the nomination, which he has purchased, is made, he can not control three opposi-tion votes in favor of it. This is more likey to be the case than otherwise. We candidly believe the delegate system to be the fruitful source of bribery and corruption, which can only be remedied by a system which will permit every man to cast his ballot for the man who, he thinks, would be the man for the place, and that ballot should count one in the aggregate towards his nomination. Of course a system of this kind would have to be regulated by some well defined rules, so as to make it work

SCOFIELD-WOODWARD.-At the close of one of the fierce debates which now daily occur in Congress, Judge Woodward ap-proached Judge Scofield, and said-''1 ex proached Judge Scofield, and said----''l ex-pect to live to see this Government full to pieces." This was uttered with all the hauteur peculiar to Woodward. He spoke it like a fiat, and no doubt he expected at that instant to hear the crash of the dome of the capitol falling on the marble pave-ment beneath. The supercilious sympathi-zer with treason was regarded but an instant by Judge Scofield, who, glowing with indig-nation, at once scathingly replied to Wood-ward---''AND I, SIR, EXPECT TO LIVE TO SEE THE DAY WHEN YOU ARE AN INMATE ward—"AND I, SIR, EXPECT TO LIVE TO SEE THE DAY WHEN YOU ARE AN INMATE OF AN INSANE ASYLUM." Had lightning descended from the brilliant glass ceiling of the House and struck Woodward on the head, he would not have wilted sooner than he did beneath the electrical keenness of Scofield's retort.—State Guard.
