THE CONVENTION OF SOUTHERNERS.

In an article denouncing the Convention f Loyalists, called to meet in Philadelphia, in September, the National Intelligence uses the following significant language :-

The idea of calling such a Convention a Southern Convention is extremely farcaical. It is called to meet in Philadelphia because there is no place in any Southern State where such a Convention would be tolerated. be died the nation finds expression in the same and self-denying and seeing the first particles of the second of t this call are the gallant Col. Stokes of Tennessee, Hamilton of Texas, and other men of undoubted loyalty, the most of whom scaled their devotion to their country with their blood, and who sacrificed everything they possessed rather than rebel against a Government they loved. Why shall not a Convention made up of such men be allowed to assemble in a Southern State? Why shall not accombine they loved. This is one certain than the dector—it is cheaper than the contract of the Ohio. This is one certain than the dector—it is cheaper than slavery, which talk could not be "tolerated." We supposed that old things had passed away, and that under the new rule free speech was to be tolerated on any subject, everywhere; and particularly did we suppose that loyal soldiers—men who wore the blue, and matched under the stars and stripes would at least be put upon a level with the rebels they fought, and, as they supposed conquered. We were mistaken. The Government of the United States permits and encourages rebel women to meet and strew flowers upon rebel women to meet and strew howers upon the graves of the rebel dead; it permits Confederate officers to celebrate anniversa-ries of Confederate victories, and make speeches full of treason, rankling with hate, and over-running with bitterness; but a convention of loyal southern Soldiers, men who gave up their homes, their property, eir lives for their country, WILL NOT BE TOLERATED IN A SOUTHERN STATE! Think of it, men of the North! Read the words again! "WILL NOT BE TOLERATED!" Truly we are progressing at a rapid pace.

Toombs said, not long since, that he would yet call the roll of his slaves under the shadow of the Bunker hill Monument; and we are half inclined to believe he not only meant it, but that he knew whereof he spoke. When conventions of loyal soldiers are not "telerated" south of the Ohio, we need not be surprised at any thing. The country is being sold to the rebels, or rather has been sold; and the people will decide this fall whether the property shall be transferred or not. We have a lively hope that neither the sale will be "tolerated," nor the men who made it .- Toledo Blade.
