

BEDFORD, PA., FRIDAY, DEC. 21, 1866

Rev. J. G. McAtee, late of Lunenburg, Nova Scotia, will preach in the Lutheran church on Sabbath morning the 23d inst., at 10 o'clock.

The communication of our young friends, at Yellow Creek, came to hand too late for this week's issue. We will be pleased to hear from them again.

There will be no paper issued from this office next week. "Christmas comes but once a year" and printers, like other people, desire to enjoy it. A merry Christmas and a happy New Year to all our patrons!

In EARNEST.—All concerned will please not fail to notice Wm Hartley's call for payment. He has been so indulgent and has trusted some people so long that they have forgotten their indebtedness. Remember those who do not pay by January 1st, will be sued—there is no other way.

It gives us pleasure to state that the Rolling Mill project is doing well. Some $30,000 or $45,000 have already been subscribed. Let the people take hold of it. It is no oil speculation. Col. Lowry tells us it is bound to go through. Go take as many shares as you can afford.

CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL.—The ladies of Bloody Run will give an entertainment on Christmas night which will afford the public a rare treat. Any amount of good things are in preparation. The proceeds are to be applied to the furnishing of the Methodist Episcopal parsonage in that place.

GOEY'S LADY'S BOOK.—The January number, for 1867, of this clever Ladies Magazine, has already come to hand. Geedy has always been a favorite, and we are not surprised at it. L. A. Geedy, Publisher, Philadelphia. Price $3.00.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.—The prospectus of this splendid paper will be found in our advertising columns. There is no paper in the country more ably controlled than the Tribune, and if any of our readers should desire to see the source from which the people of the Great West get their inspiration, we would advise them to subscribe for it at once.

HON. EDWARD McPHERSON, Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives has our thanks for an official list of members of the present Congress, and other documents.

HON. WM. H. KOONTZ has placed us under obligations for a volume of the Acts and Resolutions of the first session of the 39th Congress.

CHRISTMAS SERVICES OF THE EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—A service will be held on Monday evening at the Court House, at which the Sunday School will be present, when several Carols will be sung and an address delivered. On Christmas morning there will be the regular service, and a sermon by the Rev. M. Barrow, to commence at half past ten o'clock.

HOLIDAY PRESENTS.—Blymeyer & Son, have received a fine assortment of Holiday goods, such as silver plated Tea Sets, Britannia Tea Sets, plated Table Castors, plated Laddies, Spoons, Forks, &c. Ivory handled Dinner and Tea Knives, fine Needle Books and Needle Cases, Skates, steds, &c. Presents for ladies or gentlemen, married or single, call and see them.

A LONG AND HARD WINTER.—Many persons think the present winter will be hard. Farmers can't be too saving of their hay and fodder. They who are wise, will cut and crush their own corn fodder. Don't be "penny wise and pound foolish." A good Cutter and Crusher, will cost a few bushels of wheat; but you will more than save it before Spring.

We give place to a communication, to-day, which is more personal than we like matter to be, that is inserted in our columns. Matters of variance between individual and individual are not of general interest to the public. We are always thankful for short communications, upon local affairs; but we hope we will not be called upon for the use of our columns to vindicate individual grievances, whether real or imaginary.

FESTIVAL THIS (FRIDAY) EVENING FOR THE EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—The Ladies Aid Society, connected with this church, will hold a Christmas Festival, this (Friday) evening at the classical school house, on west Pitt street, which promises to be quite attractive. Several handsome engravings, a fancy table and a most beautiful doll and bedstead are among the things spoken of. The refreshments will include Ice Cream, Cake, Oysters, Coffee, &c. Don't forget Friday evening.

CHURCH DEDICATION.—By divine permission, the centenary Methodist E. Church on Bedford Circuit, will be dedicated to the worship of Almighty God—Sabbath, Dec. 23d, 1866. Revs. J. S. Murray, David Wilson and other ministers are expected to be present. This church is located about six miles from the city of Cumberland on the Cumberland and Bedford road. The public generally are invited to be present.—Cumberland Union.

