Though the earliest and one of the finest of small fruits, many of our people, as yet, real-) We are prepared to execute at short notice and in ly do not know how great a luxury they miss in neglecting to cultivate a bed of strawberries. No fruit is more easily raised nor better repays cultivation. In the vicinity of almost all large towns and cities they are extensively cultivated and are a source of immense profit. There is scarcely a village in the country where one or more persons of limited means may not make a nice addition to their annual income from the cultivation of a few square rods of strawberries for mar- | SEGAR LABELS, ket. Will not some one in the vicinity of Bedferd undertake to supply the market with this delicious fruit. Now is the time to begin beds set out the latter part of this month and and the first of September, if on good soil and properly cultivated, will produce a fair crop next season. For general culture, either for home use or market, we would recommend, Wilson's Albany, McAvoy's Superior, Triumph De Gand, Scarlet Magnate, Russell's Prolific, and Hooker's Seedling, as most likely to give satisfaction. For the benefit of such as wish to provide for themselves a bountiful supply of this lascious fruit another season (and we hope their numbe will be legion) we append the following remarks on its culture from the American Agriculturist for August, 1861:

You MUST HAVE STRAWBERRIES .- Not an occasional half pint doled out by the teaspoonful, but plenty of them, great bowlfuls and panfuls, once or twice a day for a whole month at least-not little things of the size of 100 Acres of Valuable Timber Land, peas that require so much time to pick them over, but great luscious ones, as large as hickory nuts and black walnuts, and larger too-not the chance growth of meadows and pastures, requiring hours of picking in the hot sun, and the trampling down of grass, but nice plots of flourishing hills in the best part of the garden. You must have strawberries -not alone a few of you who dwell in the old settled portions of the East where other fruits abound, but all of you who live away on the new farms of the West, where few cultivated fruits are yet enjoyed, and cannot be until the trees have had time to grow. You must have them-not a dozen years hence, when you have got your farm paid for, your buildings completed, and everything else fixed up. You must have a good taste of them next year, and thenceforth all you can eat. They are good for the health. They are good for the temper; did anybody ever rise from a mea; topped off with strawberries and cream, and feel like scolding? They are the cheapest luxury the farm or garden affords, and the best. Good strawberries can be grown for 64 cents a bushel (1 cent a pint!)

"But," says more than one, "we can't sfford it this year; times are hard, and your cultivated varieties cost money." Not much a dozen or two plants of good kinds will cost but a few cents-not more than one or two cents each.

It is now nearly time to look out for a sur ply of plants. When not to be carried far, it will do to begin to put out plants any time after the middle of August, or before, if the new runners have become well established. The sooner they can be got to growing this year, the larger and better will be the supply of fruit next season. If to go far, especially if by mail, it is best to wait for the cool weather of September, or even the first of October, before taking up the plants. We have obtained fruit the following season from plants set as late as November, but so late planting is not advisable.

Cultivate Strawberries in the Hill .- Evry successive year's experience and observation, convinces us that when grown for fruit, it is, as a rute, better to put out strawberry plants in hills, 15 to 20 inches apart, and pinch off the runners. If multiplication is desired, let the runners set, but take up the plants as fast as well rooted, and put them out in hills. They can then be kept hoed almost as easily as corn, and they will produce better fruit and more of it than if allowed to run in a tangled mass or thick mat.

Soil and Manure. - Strawberries will grow on any soil; but like every other plant, they will pay for manure, and flourish best on a moderately good loam. On good rich soil, little manure is needed; but on poor soil apply and dig in deeply a fair coating of well rotted manure. For a clay soil, nothing is better than to lighten it up with rotten manure, and a large supply of black earth (leaf mold) from the woods, or of decayed chips from the wood pile. If the soil be subject to standing water, it should be drained. This may be done by throwing it into high beds, or cutting deep paths between the beds or rows, with an outlet to carry off surplus water. A supply of water below 18 inches in depth, is rather favorable to the plants.

