Loctry. BEAUTIFUL STANZAS.

There is no heart but hath its inner anguish,

O'er hours of darkness it can ne'er forget. There is no cheek however bright its roses, But perished buds beneath its hues are hid; No eye in its dewy light reposes, But broken star beans tremble neath its lid. There is no lip, howe'er with laughterringing, However light and gay its words may be, But it hath trembled at some dark upspring-

Of stern affection and deep misery. We are all brothers in this land of dreaming, Yet hand meets hand, and eye to eye replies; Nor deem we that beneath a brow all beam-

MY LOVERS TWAIN.

My lovers twain-my lovers twain I pray you let me be! To wed you both I would be fain, Only that may not be. One lover is like music sweet, That steals my heart away ; And one is like the trumpet-blast,

Which calls me to the fray. One is of gentle, courteous mind, To low and high degree; And one is stern and harsh of mood, And melteth but to me. One is so strangely loveable,

That but to touch his hand Do women kneel-before the one Do men uncovered stand. And if I this one do not wed, He never wife will seek : And if that one I do not wed,

He sorroweth a week. My lovers twain-my lovers twain, Ye should have let me be: I love the one with all my heart-

GERERAL SHERIDAN has transmitted to Gen. Sherman eighteen or twenty pages, foolscap, of talk which two big Indian chieftains, had on the first of January. The burden of the discourse of each the chiefs was: "Me muchy good hearte-me belly muchy empty!" General Sheridan preached to them, in effect, as follows: "Let us have peace. The Government will treat you fairly, and if you don't behave yourselves you will get cleaned out. Go!' THE following conversation is reported between two irreverent little boys in the streets of Portland, Me.; "Johnny, do you see that game-looking old cock going along there?"—"You bet—who is he?" 'That's Pitt Fessenden.'' "Who is he?" 'He's the man that kept 'em from hanging the President, Ben Butler and his fellows were going to string Andy Johnson right up in the Capitol when Fessenden pulled out a big butcher knife and swore they shouldn't do it unless they walked through him.
