OUTRAGEOUS TYRANNY.

It is no uncommon thing to have every act of a Republican administration stigmatized as one of tyranny. High handed outrages on Democrats of the ultra rebel stamp have been common things, to be seen in every copperhead paper for years. Another high handed outrage we have been looking for lately has not yet appeared, but this week's Gazette will doubtless contain it in flaming capitals. No less a personage than the high and mighty money king and railroad monopolist is the victim. A certain Satrap of Grant's, named Delano of the Internal Revenue Department is the offender. His crime is no more nor less than ordering a revision of the income returns and a re-as sessment of such as carpet-bagged and es caped the former assessment. Now Asabelongs to this class, indeed it is principally composed of Democrats, and the outrageous character of the act is, that Asa, right in the midst of the campaign, will be obliged to give in on the $30,000 arrears of taxes, or leave his princely home and, neglecting important political business, go carpet bagging to Philadelphia and other places until Delano's assessors give up the chase. Now Asa has sworn and ran and traveled and prevaricated until he thought he had fairly and finaleluded the assessors and it is hard to have to repeat the thing so soon. It is an outrageous act of tyranny on the part of Grant's Satrap. Oh, poor, poor, Asa! Must he shell out the thirty thousand as last! Poor fellow! He has only made a million or two this year out of the coal strike. Alas! Alas! Even Asa, the great aristocrat, will at last have to come down with the cash. He didn't want to be honest but Uncle Sam compels him. What eruel tyranny! Where's Booth?
