only weakens it-just as a wet sheet of paper will tear more easily than a dry one. Oil does not add to the strength of leather; it merely softens it and keeps it from cracking. It is a preventative of decay -not a restorer. Harnesses are now so high that it is more than ever important to take good care of them. Never let them suffer for want of oil; kept in good repair they will last as long again. - American Agriculturist.

ers whose landed possessions do not exceed one or two city lots, and we like occasionally to have an article especially for these. Most of them, whether living in city or village, have a small space between the house and the street, which they wish to turn to the best account, as it is constantly in view not only of passers by, but from the windows of the dwelling. Where the soil and situation are favorable, these little patches may be kept gay with flowers during the whole season, provided a reserve stock of plants be kept in pots in the back yard, ready to replace those which go out of bloom. We have seen these little flower gardens kept up very nicely; but more generally they promise well in spring, languish in summer, and by autumn are sad pictures of desolation. One who would keep a place of this kind looking well all the season, has to persevere against difficulties. The soil is usually poor and shallow, and the heat and dust are so destructive to flowers, that any but the most ardent enthusiasts are too apt to be discouraged and give up in despair.

Those who wish to give the front yards a comely look, and are unable to have a well kept flower bed, will be glad of some suggestions to this end. A neat bit of close and well kept turf, is always pleasing, and upon this, one or more evergreen shrubs, according to the size of the spot, will be in good taste, and give a cheerful look, summer and winter. But to have even this, the soil must be looked to. Often the rubbish left by the builders is just covered with soil, and the place fit for nothing but weeds. Among the shrubs suited for such places, the Norway Spruce and Arbor Vitæs are the most readily attainable, and they stand rough treatment better than most others. Though they are 11 do.

naturally trees, they may be kept as shrubs. Select those well furnished to the base with branches, and then keep them small and dense by the use of the knife. The Siberian, Agreeably to the provisions of an Act of Assembly directing the mode of selling unseated lands for taxes, and for other purposes, passed the 13th day of March, 1815, and the supplement thereto, passed the 18th day of March, 1817, and 25th of March, 1831, and the 9th day of March, 1847, the Treasurer of the county of Bedford, hareby gives notice to all concerned therein, that unless the County, State, School, Bounty and Road taxes due on the following tracts of runseated lands, situate in Bedford county, are paid before the day of sale, the whole or such part of each tract, as will pay the taxes, and the costs chargeby coming in contact with it. Such active fertilizers, and the list is large, must always be used with care, not to have the seed injured. Yet they are needed close at hand, for the encouragement of the young plant as for the encouragement of the young plant as from day to day until all are disposed of.