PITTSBURGH AND CONNELLVILLE RAILROAD.—John W. Garrett, Esq., President of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, on being notified of his re-election to that position on Wednesday, appeared before the Board of Directors and delivered an address, setting forth the future policy and prospects of the company. In his address he said: "It is to be regretted that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has still further succeeded in delaying the construction of the Pittsburgh and Connellville Railroad. The Pennsylvania Company has thrown aside the thin disguise, it may have heretofore attempted to use on this subject, and, in the trial of the cause at Williamsport, in June last, appeared by its counsel to endeavor practically to prevent the construction of that road, so much needed by the interests of Pittsburgh and the Northwest, by the region which it will traverse through Pennsylvania, and by the cities of Washington and Baltimore. The issue which was tried before the jury at Williamsport, to determine whether the company had forfeited its charter by misuse or abuse, resulted in a verdict in its favor, whereupon the Circuit Court of the United States made the injunction, which had been granted the year before, restraining the Connellville and Southern Pennsylvania Railroad Company from interfering with the route or franchises of the Pittsburgh and Connellville Company, perpetual, on the ground that the law of Pennsylvania, repealing the charter of the last named Company south and east of Connellville, was inoperative and void. From the decree of the Circuit Court, an appeal has been taken to the Supreme Court of the United States, where, it is hoped, it may be heard at an early day, even if out of its order, in consequence of the national importance of the completion of the work, which this litigation, through the direct agencies of rival interests alone, has so long delayed. Pending the litigation before the United States Courts, a proceeding by quo warranto (also instigated by the Pennsylvania Railroad interests) was instituted in the State Courts of Pennsylvania, which it was hoped would have, ere this, been brought to a conclusion, and with a like favorable result as the case before Judges Grier and McCandless. The protraction which has characterized the course taken by hostile interests, has prevailed here, however, and it is not now anticipated that the argument of the quo warranto will take place for some months. The result can hardly be doubtful. The trial in June last, at Williamsport, before a jury, demonstrated the utter baldness of the pretensions of our opponents when submitted to the test of judicial inquiry. In the meanwhile, the work upon the road has been gradually pushed forward, and the heaviest portion of it—the Sand Patch Tunnel, through the summit of the Alleghenies—is well advanced towards completion. But for the delay which a vexatious and unwarrantable litigation has caused, the direct communication by rail between Baltimore and Pittsburgh, would now be in actual operation."

SAND PATCH TUNNEL.—"The work on Sand Patch Tunnel, on the Pittsburgh and Connellville Railroad, is still being pushed forward by our fellow-citizen, Mr. John Humbird, who has the contract, and on last week he made. The length of the tunnel is 4,700 feet, being 1,000 feet longer than the long tunnel on the Pennsylvania Central Railroad through the Alleghenies between Altoona and about 200 feet shorter than the great Kingwood tunnel on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. It is intended for a double track, and is twenty-two feet wide by nineteen feet in height. As soon as the legal questions concerning the Pittsburgh and Connellville Railroad shall have been decided, the work on the road will be pushed rapidly forward to completion."—Cumberland Citizen.

As the "legal questions" referred to have been appealed to the Supreme Court of the United States, at Washington, it would seem as if a final decision had been indefinitely adjourned; for, as the case stands before the public, it is not clear that either of the two great interests that are the real parties in the suit, are very urgent for a conclusive adjudication. Meanwhile the development of the southwest portion of Pennsylvania is postponed. In the progress of events, however, it is made more manifest from year to year that the Pittsburgh and Connellville Railroad Company must look upon this eastern terminus at Cumberland as the principal eastern point in its plan and programme. With its main changed to the "Pittsburgh, Cumberland and Harrisburg Railroad," and its corporate privileges extended to cover the ground from Wills' Creek, at the eastern base of the Allegheny Mountain, (where the present route makes a turn in its course to reach Cumberland,) to the Lebanon Valley Railroad on the east bank of the Susquehanna river, the scheme would be adjusted to the interests of Pittsburgh, the southwest counties, West Virginia, etc.; because then the line would have direct outlet to all the three great tidewater cities, and could command financial success.—U. S. R. & M. Register.

THE REPRINTS OF BLACKWOOD'S MAGAZINE AND THE BRITISH REVIEWS.—We desire to draw the attention of our readers to the reprints, by Leonard Scott, Publishing Company, 38 Walker Street, New York, of Blackwood's Magazine, the Edinburgh, the North British, the London Quarterly and the Westminster Reviews. The fact that the Edinburgh is now sixty years old or thereabouts, and that the London Quarterly has reached the venerable age of fifty-nine, while Blackwood, which dates from the year 1817, is as vigorous as ever, and its power is felt on both sides of the Atlantic, shows that the educated classes of our Anglo-Saxon race discern in these journals a mastery, a power of thought and an attractiveness of style, which no similar works have ever attained. Publishers in our country have attempted reprints of other European Magazines and Reviews, without success; but the demands for these journals grow just as education extend in our land. This is the case, notwithstanding some articles that at times find their way into them which the popular judgment of our people would reject or condemn. It could not be expected that our people would look at all matters, social, governmental, or ecclesiastical, from a French, a German, or a British stand-point, but the causes which lead our educated people to value these journals as they do, are obvious to all who are acquainted with them, and who understand the manner in which they are sustained.

