WITH all the hard practicability of Amer ican life, there is in it a strong undercur-rent of speculative thought, a liking to dwell on the immaterial and mysterious part of nature. Left to itself, the tendency degenerates into spiritualism table wrapping, mesmerism, and all kindred follies, in their foolishest phases. Trained and instructed, it can find a boundless and worthy field in grappling with those subtle questions which in all ages have claimed the attention of master minds.

Bad goods require dark rooms, and as uany articles of merchandise seem valuable till taken into the light, so there are many things which appear fair till they are set in the light of God's countenance. Before Him the friendships we often profess are nothing but instances of selfishness: and the prayers and praises we often engage in are forms of godliness. We may come to His house as His people came, sit and hear his words, and commend the preacher, and with our mouths show much love, while He sees our hearts going after covetousness. And how dreadful to think that He will hereafter develope all, and divulge all respecting us; and that we have always been before assembled world! Pitiful! that a man should so care for riches as if they were his own, yet so use them as if they were another's; that when he might be happy in spending them, he will be miserable in keeping them, and had rather dying leave wealth with his enemies, than being alive, relieve his friends.

EXERCISE IN NERVOUS DISEASES, -An English writer and surgeon, Mr. Skey, expresses his strong conviction, in which we heartily join him, that there are many diseases, at least many forms of indisposition which, with a strong will, may be walked away, provided the exercise be taken systematically and rendered a prominent feature in the daily treatment. Tone is imparted by this means to both mind and body, cheerfulness replaces gloom, and sympathy for others a morbid dwelling on self. The exercise should be active, and not consist of either strolling or sauntering out of doors, or even amateur gardening. A good brisk walk should be taken at a pace of at least three miles an hour, but always stopping short of fatigue. People will be often heard to say that they ake plenty of exercise about the house, and that they are on their legs many hours of the day. What is wanted for the health is exercise without fatigue, for fatigue is exhaustion, and the desired object is only to be gained on the terms just stated. The distance walked could be increased daily and it will be found that increasing strength will give the readiness and wish for increasing exercise. There is an accumulation of incapability in those who are afflicted with what are vaguely called nervous disorders, which render such persons restless, fidgety, irritable and full of strange fancies, and which is best brought down to a healthy oncomitant change of scene and new trains of thought. of South Carolina, urged on by his Southern friends, had made his speech which called forth that immortal reply of the great "Northern Lion," many of Webster's friends, struck with Hayne's real ability began to say to each other, "Can Webster answer that?" Mrs. Webster was present at the Capitol, and was greatly agitated at the fire and force of the hero of South Carolina. She rode home with a friend in advance of her husband. At last the "Lion" came tramping up to the door and marched in, in an easy, unconcerned way. His wife has tened into the hall just as she was, and with tears in her eyes, said to him, "Can you—can you answer Mr. Hayne?" With a sort of grunt or quiet roar her lord turned upon her. "Answer him? I'll g-r-i-n-d- him finer than that snuff in your In due time the Websterian thunder rolled through the arches of the Capitol, and Hayno was ground fine

"What do you think now," says the General's friend to his southern acquaintance, 'of our northern lion?"

The reply came quick, but rather angrily. 'He's a long-jawed, strong-jawed, tough hided devil!'

ERRORS -The little that I have seen of the world and known of the history of manroom was the dining-room, and on the other kind, teaches me to look upon their errors in sorrow, not in anger. When I take the dining-room there was a table, capable of history of one poor heart that has sinned and suffered, and represent to myself the struggles and temptations it passed through; The vital truth is tersely summed up by of the carriage. The Emperor's study con- the tears of regret; the brief pulsations of joy; the feebleness of purpose; the scorn of the world that has little charity; the desolation of the soul's sanctuary and threatening voices within; health gone, happiness gone, I would fain leave the soul of my fellowman with him from whose hands it came.

A CAUTIOUS JUDGE.-An Irish indge tried two most notorious fellows for highway robbery. To the astonishment of the court, as well as of the prisoners themselves, they were found not guilty. As they were being removed from the bar, the judge, addressing the jailor, said: "Mr. Murphy, you would greatly ease my mind if you would keep those two respectable gentlemen until seven or half-past seven o'clock, for I mean to set out for Dublin at five, and I should like to have at least two hours start of them.'

TRUST IN GOD. -He that taketh his own ares upon himself, loads himself in vain with an uneasy burden. I will cast my cares on God; he hath bidden me. They cannot burden Him.

Pure love is the sunshine which steals lowly and silently up the bleak hill of earth's journey, and warms us with its genial presence through a life's weary way.
