

Farm, Garden & Household.

WASTES ON THE FARM.

There are few pursuits in which so many wastes occur as in farming. A little waste of minute attention here, and a little there, make up a very considerable sum when all added together at the end of the year.

This was, perhaps an extreme case, and yet if he was in the habit of leaving hay scattered about upon the barn floor, the waste in the course of a year must have been considerable, and it would have been a fatal defect in his management.

But the difficulty is that the farmer who suffers so great and constant a waste of feeding substances on the barn floor, carries the waste of management into the whole routine of the farm.

When is music like vegetables? When there is four beats to the measure.

Anger is like a full-hot horse, who being allowed his pay, self-mettle flies him.

Another bell.—Two good-natured Irishmen, on a certain occasion, occupied the same bed.

"Dennis do you hear it thunder last night?" "No, Pat, did it really thunder?"

"Yes, it thundered as if heaven and earth would come together."

Why, then, didn't ye wake me, for ye know I can't sleep when it thunders."

An elderly lady, who was handling a pair of artificial plates in a dental office, and admiring the fluency with which the dentist described them, asked him, "Can a body eat with these things?"

"My dear madam, mastication can be performed with them, but a facility scarcely equalled by Nature herself," responded the dentist.

Yes, I know, can a body eat with them?"

John Reeve was accosted on the Kensington road by an old woman with a bottle of whisky in her hand.

"Pray sir, I beg your pardon—is this the way to the workhouse?"

John gave her a look of clerical dignity, and then pointing to the bottle gravely said: "No, madam, but that is."

A lover who was slighted by the females, very modestly asked a young lady if she would let him spend the evening with her.

"No," she angrily replied: "that's what I won't."

"Why," replied he, "you needn't be so fussy; I didn't mean this evening, but some stormy one when I can't go anywhere else."

In a school recently a teacher took occasion to relate an anecdote of the little girl who tried to "overcome evil with good," by giving a new Testament to a boy who had ill-treated her.

The story was appreciated, for a few minutes afterwards one boy struck another, and being asked the reason, said he was "trying to get a Testament."

This was a practical bearing altogether unexpected.

A Brooklyn Presbyterian, who has great faith in Catechism, and teaches it with a pertinacity that would challenge the admiration of a Luther or Calvin, was once asked the admiration of a Lutheran.

"What tempted you?" "The question came up." "Who tempted you?" "The little fellow after a few moments' thought, with an air of confidence exclaimed, 'It's the gentleman who lives in hell; I've forgotten his name.'

A wisdy orator in the New York Legislature after lengthy effort stopped for a drink of water. "I rise," said Bloss, "to a point of order."

Everybody stared, wondering what the point of order was. "What is it?" "I think, sir, said Bloss, "it is out of order for a wind mill to blow by water."

"Does the court understand you to say, Mr. Jones, that you saw the editor of the Augur of Freedom intoxicated?"

"Not at all, sir. I merely said that I had seen him frequently so flurried in his mind that he would undertake to cut out copy with the snuffers—that's all."

Hon. Thomas F. Foster, a member of Congress from Georgia, once begged an honorable member, who had persisted in a long, prosy speech, to desist.

"I shall not desist," he replied, "I am not speaking for the benefit of the honorable gentleman from Georgia. I am not speaking for this House. I am speaking, sir, for posterity."

"Yes," replied Foster, petulantly, "and if you keep on a little longer, posterity will hear you."

A party of travelers sat down in a country tavern to a scanty luncheon. Their hunger was great; the prospect of appeasing it small.

The wag of the company proposed to work a miracle; and taking up a plate of little dried up hams, began to shake them to make them hop about. The landlady, observing the performance, asked what was wanted.

"Keep still!" cried the wag; "there is a famine here; and I do this in order that we may have a bun-dance!"

The miracle was wrought the landlady has tening to bring on her good things.
