The Internal Revenue Laws, framed by a Republican Congress, apportioned the taxes, abso lutely required for the national support, in such a manner as to bear heaviest upon those who could best bear them, and lightly, or not at all, on the poor. Under that law to-day no man pays an income-tax unless his Christian civilization shall suffer by the conincome is over a thousand dollars. Under tact is a question of vast and solemn imthis law scarcely fifty men in Bedford county pay an income tax, and the great majority of the people pay no government tax at all. This is judicious and statesmanlike; exempting the poor and middle classes entirely from the burthen of taxation. Truly this is not equal taxation, but it is the taxation that pays the debt of the nation without laying its burthens upon the poor and must conquer or be conquered.
