ENRICH THE SOIL

To gather up the fragments that nothing b lost; to collect together and use for manure all the waste animal and vegetable matter that is no longer directly serviceable to man should be the object of every farmer who wishes to reap a plentitul harvest, and at the me time improve the soil he cultivates. And yet in visiting many farms it is not unusual to see ashes and rubbish scattered aboutor thrown into heaps, often the accumulation of several years. A spot of land bare of veg-etation marks where barrels were emptied of their brine; while woolen rags, bristles, hair and old bones disfigure what should be a well

On visiting some back lot we shall find nounds, where the carcasses of animals that have died in the service, sheep, poultry and swine, are buried, too deep to be of use to the growing vegetable. Too many farmer seem to think if they each spring cart out the manure from the farm yard and stable, that they restore to the land what was taken away in the crop the previous year; but never was there a greater mistake. The manure is what the animal rejects. The most valuable portion of the soil, that which is assimilated first by the plants, and afterwards by the animal, is found not in the excrements of the animal, but in the animal itself. In this are found and said: all the elements for the highest organisms

Hence we see the value of the blood, hair flesh and bones of the animals; they restor to the soil not only the materials for produ cing the vegetable, but they constitute tha portion of the vegetable which builds up animal tissue. Not only is the yield of grass and turnips greater when grown on soil ma ured with animal refuse, but an equal amount of it is more nutritious than that grown on land which is not so treated.

It is true that the amount of animal refuse which the farmer can readily obtain is very small when compared to the mass of decaye vegetable matter that is under his control But if he will industriously save what he has he will add to his soil substances which make up in value what they lack in amount.

Hair, bristles, woolen rags and blood have only to be placed on the ground and plowed under. The parings of the hoofs of horses constitute a most valuable manure, and can always be obtained at no greater expense than the cost of gathering them up. The same is true of the refuse parings of tan-yards and currier's shops.

It requires more labor to render bones im mediately valuable to the crop, than it does the other portions of the animal, for if applied whole, their decomposition is very slow. They require to be pulverized, and the finer the powder, the better the results. As a toping for grain, grass, or turnips, there nothing that equals this kind of fertilizer.

Ashes are in one sense the bones of plants they contain all the earthy matter, and when the wood is imperfectly burned, there is considerable vegetable substance in the form o charcoal. Their use as a top-dressing for grass and corn in the earlier stages of its growth, is always attended by the most happy results. All vegetable matter, and waste or decaying substances; even the sifting of coal ashes, chips and rubbish of various kinds should be carefully collected; and wet from day to day with suds slops of the house, it will become of great value. Too much atten tion can hardly be given to this feature in agriculture.-Prairie Farmer.

ADVANTAGES OF GOOD FARMING.

A correspondent of the New England Far mer gives an account of a Massachusetts farm as an illustration of what may be done with "worn-out" farms by young men with no other means than health, industry and agricultural education. The farm consisted of two hundred acres, and was run down so low as barely to yield enough to keep three cows, one yoke of oxen and a horse. Mr. Richardardson, the purchaser, had been employed upon the farm, working by the month during the summer months, and teaching school during the winter months, but never receiving in either capacity, over $13 per month. He purchased the place, subject to the 'widow's thirds,' four years before he occupied the house, though he cut the hay and managed the farm with a view to its future improve ment, so far as he could while working mos of the time for others.

with four cows and a pair of oxen, in addition to the six head previously kept by the widow. For the purpose of increasing his manure heap he kept a great number of swine, and increased his stock of cattle as far as he could, until he was able to count forty usually keeping about thirty, with from eight to twenty-eight swine. He has tried the Durham, Dutch, Jersey and native, and gives the preference to the Durhams, and their grades with the native stock. He has always raised his own cows, believing this the cheapest way of securing those of superior quality for his purpose, which is mainly butter-ma-

'A peat meadow of about twenty-four acres has been thoroughly reclaimed. Originally it was so soft that a man would be ucky to cross it and not sink up to his waist The grass was 'cotton top,' interspersed with flags, such as are used in coopering, and some cranberry vines. The quality of the mud was such that if a load of gravel was carted on in the winter, herdsgrass would spring up the next year, wherever it was On draining this swamp it settled three feet. Twelve acres have grown up to wood; before it was drained the pines would grow to the height of a man's shoulder, and then fall down. Twelve acres have been cul tivated, and year before last a portion of this produced corn at the rate of about seventy five bushels to the acre. In the process of reclaiming this meadow there were on three or four acres about forty cords to the acre of ash, pine and maple logs dug out-some of which measured two feet in diameter. They were completely buried in the mud. The roots, stumps and logs at the surface were completely rotted. At the depth of four feet the peat is red and hard. Among the curi-osities found were perfect leaves of birch, ash and cranberry vines, and one perfect cranberry has been preserved that was found four feet from the surface.