The political parties in Great Britain attach a great importance to the power of the press. The Whigs in the early days of Lord Jeffrey commenced the Edinburgh Review, in order that by its tremendous cannonade, it might batter down the fortress of Toryism. So also, when its force was felt, the opposing party had recourse to a similar expedient; and, thus, under the auspices of the Tories, arose the Quarterly Review. The late Wm. Blackwood, of Edinburgh, a shrewd, clear-headed, and intelligent publisher, annoyed by the assumption of his Whig neighbors, and believing that "The Blue and Yellow—the colors of the Edinburgh—should be assailed in its chosen home, resolved to establish a magazine. He objected to a quarterly, as his object was, by a monthly periodical, varied, dry, and trenchant in its character, to appear three times before the public for every single appearance of the Review. The world now knows the energy and remarkable judgment combined with great liberality which have characterized that periodical. Abroad, the editorship was attributed to Professor Wilson, Professor Attyson, and others, but really they were only contributors, and from the beginning, and during all its history the members of the firm have been the responsible managers. William Blackwood, senior, and his son, John, have mainly ruled the destiny of the magazine, their principle being simply to select the best writers, pay the highest prices, and take no article from any one, no matter how elevated, how learned, how wealthy, or how famed, without remuneration.

Thus the Edinburgh, the Quarterly, and Blackwood arose. In process of time, the English Radicals felt the need of a journal, and they likewise started a Review. At the same time, the educated classes in England, desirous to become intimately acquainted with Continental literature, commenced a similar enterprise; but divided counsels and continued strife led to the publication of two journals instead of one. In process of time these Quartermasters combined, and finally a union took place with the radical political journal, and thus the reading public were provided with the present Westminster Review. Of course it is advanced in its religious and political articles, but its merely literary essays are not only on a level with, but often far ahead of those in other journals. Strange as it may appear to certain of our readers, this journal, with its bold assaults on evangelical religion, its trenchant, scornful criticism on the productions of our recognized orthodox schools, is the one of all others that our educated ministers and thinking minds will regularly regard. It points out to them the devices of the enemy, where the mine is to be constructed, where the assault is to be made. It tells them without the purchase of scores of costly European books in foreign tongues, what criticism is doing in Germany, Italy, France, and England, and thus it keeps them abreast with modern thought.

We have entered into these details because of our desire to aid in the circulation of these valuable journals, which may be had from the publishers for the small sum of fifteen dollars annually. To order them from England they would cost upwards of fifty dollars, exclusive of the carriage. To intelligent young men in our churches we suggest the formation of reading clubs, and by all means let all such clubs put down the name of the pastor as an honorary member. Of course, Blackwood alone, or Blackwood and any one, or all, of the Reviews, may be ordered; and when our readers will reflect on the fact that for the small sum of fifteen dollars they are supplied with twelve numbers of a magazine and sixteen numbers of four Reviews, in which almost every subject of interest, ancient and modern history, travels, literature, political parties, poetry, romance, and religion, are discussed by master minds, it will be admitted that the subscription price is merely nominal for such a rich return.

Consumption Curable by Dr. Schenck's Medicines. To cure consumption, the system must be prepared so that the lungs will heal. To accomplish this, the stomach and liver must first be cleaned and an appetite created for good wholesome food, which by these medicines will be digested properly, and good healthy blood made; thus building up the constitution. Schenck's Mandrake Pills cleanse the stomach of all biliousness and mecum accumulations; and by using the Sea Weed Tonic in connection, the appetite is restored. Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup is nutritious as well as medicinal, and by using the three remedies all who are afflicted with consumption will be cured. If patients will take these medicines according to directions, Consumption very frequently in its last stage yields readily to their action. Take the pills frequently, to cleanse the liver and stomach. It does not follow that because the bowels are not costive they are not required, for sometimes in diarrhoea they are necessary. The stomach must be kept healthy, and an appetite created to allow the Pulmonic Syrup to act on the respiratory organs properly and allay any irritation. Then all that is required to perform a permanent cure is, to prevent taking cold. Exercise about the rooms as much as possible, eat all the richest food—meat, game, and, in fact, anything the appetite craves, but be particular and masticate well. [2nd w. ca. mo. 1yr.]

