

One insertion for less than 3 months 10 cents per line for each insertion. Special notices one-half additional. For a restricted list of Association, communications of a limited or indefinite character, notices of marriages and deaths, exceeding five lines, 10 cents per line. All legal notices of every kind, and all other notices, including other judicial sales, are required by law to be published in both papers. Editorial Notices 15 cents per line. All advertisements after the first insertion. A liberal discount made to yearly advertisers.
One square, 3 months, 6 months, 1 year	$4.00 $6.00 $10.00
Two squares, 3 months, 6 months, 1 year	8.00 12.00 20.00
Three squares, 3 months, 6 months, 1 year	12.00 18.00 30.00
One-fourth column, 3 months, 6 months, 1 year	18.00 25.00 45.00
Half column, 3 months, 6 months, 1 year	30.00 45.00 80.00

Professional & Business Cards

ATTORNEYS AT LAW.

MAYERS & DICKERSON,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW,
BEDFORD, PENN'A.
Office same as formerly occupied by Hon. W. P. Schell, two doors east of the Gazette office, will practice in the several Courts of Bedford county. Penalties, bonds and back pay obtained and the purchase of Real Estate attended to.
May 11, '66—1yr.

JOHN T. KEAY,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
BEDFORD, PENN'A.
Offers to give satisfaction to all who entrust their legal business to him. Will collect moneys on evidences of debt, and specially procure licenses and pensions to soldiers, their widows or heirs. Office two doors west of Telegraph office.
April 16, '67.

J. B. CESSNA,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
Office with John Cessna, on Juliana street, in the office formerly occupied by King & Jordan, and recently by Miller & Keay. All business entrusted to his care will receive faithful and prompt attention. Military Claims, Pensions, &c., specially collected.
Bedford, June 9, 1865.

J. M. SHARPE & KEAR,
ATTORNEYS-AT-LAW,
Will practice in the several Courts of Bedford and adjoining counties. All business entrusted to their care will receive careful and prompt attention. Pensions, Bounty, Back Pay, &c., specially collected from the Government.
Office on Juliana street, opposite the banking house of Reed & Schell, Bedford, Pa. mar 27

JOHN PALMER,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
Will promptly attend to all business entrusted to his care.
Special attention paid to the collection of money claims against the Government, and especially the Mengel House. June 23, '65-1yr.

J. R. DURBORROW,
JOHN LUTZ,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW,
BEDFORD, PA.
Will attend promptly to all business entrusted to their care. Collections made on the shortest notice.
They are, also, regularly licensed Claim Agents and will give special attention to the prosecution of claims against the Government for Pensions, Back Pay, Bounty, &c., and especially to the collection of claims against the Government, and especially the Mengel House. April 23, 1865-1yr.

ESPIE M. ALSIP,
ATTORNEY AT LAW, BEDFORD, PA.
Will faithfully and promptly attend to all business entrusted to his care in Bedford and adjoining counties. Military Claims, Pensions, back pay, Bounty, &c., specially collected. Office with J. R. Durborrow, on Juliana street, 2 doors south of the Mengel House. April 1, 1864—1yr.

M. A. POINTS,
ATTORNEY AT LAW, BEDFORD, PA.
Respectfully tenders his professional services to the public. Office with J. W. Lingenfelter, Esq., on Juliana street, two doors South of the Mengel House. Dec. 9, 1864-1yr.

JOHN MOWER,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
BEDFORD, PA.
April 1, 1864—1yr.

KIMMELL AND LINGENFELTER,
ATTORNEYS AT LAW, BEDFORD, PA.
Have formed a partnership in the practice of the Law Office on Juliana Street, two doors South of the Mengel House. April 1, 1864-1yr.

DENTISTS.

C. S. HICKS,
J. G. HENNING, JR.,
DENTISTS, BEDFORD, PA.
Office in the Bank Building, Juliana Street. All operations pertaining to Surgery or Mechanical Dentistry carefully and faithfully performed and warranted. TERMS CASH.
Tooth Powders and Mouth Wash, excellent as always on hand. Jan 29, '67-1yr.

DENTISTRY.
L. N. DOWLER, RESIDENT DENTIST, WOODBURY, Pa., visits Bedford on three days of each month, commencing with the second Tuesday of the month. Prepared to perform all Dental operations with which he is favored. Terms within the reach of all and strictly correct except by special contract. Work to be sent by mail of evenings. Must be paid for when impressions are taken. aug 5, '66-1yr.

PHYSICIANS.

D. R. GEORGE C. DOUGLAS,
Respectfully tenders his professional services to the people of Bedford and vicinity.
239 Residence at No. 2 Washington St.
Office two doors west of Bedford Hotel, up stairs.

W. M. JAMISON, M. D.,
Respectfully tenders his professional services to the people of that place and vicinity. [Dec 15, 1864-1yr]

D. R. B. Y. HARRY,
Respectfully tenders his professional services to the people of Bedford and vicinity. Office and residence on Pitt Street, in the building formerly occupied by Dr. J. H. Hoffa. April 1, 1864-1yr.

