Noticing a recipe in the Prairie Farmer for last week for keeping cider sweet by means of adding "grated horse-radish in the proportion of a tumbler and a half to a half barrel of cider, and fearing that many barrels of at weddings. this delicious and healthful beverage might be injured thereby, I venture to caution all who love a mug of good cider -as who does not?—egainst its use.

That there is a substance in horse-radish which arrests the fermentation of cider and other substances liable to pass into the acetons fermentation, there is no doubt. And it is equally true that horse-radish ordinarily imparts a most nauseous and disagreeable flavor 'heard music which made him wonder how to the cider which it preserves, making it he got in without a ticket." alike unpleasant to drink and useless for Another excellent substance designed to effect the same result is the bisulphite of lime. This agent works to suppress fermentation by means of the sulphurous acid of which the sulphite of lime is in part composed. When sulphur is burned in the air it unites with the oxygen and forms sulphurous acid; saits of this acid are called sulphites. ed in the report of the Agricultural Department, a Mr. Wolfinger says, the cheapest, most easily attainable and best of all manures for a corn crop, is a dense mass of red clover, either in its green or ripened and dried state, plowed down three or fore inches only; just deep enough to prevent wastage, and yet near enough to the surface of the ground to be acted on by the sun's heat and the air. In its decay, clover thus affords certain nourishment to the young and expanding roots of the corn. Both corn and wheat grown over a clover lay are very generally free from disease and insects, and better in yield and quality than crops grown on or with animal manures. But to secure this, we must manure the clover with three hands, will thresh from 50 to 75 bush while yet young, with liberal supplies of plaster, lime or fine well-rotted manure spread broadest over the growing plants.

With the latest Improved Tripple-Geared Horse Power, driven either by Gear or Belt.
No. 1 is a eight-horse power, with cast iron thresher frame and wrought iron and wood cylinder, sixteen inches in diameter and thry-three inches long. Trunk has ten inch rake crank and seven rakes is thirty-five inches wide, and delivers the straw on the second rake, these carry the straw out on their tops, and deliver it on the stack o., which will deliver about thirty five feet beyond the feeder, on a stack fifteen to eighteen feet high, and can be easily managed to carry the chaff with the straw, or deliver it in a separate place. The trunk and fan sides being closed, to confine the straw and chaff, remedies all discutties in cleaning grain against windy weather.
It bags the grain by reasonable management, salficiently clean for market, and its capacity, under ordinary circumstances, is from twenty to forty bushels per hour, using eight horse and the same number of hands; but to force the work under favorable circumstance, it will thresh from forty to fifty bushels per hour, and with more case and agreeableness to hands than any other machine now in common use.

The No. 2 is particularly adapted to the farmer's use; in intending to apply to any common lever or railway power; weighs 1,300 pounds; has an iron threshers frame, and cylinder, 124 inches in diameter and 28 inches long; delivers the clean grain in bagz, or if desired, in a half bushel. It delivers the straw fifteen feet from the feeder, or if desired, can deliver the straw and chaft together; will thresh and clean, in good grain, ready for market, from 100 to 175 bushels of wheat, or from 300 to 500 bushels of oats per day, using four or six horses, and the same number of hands; but to force the work, under most favorable circumstances, good grain, &c., will thresh and clean clean all kinds of grain generally threshe with the common machine, and requires no more horse power, but in many cases does not run so hard. It will apply very well to a two-horse power, but in many cases does not run on a deal it will apply very well to a two-horse rail-way power.
