

THE GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

To the exclusion of our usual variety of news and reading matter, we publish this Message as might be expected from an honest, straight forward man, whose only aim, in the discharge of his official duty, is the greatest attainable prosperity of his State, and the highest good of her people.

THE ORGANIZATION OF THE LEGISLATURE.

The last issue of the INQUIRER announced the organization of the Senate of Pennsylvania, and the nomination of Hon. E. W. Davis, of Philadelphia, for speaker of the House, but up to the time we went to press the House remained unorganized.

John T. Richards, Esq. of this District, was of the number, and we give him all credit for consistency. Mr. Richards represents a district in which there is a unanimity of feeling on the subject of a Free Railroad law which does scarcely admit of an exception.

We are satisfied that he had the best of reasons for supposing that Mr. Davis was in the interest of the Central and consequently antagonistic to this great measure. Mr. Richards is a conscientious man and would only follow when duty leads the way.

The following card explanatory of their course was placed on the record: HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, January 10, 1868.

We, the undersigned, Republican members of the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, having declined to attend the caucus of our party friends held for the purpose of making nominations of persons to fill the offices of this House, and having up to this time withheld our support from the nominee of said caucus for the position of Speaker, desire to lay before this body our immediate constituents, and the people of the State, the reasons which have influenced our action.

We have been opposed to the election of the candidate for Speaker presented by the caucus above referred to, because we believed, and still believe, that the wisdom, people and the interests of the Republic party at this time, in this State, demand the election of a Speaker, with, among others, the following qualifications:

First. One who is in all respects free from responsible connection with the past legislation of this body, considered offensive by the people. Second. One whose record and life show him to be in favor of reforming the abuses that have crept into the management of public affairs in this State, and of retrenching in all practicable ways the expenditures of the Commonwealth.

Our temporary separation from those with whom we have heretofore acted has been painful to us. The step was taken in the first place, not from a feeling of disappointment or revenge, nor from disposition to be antagonistic to those who are our party friends by their votes in this body, but by his published remarks and speeches, and by his surroundings, we have not deemed him the person best qualified to meet the just expectations of the Republican voters of the State, or to give strength to that party organization which saved the country from disruption by war, and to which a patriotic people look for wise government in peace.

By a little delay, we have not been disappointed. The candidate for the Speakership presented by the majority has not been withdrawn as we had hoped he would be, but he has given us such pledges and assurances that we feel we have gained substantially the object we aimed at, and that our course will be fully justified by the prudent and independent character of the legislation that they will in power in this House will enact during the present session.

Not having, therefore, any further end to gain that will justify a longer delay, and desiring that the House be organized as speedily as possible, that the public business may be transacted, we will bow respectfully to the will of the majority.

ANDREW ARMSTRONG, J. BOYD EBY, AUGUSTUS REBERT, SAMUEL M. CAMANT, JOHN T. RICHARDS, GEO. R. RIDGLE, DAVID L. SMITH, H. S. WHARTON.

Davis, on taking the speakers chair, spoke as follows, in regard to the measure which these gentlemen had good reason to suppose he would endeavor to defeat:

"We should also have a general railroad law, a liberal, practical, comprehensive one, under whose operations capital would be invested to develop the immense resources of the State. Let the Legislature be true to what seems to be the almost universal demand of the people, of every section of the State, by taking away restrictions to the free system of internal commerce, get at the ways of guarding the rights of individual citizens, invite capital to come freely and develop our inexhaustible fields of iron, coal and other minerals, as well as the immense lumbering regions, and this can only be accomplished thoroughly, by giving the right to open every locality of the State, containing such sources of wealth to free and wholesome competition. That it may be properly understood I am in favor of which the House will speedily pass the much agitated and greatly needed Free Railroad Law."

A number of journals, we are led to believe, were instigated to attack these fearless champions of justice by improper influences, but where such influences were not brought to bear and the merits of the case were fully understood, they do receive credit for their efforts to rid us of the Railroad monopolies. The following comments from the Philadelphia Post are in the proper spirit.

"In this case the responsibility appears to have been taken with good reason. We do not know that there was any prof, up to the delivery of his address, that Mr. Davis would not be found among the appointees of railroad reform—a reform which the Governor in his message declares necessary. At the resumption of the State, and which the people unquestionably demand. Governor Geary said—"it will open new avenues to distant markets; improve the value of property; give new impulse to immigration, and add to our general prosperity."

Other States have tried this course, and with satisfactory results; and there is no reason why Pennsylvania should be a laggard in the grand march of progress and improvement." So long as Mr. Davis was supposed to be an enemy of a law thus desired by the Governor, so generally called for by the people, so long as it was not positively certain that he was its friend—the seven bolters had justification for their course. If Mr. Davis has always been an earnest supporter of railroad reform, we can only regret that he allowed his position to be doubted; if he was in any way interested in the preservation of monopoly the public may now rejoice that he has frankly pledged himself to aid in its destruction. We are glad that the difficulty is at an end, and that the Legislature is ready to go to work, but if the bolt has helped the speedy passage of a general railroad law, we cannot think that the week has been wasted.