JEWELER, &c.

A. BEALOM GARRICK,
CLOCK AND WATCH-MAKER,
BEDFORD, PA.
Cloaks, Watches, Jewelry, &c., promptly repaired. All work entrusted to his care, warranted to give satisfaction.
He also keeps on hand and for sale WATCHES, CLOCKS, and JEWELRY.
239 Office with Dr. J. A. Mann. my 4

DANIEL BORDER,
PITTSBURGH, TWO DOORS WEST OF THE BEDFORD HOTEL, BEDFORD, PA.
WATCHMAKER AND DEALER IN JEWELRY, SPECTACLES, &c.
He keeps on hand a stock of the Gold and Silver Watches, Spectacles of Brilliant Double Refracting Glasses, also Scotch Pebble Glasses. Gold Watch Chains, Breast Pins, Finger Rings, best quality of Gold Pens. He will supply to order any thing in his line not on hand. apr. 28, 1865-2yr.

J. M. LEHMAN,
RESIDENT OF THE PEACE AND SCRIVERER,
Will promptly attend to all collections entrusted to him. He will also execute all instruments of writing with neatness and dispatch.
Coal Dale, Sept. 14, 1866-6m.

D. W. CROUSE,
WHOLESALE TOBACCOIST,
On Penn street a few doors west of the Court House, North side, Bedford, Pa., is now prepared to sell by wholesale all kinds of CHIGARS. All orders promptly filled. Persons desiring anything in his line will do well to give him a call. Bedford, Oct 20, '66.

Poetry.

THE LOVED NOT LOST.

BY JOHN G. WHITTIER.
How strange it seems to so much gone
Of life and love, to still live on!
Ah, brother, only I and thou
Are left of all that circle now—
The dear home faces whereupon
That first faint smile and gleam
Henceforward, glisten as will,
The voices of that heart are still;
Look where we may the wide earth o'er,
Those lighted faces shine no more.
We tread the paths their feet have worn,
We sit beneath their orchard trees,
We hear like them the hum of bees
And rustle of the bladed corn.
We turn the pages that they read,
Their written words we linger o'er
But in the sun they cast no shade,
No voice is heard, no sign is made,
No step is on the conscious floor!
Yet love will dream, and faith will trust,
Since he who knows our need is true,
That somewhere, somewhere, meet we must,
Alas for him who never sees
The stars shine through his cypress trees!
Who knows our need, our dear away,
Nor looks to see the breaking day
Across the mournful marbles play!
Who hath not learned in hours of faith,
The truth to flesh and sense unknown,
That Life is ever Lord of Death,
And Love can never lose its own.

"SOME DAY."

Some day the dreamy eyes to rest,
Fold him closer to thy breast,
Coax the childish tears away—
Care will come to him some day.

Twine the wand'ring waves of gold,
Round the brow of that sweet maid,
Kiss the cheek where dimples play—
He will cease to laugh some day.

Fold the night-robe pure and white,
Sleep will thou have dimmed his sight;
In thy arms he will not stay,
Slightly puffed thus "some day."

Calm his breathing, soft and slow—
None save God his fate may know;
Never then forget to pray
He be good and great some day.

MAN'S HEART.

Man's heart, 'tis said, is like a Harp,
With many and many a string;
That from its chords the master Hand,
Of Time doth music bring.
A stranger-like Harp, indeed it is,
We're loath to touch, and sore weeping;
Tears and smiles,
This Harp bequeath,
Just as the Hand is sweeping.

Is it wrong to call our life a song?
Some songs there are of sadness;
Too many give a sigh for grief,
And sing a song for gladness.
I'd have my Harp-strings wet with tears,
Somehow, and in some way;
The darkest day
Will soon away
And gladness come to-morrow.

WHAT MAKES A MAN.

A truthful soul, a loving mind,
Full of affection for its kind;
A spirit firm, erect, and free,
That never bows to a despotic knee;
That will not be a feather's weight
Of slavery's chain for small or great;
That truly speaks from God within;
That never makes a league with sin;
That snags the fetters despots make,
And looses the truth from its shackles;
That worships God and Him alone,
And bows no more than at His throne;
And trembles at no tyrant's nod;
A soul that fears no one but God,
And that can smile at curses of his kind—
This is the soul that makes the man.

Miscellaneous.

DEDICATION OF A CENTENARY

M. P. CHURCH.

BY REV. J. ELDERIDGE.

