This is but one side of a truth, and I give it for whatever it may be worth. Had my father plunged into the primitive forest in his twenty fifth rather than his forty-fifth year, he would doubtless have become more recon ciled to pioneer life than he ever did. I would advise no one over forty years of age to undertake, with scanty means, to dig a farm out of the dense forest, where go trees must be cut down and cut up, rolled in to log-heaps and burned to ashes where they grew. Where half the timber can be sold for enough to pay the cost of cutting, the case is different; but I know right well that digging a farm out of the high woods is, to any but a man of wealth, a slow, hard task. Laking one out of naked prairie, five to ten miles from timber, is less difficult, but not much. He who can locate where he has good timber on one side and rich prairie on the other is ortunate, and may hope, if his health be spared, to surround himself with every need eer's life is a rugged one, especially for wo men and children; and I should advise any onn who is worth $2,000 and has a family, to buy out an "improvment" (which, in moeases, badly needs improving) on the outskirts of civilization, rather than plunge into the pathless forest or push out upon the unbroen prairie. I rejoice that our Public Lands | which to hide my punished head." are free to actual settlers; I believe that many are thereby enabled to make for them selves homes who otherwise would have nothing to leave their children; yet I much prefer a location within the boundaries of civilization to one clearly beyond them. There is a working, frontiersmen, who seem to have reply. been created on purpose to erect log cabins of settlers, who regularly come in to buy old lady down from the third floor to see an hem out and start them along after a few alley-gaiter. years. THIS UNEQUALLED BOOK concerns the THIS UNEQUALLED BOOK concerns the property, business, individual rights, and social privileges of every one, and affords a fund of legal knowledge that to many will make it worth its weight in gold. The simplicity of its instructions, the comprehensiveness of its subject, the accuracy of its details, the facilities afforded in its perfect arrangement, and the conciseness and attractiveness of its style, as well as its cheapness, make it the most desirable of all legal hand-books. No effort or expense has been spared in adapting it theroughly to the times, and affording in it the most recent and useful information.

In its main catures it still follows in the path marked out by frougham, Jeffrey, Sydney Smith, and Lord Hol-and, its original founders and first contributors THE LONDON QUARTERLY REVIEW. hich commerces its 128th volume with the Jan-ary number, was set on foot as a rival to the DINEURGH. It resolutely maintains its opposi-in is politics, and shows equal vigor in its liter-volument resolution.

3. THE WESTMINSTER REVIEW has just closed its 92d volume. In point of literary ability this Review is fast rising to a level with its competitors. It is the advocate of political and religious liberalism. 4. THE NORTH BRITISH REVIEW.

a. The North BRITISH REVIEW, win its 51st volume, occupies a very high po-jon in periodical literature. Passing beyond e narrow formalism of schools and parties, it peals to a wider range of sympathies and a gher integrity of conviction. BLACKWOOD'S EDINBURG MAGAZINE was commenced 52 years ago. Equalling the Quarterlies in its literary and scientific departments, it has won a wide reputation for the narratives and sketches which enliven its pages.