Cheering Facts for the Billions. Every day demonstrates more clearly that Liver Complaint, in all its distressing forms, can be controlled and cured without difficulty or inconvenience. It is an obstinate disease, but its obstinacy is not proof against the perturbation, remedial and restorative operation of HOPKINSON'S STOMACH BITTERS. That gentle corrective compels the organs to do its duty. It must correct regularly and healthfully under the influence of the Bitters. Their action brings it back from a state of rebellion into perfect harmony with the laws of health. If there is costiveness, it disappears, if there is side ache or back-ache it ceases; if the skin and the whites of the eyes are tinged with superfluous bile, they recover their natural hue; if the appetite is gone, it returns; if the digestion is impaired, it is restored; in brief, whatever the symptoms of the complaint may be, and whatever the phase it has assumed, a cure is certain. Such are the uniform effects of this preparation when bilious disease has been already developed; but in cases where there is merely a constitutional tendency to liver complaint, it may be prevented throughout life by the regular use, in small quantities, of this palatable antidote. These are proven facts, and should be seriously pondered, or, rather, they should be promptly acted upon, by persons of bilious habit.

POPULAR SCIENCE. The Scientific American to be Greatly Enlarged. This widely circulated and Popular Journal of the Industrial Arts and Sciences enters its twenty-second year on the 1st of January next, and the publishers propose to signalize the occasion by enlarging the paper to the most costly Scientific Journals of Great Britain, without increasing the subscription price.

It is almost superfluous to speak of the great value of this Popular and scientific journal to all classes, and especially to Mechanics, Manufacturers, Inventors, Engineers, Chemists, Agriculturists, and all who are engaged in any of the various progress which now marks every department of Mechanical Engineering and the Industrial Arts and Sciences generally.

The Editorial department is very ably conducted, and many of the best Scientific writers in this country and Europe are contributors to its pages. Many of the articles have the charm of romance about them, and inspire the mind with noble ideas.

The Scientific American has the largest circulation of any similar journal in existence, but it ought to have a million of readers in this growing country.

The engravings of New Inventions, Tools, Implements &c. the Farm, Workshop and Household are very numerous, and are splendidly executed by the best artists in the world. This feature of the paper is very striking, and has won the praise of the united press of the country and Europe.

Another feature of the Scientific American is its Official publication of every Patent granted by the Government Patent Office. Each number contains the weekly issue of Patent Claims, with copious notices of new inventions, together with the views of Foreign Inventors on their respective inventions.

The American and European Patent Offices, in connection with the Scientific American, form an immense Museum of Mechanical Novelties which furnish constant employment to a large corps of Scientific Examiners who prepare drawings and specifications for Patents.

This firm is not doubt the most extensive in the country.

Now is the time to send in subscriptions to the Scientific American, so as to begin with the new volume.

The numbers for a year make up a splendidly illustrated volume of 822 pages. Terms, $3 per annum; $1.50 for six months; $1 for four months; Clubs of ten and upwards, $13 each, Canadian subscribers, $15 per annum, always in advance. Specimen numbers sent free; also, a pamphlet of advice to inventors. Address: MUNN & CO., No. 37 Park Row, New York City. Dec. 7-3m.

POPULAR SCIENCE. The Scientific American to be Greatly Enlarged. This widely circulated and Popular Journal of the Industrial Arts and Sciences enters its twenty-second year on the 1st of January next, and the publishers propose to signalize the occasion by enlarging the paper to the most costly Scientific Journals of Great Britain, without increasing the subscription price.

It is almost superfluous to speak of the great value of this Popular and scientific journal to all classes, and especially to Mechanics, Manufacturers, Inventors, Engineers, Chemists, Agriculturists, and all who are engaged in any of the various progress which now marks every department of Mechanical Engineering and the Industrial Arts and Sciences generally.

The Editorial department is very ably conducted, and many of the best Scientific writers in this country and Europe are contributors to its pages. Many of the articles have the charm of romance about them, and inspire the mind with noble ideas.