"The hay annually cut on this farm is about seventy tons, and all of good quality, none being poor meadow.

"There are two and a half acres of peach chard. All the peach trees on this farm are seedlings—being a large yellow rare ripe called the Pepperell peach. Nearly all the apple trees of the several fine orchards on the farm were raised from the seed by Mr. Rich ardson. There are cherries, pears and other mall fruits and grapes. "The buildings on this farm are no com-fortable and convenient, and have been built and re-fitted by Mr. Richardson at an expense equal to the original purchase money of the arm. He has three barns-56x40, 40x28, 40x30-a corn barn, apple house and car house, with cellars under all.

"I obtained no statistics as to the annua scome of this farm, but it was said to much larger than that derived from most o the other farms in this neighborhood. It was emarked by an observing townsman that the clear profit realized from this farm was ten times as large as that from some carelessly managed ones in town.

Tumorous.

A CERTAIN FARMER, who in the course of a year purchased several dollars. worth of goods (and always paid for them), called at the store of a village merchant-his regular place of dealing-with two dozen brooms, which he offered for sale. The merchant (who, by the way, is fond of a bargain), examined his stock

"Well, Cyrus, I will give you a shilling piece, for these brooms."

Cyrus seemed astonished at the offer, and uickly replied:

"Oh, no, John, I can't begin to take that or, em, no how; but I'll let you have them or twenty cents apiece, and not a cent less. "Cyrus, you are crazy," replied John, "Why, see here," showing a fine lot of brooms, "is an article a great deal better than yours (which was true), which I am retailing at twelve and a half cents apiece" (which wa not true by seven and a half cents).

"Don't care for that," answered Cyrus your brooms are cheap enough, but you can't have mine for less than twenty cents anyhow;" and pretending to be more than half angry, shouldered his brooms and started

The merchant, getting nervous over the probable loss of a good customer, and fearing that he might go to another store, and never return, said:

"See here, Cyrus, hold on awhile. If I give you twenty cents for your brooms, I suppose you will not object to take the price of them out in goods?"

"No, I don't care if I do," replied Cyrus. "Well, then," said the merchant, "as you are an old customer, I will allow you twenty cents apiece for this lot. Let me see-twenty times twenty-four makes four hundred and eight cents: What kind of goods will you have, Cyrus?"

"Well, now, John, reckon it don't mak any difference to you what sort of goods I take, does it?"

"Oh, no, not at all-not at all," said the

"Well, then, as it don't make any difference I will take the amount in them brooms o yours, at twelve and a half cents a piece! Let me see-four dollars and eighty cents will get thirty brooms, and ten cents over. It won't make much difference, John, about the ter cents, but as you are a right clever fellow, I believe I'll take the change in terbacker When Cyrus went out at the door with his brooms and "terbacker," John was seized with a serious breaking out at the mouth, during which time he was distinctly heard to late the third commandment several times by the bystanders, who all enjoyed the joke.

Ten to Eighteen Dollars Temporary sets inserted if desired. All operation warranted.

23 Teeth extracted without pain by the use NTROUS OXIDE or LAUGHING GAS.

This is no humbug, but a positive fact. Gadministered fresh every day. As the Gas a ministered by Dr. Porter is prepared in accordance with the purifying method of Dr. Strong, New Haven, Ct., and Prof. Siliman (late Profess of Chemistry in Yale College) he has no hisit ition in asserting that it is attended with no day ger whatever. Persons desiring the services of Dentist would promote their own interest by calling upon Dr. Porter, as he is determined to span no effort to please the most fastidious. Dr. Porter's mode of operating will at all times be of the middest character, avoiding the infliction of the sightest unnecessary pais, and carefully adapte to the age, constitution, health and nervous condition of the patient.

252 Special attention is invited to Dr. Porter, sientific method of preserving decayed and aching teeth. Teeth blackened and diseased, cleansed to appear becautiful and white.
