UNFRUITFUL ORCHARDS.

We know of many young apple orchards in Western New York, which are of sufficient age, and the trees of sufficient size, to bear remunerative crops of fruit; yet the owners and cultivators of them, as yet, have received no adequate return for the labor and expense incurred in establishing them. What s the reason? Is it because the varieties cultivated are of unfruitful habit until tney rive at the mature age? or has the growth of wood, induced by the fertility of the soil and the system of pruning adopted, been so great as to preclude the bearing of fruit? Doubtless to some extent both reasons are good, but chiefly, we think, the excessive growth of wood precludes the attainment of fair crops of fruit.

Our cultivators, as a class, practise but lit tle that system of pruning which is adapted to bring a tree into a bearing condition. They are usually content when the orchard makes od growth of wood and apples healthy and vigorous, thinking that in the future the The ward will come in proportion to the amount of wood grown. If the trees are large, they must at some time produce large quantiles of fruit. Perhaps so; but it is weary waiting, and "a bird in hand is worth two in the bush." And we think a majority would much prefer moderate crops of fruit as soon as the trees attain sufficient size to support their weight without injury; and we think, also, if such crops can be grown, it will be better for the interest of the fruit grower, and no detri-ment to his orchard. We do not advise over-cropping in any case, if it is possible, but reasonable and moderate production. reward will come in proportion to the amount reasonable and moderate production. Now, it is a fact that apple trees may b