But too many specifications will intimidate the inexperienced reader, and though for extra crops of extra berries, a deep, thoroughly prepared soil is essential, we now desire to simply impress the fact that with a very trifling outlay of time and trouble, every garden may be supplied with a good bed of this most excellent fruit. They are grown about as easily as corn.

Winter Protection .- In localities where the soil is subject to much freezing and thawing it is desirable to throw over the plots, at th beginning of winter, a coat of loose straw or leaves-not enough to smother the plants, or to prevent their being frozen, but merely to keep them from frequent alternate freezing and thawing. Leaves are not so good as straw, as the former mat down and smother the plants more. As good a plan as any, if not the best, is to spread loose straw all over the plants, in November or December, and in Spring simply move the covering from the tops of the plants, and let it lie on the ground around them, where it will smother weeds, keep the ground moist, prevent the soiling of the fruit by rains dashing up the earth, and by its gradual decay furnish manure.

The Grover and Baker Elastic-Stitch sewing Machines are superior to all others for the followng reasons:

1. They sew direct from the spools, and require

2. They are more easily understood and used, do less liable to derangement than other maand less liable to derangement than other machines.

3. They are capable of executing perfectly, without change of adjustment, a much greater variety of work than other machines.

4. The stitch made by these machines is much more firm, elastic, and durable, especially upon articles which require to be washed and ironed, than any other stitch.

5. This stitch, owing to the manner in which the under thread is inwrought, is much the most plump and beautiful in us., and retains this plumpness and beauty even upon articles frequently washed and ironed until they are worn out.

6. The structure of the seam is such that, though it be cut or broken at intervals of only a few stitches, it will neither open, run, or ravel, but remains firm and durable.

7. Unlike other machines, these fasten both but remains firm and durable.

7. Unlike other, machines, these fasten both ends of the seam by their own operation.
8. With these machines, while silk is used upon the right or face side of the seam, cotton may be used upon the other side without lessening the strength or durability of the seam. This can be done on other machine, and is a great saving upon all articles stitched or made up with silk.

These machines, in addition to their superior merits as instruments for sewing, by a change of adjustment, easily learned and practiced, execute the most beautiful and permanent embroidery and ornamental work.

INCREASE OF RATS.—The Farmer's Gazette (English) asserts and process by figures that one pair of RATS will have a progeny and descendents not less than 651,00t in three years. Now, unless this immense family can be kept down, they would consume more foca than would sustain 65,000 human beings.

 See "Costan's" advertisement above. 1866.

RATS versus BIRDS.—Whoever engages in shooting small birds is a cracl man; whoever aids in exterminating rats is a benefactor. We should like some one to give us the benefit of their experience in driving out these peets. We need something besides dogs, cats, and traps for this business.—Scientific American, N. Y.

Pose "Costan's" advertisement above. "COSTARS" RAT EXTERMINATOR is simple, safe, and sure—the most perfect RAT-id-cation meeting we have ever attended. Every Rat that can get it, properly prepared, will eat it, and every one that eats it will die, generally at some place as distant as possible from where it was taken.—Lake Shore, Mich. Mirror.

Des See "Costan's" advertisement above.

1866. HOUSEKEEPERS troubled with verman ecc be so no longer, if they use "Costar's" Extentinator, We have used it to our satisfaction; and if a box cost $5, we would have it. We have tried poisons, but they effected nothing; but "Costar's article knocks the breath out of Rats, Mice, Roaches, Ants, and Bed-Bugs, quicker than we can write it. It is in great demand all over the country.—Medina, Ohio, Gazette.

See "Costar's" advertisement above. A VOICE FROM THE FAR WEST.—
Speaking of "Costan's" Rat, Roach, Ant, &c., Fxterminator—'more grain and provisions are destroyed annually in Grant County by vermin that would pay for tons of this Rat and Insect Killer."—Lancaster, Wis. Herald.

FARMERS AND HOUSEKEEPERS—should recollect that hundreds of dollars' worth of Grain, Provisions, &c., are annually destroyed by Rats, Mice, Ants, and other insects and vermin—all of which can be prevented by a few dollars' worth of "Costar's" Rat, Roach, Ant, &c., Exterminator, leach t and used freely.