The night of Saturday, December 22d, A. D. 1867, found the writer of this sketch safely seated in a comfortable and pleasant abode, and listening to the happy conversation of a friend and brother some six miles north of Cumberland, Md., locked in the arms of Morpheus, and reveling in the faded lustre of dreams. Sabbath morning, the 23d, dawned with the heavens overcast, and the ground threatening. Family worship and breakfast over, the writer, accompanied by his obliging host, wended his way to the new temple of prayer, destined in a brief space of time to be solemnly dedicated to the service and worship of Almighty God. The address, occupying a commanding position, was found to be a substantial frame building, 30 by 40 feet, finished and furnished in a manner reflecting much credit upon the skill of the architect, and the taste of sister Mary, who selected and kindly donated the furniture. In due time the Rev. J. T. Murray, editor of the Methodist Protestant, and Rev. J. W. Gray, superintendent of Cumberland Station, gladdened the heart of the writer by their appearance. The congregation rapidly increased, soon filling the house, and a commanding position. Many persons unable to find accommodations, lingered around outside during the entire time of service. At 10:45 o'clock, A. M., the impressive exercises commenced and progressed in the following order: 1st. The invocation, by Rev. J. W. Gray, 2d. Scriptural readings, by the writer; also the reading and lining of the 202d Psalm:—
"The perfect work by Adam trod,
Was the first Temple built by God,
His fist laid the cornerstone,
He spoke, and lo! the work was done.
"He hung his starry roof on high,
The broad expanse of azure sky,
He spread its pavement green and bright,
And curtained it with morning light.
"The mountains in their places stood,
The sea—the sky, and all was good;
And when its first pure praises rang,
The morning stars together sang.
"Lord, 'tis not ours to make the sea,
And earth and sky a house for Thee;
But in thy sight our offering stands,
An humble Temple built with hands.
The hymn was sung by the congregation with spirit and animation. After which an impressive and appropriate prayer was offered up by Rev. J. T. Murray. Meanwhile, the choir of Cumberland Methodist Protestant Church (having kindly tendered their services for the occasion) had arrived. The choir then sang an appropriate hymn of their own selection with exquisite melody, and proceeded to sing every mind with admiration, and thrill every heart with tender emotions. The perfection to which the human voice can be trained in the execution of sweet sounds and charming melody may be conceived, but not described. Singing over, Rev. J. T. Murray arose and announced as his text that well known and familiar passage in the Prophecies of Isaiah:—"Unto us a child is born and a son is given," &c. The different points embodied in the interesting passage were clearly presented and beautifully illustrated. The speaker expatiated upon the wonders of redemption; then passed on by an easy gradation to the Savior's parental care—the blessedness and glory of the "heavenly home," and the reunion of the pure and holy in the "land of the hereafter." Many many eyes were suffused with tears, and many hearts grew warm and holy under the inspiration of that "glory which shall be revealed." Divine unction attended the word, and that word will long be remembered. Preaching over, the usual subscription was taken and collection lifted, to aid in liquidating the church debt. After which Rev. J. T. Murray, who had been the leading and governing spirit in the enterprise from the beginning, gave additional evidence of his Christian benevolence and goodness of heart, by assuming the responsibility to meet and cancel all outstanding claims against the buildings, thereby relieving the trustees from pecuniary liabilities. Surely such an act of noble generosity will be recorded in the book of God's remembrance. Money matters adjusted, Bro. Murray made a formal presentation of the building to the officiating minister for "the worship of God, and the use and benefit of the Methodist Protestant Church." The congregation arose, and the minister addressed performed the impressive ceremony of dedication. The choir sang a beautiful anthem, the benediction was pronounced, and so ended a most interesting and profitable meeting. The Cumberland Methodist Protestant Church on Line Hill, Allegheny county, Md. Not an improper word was spoken. All were pleased. Many were profited. Effects have their causes in the moral as well as in the natural world. As majestic rivers have their tributaries in distant plains, or at the base of far-off mountains in the form of babbling springs, gushing fountains and tinkling rills, so, in tracing the agencies and instrumentalities which resulted in the creation of this "Methodist Church" on Bedford Circuit, it becomes necessary to go back in the past some 18 or 20 years. A young lady, reared in the M. P. Church, possessed of all the requisite qualities of mind and heart to make a home happy and desirable, met and became acquainted with a Christian gentleman of high social position, having a competency of this world's goods, and altogether worthy of such a "household jewel," to be

THE ART OF CONVERSING.

When you are the messenger of painful tidings, what is the best method? After much reflection, I must conclude that the shortest and simplest way of communicating the facts is the best. Here nature and philosophy meet; here our last experience confirms our first practice. One has to impart to an affectionate mother the death of her son who was drowned at sea. How shall it be done? Nature teaches; art can add nothing more. "O lady, I have news to impart. Your son, on such a day when Lord Nelson was slain, was drowned. He has left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us. This is the way they communicate things of old. So Homer (Iliad xviii, 21), when the tidings is brought to Achilles of Patroclus's death. "Patroclus is down; they are fighting around his naked corpse, and his armor is held by the Phrygians." A striking instance is found in British history. When General Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga the rumor (very indelicate) one morning had reached the House of Commons. Every one was alert to hear when Lord Nelson was drowned. He had left us