TO ALL MEN AND WOMEN OF PENNSYLVANIA.

A Convention of the Friends of Temperance will be held in the Court House, in Harrisburg, beginning ON TUESDAY, THE 18TH OF FEBRUARY, 1868, at ten o'clock in the morning, to continue so long as it may find business. Each person attending the Convention, who has purchased a ticket to Harrisburg at full rate, on the Philadelphia and Erie Railroad, or The Northern Central Railway, will receive at the Convention a Free Return Ticket. Return or Excursion tickets for one fare will be granted only on the condition that the ticket is used on the Reading Railroad, the East Pennsylvania, and the Lebanon Branch, to all persons who travel over these roads to attend the Convention.

All Churches, Colleges and Academies, all Temperance Societies, Divisions of Sons of Temperance, Temples of Honor and Temperance, Lodges of Good Templars, County Societies auxiliary to the State Temperance Union, and all other friendly societies, whether herein named or not, are requested to have themselves represented by such a number of delegates as they may choose. All persons, whether delegates or not, who desire earnestly to combat the Vice of Intemperance, and that Temperance and Virtue shall prevail in the Commonwealth, are cordially invited to be present, to consult together, and devise ways and means for the relief of suffering humanity. The Convention will meet in February, 1867, did much good.

Under the auspices of The Pennsylvania State Temperance Union, 260 public Temperance meetings have been held, and more than 4600 names have been added to the Temperance Pledge. By the aid of this Organization, and the seal and activity of the Sons of Temperance, Temples of Honor, and Lodges of Good Templars, County Societies, more meetings have been held, more sermons and addresses delivered, more organizations formed, and names to the Pledge obtained, during the past year than during the entire year of the past year. It is hoped that the Friends of Temperance will assemble in this Convention in greater numbers than before, so that the promoters of Vice and Immorality, who say, "Sirs, we know that by this craft we have our wealth," only regret that the friends of Virtue and Religion are not appalled by opposition; but thanking God for past success, and trusting in His continued blessing, will labor on until their homes and firesides are free from the Demon of Intemperance.

The Pennsylvania State Temperance Union will hold its Annual Session in Harrisburg during the week of the Convention, for the Election of Officers and Managers. The Report of the Managers will be presented for discussion, and eloquent speakers will be present to enlighten the occasion. All persons at the Convention and others (male and female) will have an opportunity to become members of the State Union, and all auxiliaries are requested to send delegates to the Annual Meeting as well as to the Convention.

On behalf of the Board of Managers of The Pennsylvania State Temperance Union. JAMES BLACK, President. W. M. NICHOLSON, Resident Secretary, 115 South Seventh Street, Philadelphia.

Hon. William D. Kelley, and Hon. Chas. O'Neil of the National House of Representatives and Hon. Alexander Stutzman and John T. Richards, Esq. of the Pennsylvania Legislature will accept our thanks for their public documents.

THE PACIFIC RAILROAD.—The Pacific Railroad has been extended past Cheyenne, five hundred and forty miles west of Omaha. The graders and choppers are in the Black Hills. Only ten miles of track remain to be laid to the highest point of the Rocky Mountains, and the road has to cross. Winter, it seems, has not delayed the work of construction, which will be continued through all the winter months.

Even at this season when the gorges and defiles of the mountains are often obstructed by snow, the cost of building the road per mile has not, as we are informed, exceeded if it has equalled, the estimates. Nearly thirty miles of this great thoroughfare may be completed by the annual cost of maintaining a single regiment of cavalry on the plains; and the saving to the government in the transportation of freights will almost pay for the entire advances made toward the construction of the road.—World.

THADDEUS STEVENS is in his seat at the opening of the House every morning, and though rarely rising to speak, he is constantly surrounded by members, who consult his judgment on current topics and duties. A few days ago, while a noisy Copperhead member was abusing his lord of the white rebels South and his hate of the black man, a gentleman, who was listening to the tirade, said to Mr. Stevens, "I wonder what that angry Democrat wants?" "Why," said the old man with the quiet smile, "what he wants most is—brains!" Mr. Stevens cannot ascend the stairs leading to the Capitol, so two stout fellows are employed to carry him up. The other day as they were bearing along their not very heavy burden, he turned to them and said: "Have you ever thought, my friends, who will be kind enough to take all this trouble for me when you two invalids have died?" The men laughed heartily at the veteran's grim philosophy.

The feeling of the despondent; the traveler, the voyager, the laborer, the sedentary student, the soldier, on the frontier of civilization; the toiler, cooped up in crowded city tenements; the convalescent, needing an invigorant; the shivering victim of age, and the nervous of both sexes everywhere, would learn, with grief, too deep for words, that the most celebrated corrective, invigorant and alterative of the age, had been blotted out of existence. As a PREPARATORY ANTIDOTE to epidemic disease, a general stimulant, a promoter of constitutional vigor, an appetizer, a stomachic, and a remedy for nervous debility, no medicinal preparation has ever attained the reputation of HOSIERY and BATTERS.
