"BY-AND-BY."

Was the hand clasped very sight?

Is a storm of tear-drops falling

From a face all sad and white?

Was the parting very bitter?

In a coming "by-and-by." Is your frail boat tossed and battered With its sails all torn and wet, Crossing o'er a waste of waters Over which your sun is set? To the shore all calm and sunlit, To the smooth sand warm and dry, Faith shall bear your shattered vessel Safely, surely, "by-and-by." Does the tired head long for rest, Are the temples hot and throbbing, And the hands together pressed? Hope shall lay you on her bosom, Cool the poor lips parched and dry, And shall whisper, "Rest is coming,

Rest forever, 'by-and-by."

And when calmed and cheered and freshen By her soul-inspiring voice, Then look up, the heavens are bright'ning, Cease your wailing and rejoice; Cry not out for days departed, None will hear you, none reply; But look on where light is breaking O'er a brighter "by-and by."

A BEAUTIFUL EXTRACT.

It was night. Jerusalem slept as quietly amid her hills as a child upon the breast of its mother. The noiseless sentinel stood like a statue at his post, and the philosopher's lamp burned dimly in the recesses of his chamber. But a moral darkness involed the nations in its enlightened shadows. Reason shed a faint glimmering over the minds of men; like the cold and insufficient shining of a distant star. The immortality of man's spiritual nature was unknown, his elations unto heaven undiscovered, and his inture obscured in a cloud of mystery. It was at this period that two forms of ethe sen people.
